Profile Of Marin Juvenile Delinquency

By MARY LEYDECKER

(First of two articles)

Along with a high cost of living, gh salaries and a high educational vel, Marin Couny is also b l e s s e d ith a special kind of "upper middle ass neglect" which produces a spe- al type of delinquent youngster.

About half of the young p e o p l e ooked into Marin County Juvenile all each month have not committed hat are usually thought of as crimin- l acts but are there basically because f family problems, according to Supt. rick F. Yarchin.

Crimes of violence, including mur- der, assault, rape and armed rob- bery, are rare among Marin juve- niles, he said, and often there are no such juvenile bookings in the monthly report from this county.

Instead, Marin teen-agers, "often very unhappy and mixed up kids," are usually booked on such juvenile offenses as r u n n i n g away from home or being beyond parental control.

Yarchin, who has spent his adult life in this work but in other counties, said that Marin has the "largest number of neglected c h i l d r e n I've ever seen."

He described the kind of f a m i l y w h i c h gives youngsters cars, swimming pools and money but "no parents."

"I like to call these switchboard homes," Y a r c h i n said with a wry s m i l e, explaining he meant that the members of the family only checked in occasionally to see what messages had been left for them.

Probation officers describe a 14-year-old boy, cleancut and nondelinquent, who has been awaiting a placement in a foster home b e c a u s e his mother, just m a r r i e d for the fifth time, does not want him with her because of the new marriage.

The boy does not want to live with his father so he has been made a ward of the court and is awaiting placement in Juvenile Hall.

"We have a large striving-parent group in Marin," Yarchin said, who are spending their energies and time in business and social pursuits rather than with their families.

"The most shocking case I've seen was a mother who arrived at the hall with her 9-year-old boy one Monday morning," he said. "She wanted us to take the boy because he was beyond her control.

"I couldn't help but think to myself that my own 9-year-old boy had been beyond my control a hundred times over the weekend and it never occurred to me to turn him over to someone else."

He quickly added that he was not accusing all Marin parents of not taking responsibility for their children.

"I w a n t to emphasize that most parents whose children are brought to Juvenile Hall are concerned about the youngsters and take the responsibility for them," he said.

But what about the sad little group who are products of this special type of neglect?

"F o s t e r homes are undoubtedly the best answer in most cases," Yarchin said, "but the secret is proper matching up of foster parents and children."

TOP OF THE MORNIN', KIDS!

A routine walk to school by three Novato youngsters had a bizarre interlude today. The trio — (from left) Terry Stonecipher and Cindy Georgeson, both 11, and Ricky Georgeson, 9, all students at Marion School — were s t r o l l i n g along Seventh Street when they were greeted stonily by an odd-looking lady wearing the seat of a lawn chair for a hat and pushing a rusted shopping cart. Pranksters, using some of the 60 cubic yards of rubbish (rear) collected from a weekend cleanup along Novato Creek, had meticulously created their own piece of art.

Gen. Torres Sworn In As President

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Leftist Gen. Juan Jose Torres was sworn in today as president of Bolivia, the victor in a power struggle between left and right that carried Bolivia to the brink of civil war. He told a cheering, ecstatic crowd he would end hunger in Bolivia.

Torres was backed by the air force, students, leftwing laborers and a ragtag army of peasants who swarmed through the streets of La Paz as Torres drove to the presidential palace in triumphant procession, stopping from time to time to shake hands with the multitude.

WITHOUT A SHOT

Once at the palace, which was taken without a shot being fired, he was carried to a balcony on the shoulders of his followers where he pledged to end poverty in this poverty stricken nation and reminded them "I have known hunger."

Students in the throng interrupted his brief speech from time to time with shouts of "power to the workers", a demand that he turn Bolivia to the left. When he had finished speaking, the crowd sang the national anthem and gave him an ovation.

Torres, who admires but does not actively support Cuba's Fidel Castro, won out when a three-man military junta set up Tuesday collapsed in disorder and troops loyal to him took over the presidential palace which the junta abandoned.

PALACE BUZZED

Torres' victory had been assured when Gen. Fernando Sattori, chief of the air force and a member of the junta, threw his support to Torres last night. Yesterday a handful of air force World War II P51 Mustangs buzzed the palace and strafed a recalcitrant military barracks in the suburbs.

The two other members of the junta disappeared from the palace early today but turned up later at the air force base where Torres had his headquarters. Immediately afterwards Torres went on the national radio to announce triumphant-

COMMUNAL LIVING

Prevention Easier Said Than Done

Preventing communal "families" of six or more unrelated persons from occupying a house is easier said than done, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday after running into a series of legal snarls. (Other board of supervisors, stories, page 13.)

Three attorneys, two from the Marin chapter of the American Civil L i b e r t i e s Union, questioned the constitutionality of a proposed county ordinance to limit communal living in one-family homes.

The p r o p o s e d ordinance would limit the use of a one-family home to families related by blood or marriage "or a group of not more than five p e r s o n s, other than foster children or exchange students, who need not be related, living together as a single housekeeping unit."

"Under that ordinance six College of Marin s t u d e n t s couldn't live together, even if one of them owned the place," declared Richard J. Wertheimer of Kentfield, representing the ACLU. He was joined by Robert B. McCreadie of Novato.

"Is it for the board (of supervisors) to be so presumptuous as to say this is a family and others are not?" asked Wertheimer. "It is vague, arbitrary, discriminatory a n d legislates against a class of people."

McCreadie noted that the ordinance would penalize the owner of a house, whereas the owner often has no control over the number of occupants after he rents the place.

Attorney Frank Solomon Jr. of Lucas Valley, argued that the ordinance would penalize the young and the poor who lack funds for an apartment or a house and would drive them into trespassing in parks and public roadways.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. foresaw difficulty in enforcement. "Supposing you find six people sitting at dinner and tell them they are under arrest. And they say, 'Are you kidding, we're dinner guests.' How are you going to enforce it?"

Supervisor Louis H. Baar said the intent is to stop 10 and 15 unrelated people living in a one-family home, with t h e i r cars taking up all the parking spaces.

Margaret B. Azevedo said she

Israelis See U.S. Taking Hard Line

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli diplomatic sources today welcomed what one described as a "harder line" by the United States toward Egypt and the Soviet Union in the Middle East crisis. The British criticized the United States for suspending Big Four power talks on an Arab-Israeli peace settlement.

In Cairo, the National Assembly met to approve the nomination of Anwar Sadat as president to succeed Gamal Abdel Nasser, who died of a heart attack on Sept. 28.

Israeli diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said the U.S. suspension of talks by the deputies of the Big Four U.N. ambassadors in New York indicated increased skepticism by the Nixon administration of Soviet and Egyptian sincerity in the search for a peaceful solution in the Middle East.

They said that in suspending the talks until Soviet-Egyptian missile violations of the current cease-fire are "recitified," Washington clearly backed Israel's refusal to continue with U.N.-supervised peace talks until the missiles are pulled back from the Suez Canal standstill zone.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said Tuesday his government was willing to extend the current cease-fire, scheduled to expire on Nov. 5, for another 90 days but will not withdraw a single missile from the Suez front. He denied that Egypt had violated the terms of the cease-fire and said it would continue to increase the number of Soviet-built missiles along the canal if it can.

British officials in London indicated that the U.S. move came as a surprise to the government of Prime Minister Edward Heath. And they made known in a hardly-concealed criticism of Washington that the British government favored

Labor Leader Denies Role In Violence

A Marin Labor official testified today in Marin Superior Court that he was an onlooker at the violence-wracked Valentine's Day rally outside the Independent-Journal building in San Rafael. But did not see anyone throwing objects or paint at the building or setting fire to a newspaper truck.

Charles B. Weers of Novato, secretary-treasurer of the Marin Labor Council, also said neither he nor the labor council had any role in planning the demonstration in support of members of S a n Francisco Typographical Union 21, on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7.

Independent-Journal attorneys Gary T. Giacomini and Nathan R. Burke are seeking to prove that the Marin and San Francisco labor councils, ITU Local 21 and Newspaper and Periodical Drivers Local 921 and some of their officers were in contempt of a temporary injunction issued Jan. 28 by Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating.

The contempt hearing was in its second day. Judge Keating was ill yesterday and the hearing was resumed this morning.

Weers said he saw the events of the morning of Feb. 14 from a vantage point on a street next to the former San Rafael Courthouse.

He said he could see a crowd in the public parking lot behind

President Wants Ban On Ocean Dumping

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon called today for a total ban on disposal in ocean waters of poison gases and other kinds of toxic materials, and for strict controls on dumping trash and wastes at sea.

"Man does not treat the oceans well," Nixon said in a message to Congress: "He has assumed that their capacity to absorb wastes is infinite, and evidence is now accumulating on the damage that he has caused."

The President said he would recommend legislation to stop U.S. use of the seas as dumping grounds, with hopes this would be followed by international agreements along the same lines.

The President sent Congress a 44-page report by the Environmental Quality Council which detailed damage caused by ocean dumping and suggested a series of strict rules to preserve the seas.

"I endorse the Council's recommendations and will submit specific legislative proposals to implement them to the next Congress," Nixon said.

The report said ocean dumping of materials "clearly identified as harmful to the marine environment or man" must be prohibited. It said that dumping of materials which could be harmful should be phased out.

"No ocean dumping of chemical warfare materials should be permitted," the report said. "Biological warfare materials have not been disposed of at sea and should not be in the future.

"Ocean disposal of explosive munitions should be terminated as soon as possible."

The Army's dumping of a large quantity of nerve gas in the Atlantic Ocean east of Cape Kennedy, Fla., last summer created a major uproar, with

Nixon's Aides Hint Early Cease-Fire Appeal Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon tonight plans to announce broad new Indochina peace proposals which are understood to call first for an early cease-fire in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

The President will disclose his suggestions, aimed at cracking the lengthy deadlock in the Paris negotiations, on a nationwide television broadcast at 6 p.m. PDT. The proposals will be presented to the Communists at the Paris talks on Thursday.

Officials were unusually tight-lipped concerning details of Nixon's plan. They indicated, however, that in addition to the sweeping cease-fire proposal, he might announce that the U.S. combat role in Vietnam will be ended by the early part of next summer. This goal, although never publicly stated as such, is the objective of Nixon's previously announced troop reductions.

The President's proposals also are expected to call for early consideration of the release of prisoners of war.

However, the Viet Cong insist that discussion of captives and work on a political solution to the war could come only after the United States had pledged to have all its troops out of Vietnam by next June 30.

Nixon long ago proposed gradual withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces over a one-year period if the Viet Cong and Hanoi agreed that all North

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

To Reduce Booms

QUINCY, Calif. (UPI)—The Air Force has promised to reduce the sonic boom rate in this mountain community, Plumas County Grand Jury Foreman Ken Kolb reports.

Quincy, a town of 2,700 high on the banks of the Feather River in the Sierra Nevada, has been "logging 15 sonic booms a week," Kolb declared Tuesday while announcing results of a talk with an Air Force officer.

He quoted Lt. Col. Gabriel Kardong of nearby Beale Air Force Base as telling jurors the boom planes came from McClellan Air Force Base near Sacramento, where airplanes are repaired.

"The Air Force promised to move the test pattern," Kolb said.

Nike Launched

The rocket was fired at 5:47 a.m. and the cloud reached a peak altitude of 167 statute miles. It was visible along much of the East Coast before daylight.

A similas launch last week produced pastel-shaded lights that were seen from Portland, Me., to Greenville, S.C., and as far west as Minneapolis.

Social Dilemma

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—President Nixon created a social delimma Tuesday with his announcement of a White House state dinner Oct. 24 for heads of state attending the 25th anniversary session of the U.N. General Assembly.

A U.N. spokesman said Secretary General Thant had not been informed of Nixon's plan to hold the dinner. The dinner conflicts with a scheduled social event for the U.N.'s delegation heads.

'Lame Duck' Round

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has decided officially it will meet again after the November elections, the first such "lame duck" session since 1950.

The "lame duck" tag is put on such meetings because some of the lawmakers who will return to their desks will have been defeated —and will be conducting the public business even though their mandate from the voters has been withdrawn.

Under the schedule announced Tuesday, Congress will recess Oct. 14 so those lawmakers up for reelection can go hunting for votes. They will come back Nov. 16 in a session that could last until Dec. 1 or later.

Plane Grounded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The plane which carried part of the Wichita State University football team safely to Logan, Utah, last week has been ordered grounded by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The airworthiness certificate of the twin-engine Martin 404, whose sister ship carrying the rest of the team crashed in the Colorado mountains killing 30 persons Friday, was ordered withdrawn Tuesday after the FAA found at least 16 safety violations.

The FAA cited "engines saturated with oil which created a fire hazard, excessive oil consumption in both engines and an arcing battery cable."

No Blast Clues

SALISBURY, N.C. (UPI)—Sheriff's deputies said today an all-night search by a posse of law enforcement officers failed to turn up any clues in a mysterious explosion which rocked homes and shattered windows over a 20-mile area.

Some witnesses reported seeing a flash in the sky at the time of the blast about 9:30 Tuesday night, but aviation authorities said there were no scheduled civilian or military planes in the area at the time.

The Rowan County sheriff's ofifce said a search had failed to turn up any sign of wreckage and "we don't know any more than we did when the first call came in."

AGNEW PROTEST — Pittsburgh police arrested a demonstrator after an unruly crowd of protesters gathered outside the Hilton Hotel where Vice President Agnew addressed a fund-raising dinner last night. Thirty-nine persons were arrested. (UPI Telephoto)

Police Break Up Agnew Protest; Vice President Slaps Goodell

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Police arrested 39 demonstrators in three clashes outside a downtown hotel in the worst outbreak of dissent directed against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew since his current campaign swing began.

In his speech in the hotel Tuesday night, Agnew softened his criticism of maverick elements in the Republican party, but kept up his fire on Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R.-N.Y. Agnew did not mention the demonstrators.

In the two hours before Agnew spoke, police broke up a flag-burning demonstration and two sidewalk sit-ins. Those arrested included two men charged with burning the American flag, eight juveniles, several women, and two men in a small car accused of trying to run down a policeman.

Policemen broke the windows of the car with billy clubs to get at the driver and a passenger. Both were beaten when they offered resistance.

Using half a dozen police dogs and swinging clubs, police dispersed a crowd that refused to move off sidewalks, saw it reform a few blocks away, and waded in again. Police and nearby hospitals reported no injuries. Most of those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct and obstructing traffic.

Agnew praised "unity in diversity" and declared: "A clique that cleaves only to one view is not a political party at all in our American tradition; it can be no more than a cult incapable and unsuited to lead the nation."

But he charged that Goodell had used President Nixon as his "private punching bag" and had deliberately alienated himself from the Republican Party.

Agnew chose the occasion of a GOP fund raising-dinner for Sen. Hugh Scott—who has himself been at odds with Nixon on a number of major issues—to tone down his previous hardline criticism of dissident party members. Agnew said Scott's differences differed from those of "radical-liberals" like Goodell because on the major issues like international affairs, national defense, and key domestic issues "he has repeatedly stood by the President—often in the face of intense political pressures from within his own state."

Goodell, on the other hand, "has sought flamboyantly and ceaselessly to openly divorce himself" from the President, and thereby forfeited a right to administration support in his current bid for re-election.

Goodell Says Agnew Turns Clock Back

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Charles E. Goodell accused Vice President Spiro T. Agnew of "divisive rhetoric" Tuesday night while Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller asked the White House to keep out of New York politics.

Agnew has called Goodell, a Republican running for a full term, a member of an "awful liberal-radical coalition" who has left his party. Agnew has supported Conservative party candidate James L. Buckley to the extent of appearing at a fund-raising luncheon on his behalf.

QUESTION FOR VOTERS

"Such an attack—which by implication casts doubt on my very patriotism and fitness to hold office—raises some questions for the voters of New York," Goodell said at a New York State Liberal party dinner.

He said, "The toughest question facing New Yorkers in this election is whether they are still free to vote their own minds for a candidate whom they feel will best serve their intersts—or whether their vote is to be dictated from powerful interests outside the state.

"These powerful interests—represented most dramatically by the vice president's divisive rhetoric—seek to turn back the clock on all the great progressive changes made in this state over the past several decades," Goodell said.

WHITE HOUSE CALLS

Rockefeller, campaigning in Buffalo for re-election, said he had asked the White House to "let us handle our own political problems."

He said he telephoned presidential aides to attempt to keep Agnew from further involvement in the Senate race in New York and that he would discuss the matter with President Nixon.

"The people of New York State don't need outside help to tell them how to vote," the governor declared.

Abortion Exception

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Catholic Archdiocese of Philadelphia, a month late in its endorsement of the United Fund, has urged Catholics to stipulate in writing that their contributions must not be given to hospitals performing abortions.

Nausea Gas Used By Reds In Attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist troops used nausea gas for the first time today in the six months old Cambodian war to attack rear-guard position of a stalled government offensive. Front dispatches said they also dragged civilians out of hiding and shot them.

The attack hit the village of Prakham, 48 miles north of Phnom Penh and four miles behind the operational front line, UPI correspondent Kate Webb reported from the scene. She said the attack started at midnight behind a barrage of mortars, rockets and heavy weapons fire.

Miss Webb said one of six dead civilians was a young girl, killed when her flimsy palm thatch house received a direct hit from a B40 rocket. A senior field officer said the other civilians were dragged by the hair out of trenches where they were hiding and shot in the head.

When the fighting ended at dawn three Cambodian soldiers and six civilians were found dead. More than 20 Cambodian soldiers were wounded but it was not known how many civilians were wounded. The North Vietnamese attack force, estimated at 200 men, left 12 bodies behind.

"I think the North Vietnamese wanted to warn the civilians not to cooperate with us," one senior field officer said. "They are also trying to cut our supply lines—but some of the civilians were assassinated..."

Late this morning hundreds of civilian refugees streamed from the village southward down Route 6, taking with them their household belongings, cows and water buffaloes. It was a scene reminiscent of the attacks on villages in the war in South Vietnam.

Miss webb said she saw two Vietnamese bodies of young men wearing North Vietnamese khaki regular uniforms. She said the Cambodian troops had stripped two medallions from the bodies reading "Be a hero—kill the Americans" and "Don't be a nothing—be a hero."

Senior officers said the nausea gas, fired in the warheads of mortars, had made the Cambodians' eyes smart and then made them sick. They said they took a cannister to the main operational control post where it was identified as nausea gas.

Col. Littaye Soun Aime, commander of the rearguard troops between the operational front line at Tang Kauk, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh, and Skoun, 35 miles northeast of the capital, said the situation behind the front line was not good.

Aime declined to speculate on the number of North Vietnamese operating behind the frontlines of the stalled Cambodian drive toward Kompong Chom but said "they don't give me much sleep." He said they shelled Skoun during the night, killing one Cambodian soldier.

Romanian Leader Hurt In Car Wreck

VIENNA (UPI) — The Romanian news agency Agerpres disclosed Tuesday night that Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer, 68, suffered a serious shock in an automobile accident Monday. It said his condition was improving.

Maurer, No. 2 man in the Romanian government, is under close medical supervision to prevent complications resulting from multiple injuries which brought on shock, an official said.

ly: "The opposition has given up."

The unknown factor was still Gen. Regelio Miranda, the rightwing leader who led the coup against Ovando. He was believed to be in Miraflores military base along with officers loyal to him. It was he who named the junta.

Crowds of Torres supporters swarmed through the streets of La Paz today and began sacking the homes of the three junta members. Groups of workers raced through the city calling on the workers to support the general strike which helped bring Torres to power.

"My peoples, my armed forces, I swear to complete your mandate, placing myself at your exclusive and total service."

He said his government was a popular one because it emanated from the people. He said he had been raised in the humblest of surroundings "and I have known hunger." He said "I want to eradicate poverty, I want work for all so that there will be more bread."

In a speech Tuesday night Torres explained why he acted: "The extreme rightists of the army high command have succeeded during the past three months to impose their judgments and criteria on the acts of the government, turning it towards the right. Now we propose to exercise absolute vigilance over the revolutionary mandate."

Although an avowed leftist, Torres was commander of the army during the campaign against the guerrillas in 1967 when U.S.-trained Bolivian rangers tracked down and killed guerrilla leader Ernesto "Che" Guevara.

The long festering political chaos in Bolivia came to a head on Sunday when Gen. Regelio Miranda, the conservative army chief of staff, began the process of ousting President Alfredo Ovando Condia. The President resigned Tuesday to avert civil war and the junta was formed.

Torres, who was ousted as commander of the armed forces two months ago because of his leftist leanings, immediately announced he was the new president. Labor organizations called a general strike to back his claims and were joined by students and professional men.

Outside the city a force of peasants began marching on La Paz armed with ancient Mauser rifles they had used years ago in a war with Paraguay. Their forces were estimated from 2,000 to 7,000.

Inside the city army cadets guarding the government palace fled and handed the keys over to Sgt. Juan Chuvi. When troops loyal to Torres marched up to seize control Chuvi merely handed them the keys and there was no bloodshed.

is concerned about the mixing of physical zoning laws with regulation of social behavior. "We don't measure density by numbers. We certainly don't talk about relationships — whether they are related by blood. I think this would get us into a lot of trouble."

Peter Brekhus, a Greenbrae attorney, came out flatly for the ordinance. "It is quite clear this type of legislation is proper and constitutional. I don't think communes are desirable. I'd urge you to go ahead.

"You need three votes to approve this and I'm not about to vote for it," snapped Supervisor Michael Wornum. (Chairman John F. McInnis is on vacation, and William A. Gnoss had left a few moments before to keep a luncheon commitment).

Wornum said low cost housing is a problem in Marin, and voters last June did not help any by turning down 600 more low cost housing for the county.

He said low income families and those on welfare are being forced to double up or live on the roadsides. Wornum added he has some experience as a landlord and sees enforcement problems. "If the landlord himself cannot control it, I dont' see how the county can do it."

Acting chairman Baar announced he would put the matter over to either Oct. 27 or Nov. 3 when a full board will be present. He said he would ask citizens who requested the ordinance to attend that meeting.

A proposed companion ordinance, which would ban habitation in campers or panel trucks on any street or roadway was also put over for future discussion.

NIXON

Vietnamese troops also would leave during that period.

Some diplomats speculated that Nixon would, in effect, turn the latest Viet Cong plan around to make withdrawals and discussion of a political solution contingent upon a cease-fire and prior discussion of the release of prisoners of war.

Nixon, who had withdrawn 115,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam by mid-April, announced at the end of that month that another 150,000 would be brought out by next spring. U.S. officials said the date he had in mind was May 1.

Burglary Case To Higher Court

Steven Gregory Samochim, 33, of San Rafael, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of attempting to burglarize a San Rafael doctor's office on Sept. 7.

He is to be arraigned Oct. 19.

Samochim was arrested after a doctor who was working in his office on Labor Day said he recognized Samochim who, he said, was trying to break a glass door.

Burglary Case Goes To Superior Court

David Mathew Sliney, 18, of Terra Linda, yesterday was bound over the Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing an office building in Northgate on Aug. 3. He is to be arraigned Oct. 19.

Sliney was arrested after he reportedly tried to pawn a stolen typewriter in San Francisco.

"The United Kingdom believes it is important that the conference of the Four Powers' machinery of conciliation should continue to function and should be seen to do so," the officials said.

"The purpose of a Four Power discussion has been to give assistance to U.N. mediator Dr. Gunnar V. Jarring. We believe it is still necessary to work towards this end."

With the situation in Egypt apparently headed towards normalization, diplomatic attention once again focused on the cease-fire along the Suez Canal. indications were the 90-day truce which began Aug. 7 would be extended at least for another three months by Israel, Egypt and Jordan.

In Jordan, Palestinian guerrillas began pulling out of their northern strongholds, leaving the way for the government of King Hussein to take control. Their withdrawal, which started Tuesday and is expected to take three days, was provided for in the truce negotiated by the Arab League.

Meanwhile, Lebanon got a new government. Premier designate Saeb Salam formed a new 12-man cabinet in Beirut early today. Salam replaced outgoing Premier Rashid Karami.

Brindel's Wife Asks Dissolution

The wife of Paul F. Brindel of Novato, writer for Roman Catholic publications and a former subdivider and builder, filed for dissolution of their 26-year marriage yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

Mabel Marie Brindel asked support and a share of community property. She also asked that the court grant either a dissolution or a legal separation, citing irreconcilable differences.

According to the petition, the Brindels, who have no children, were married in San Rafael in 1945. Brindel, 75, retired from the Hearst newspapers in 1945 and after that, built homes in Novato and wrote for several magazines. He is reportedly now in Jordan as a correspondent.

Driver Injured In San Rafael Crash

A 22-year-old San Rafael woman said she would see her own doctor for minor injuries suffered in a two-car collision at Second and D streets, San Rafael, at 7:30 a.m. today.

Police said Cheri A. Roller of 304 D Street, Apt. 10, was hurt when her car collided with one driven by Richard William Harder, 37, of 872 Las Pavadas Avenue, San Rafael.

Union Aide Denies Role In Violence

the I-J singing and milling around. He said they became excited and had their arms in the air, but he could see nothing being thrown.

Weers, however, said he could hear the sound of breaking glass and could see smoke rising from the parked newspaper truck although he did not see it being set afire.

Weers testified that shortly after Jan. 28 he was served a copy of Judge Keating's injunction and that he forwarded it to the labor council's attorney. He said no general notice of the injunction terms was sent to the 8,000 members of the labor council's participating unions.

Weers also said he had no idea how his name came to be included on a flier calling for support to the Feb. 14 rally, nor did he or the labor council have any role in planning the event.

He said the labor council did play an active part in announcing an earlier rally, on Jan. 17, with resulted in less strife.

On Jan. 28, Judge Keating's temporary injunction limited the number of pickets to two per entrance at the I-J plant and ordered the unions to obey 14 other conditions. These included prohibitions against blocking the entrances or sidewalks, any violence or threats of violence to I-J employees or firms doing business with the I-J, use of loud obscene or boisterous language and other restrictions.

The terms of the preliminary injunction were worked out in conference between union and I-J attorneys.

On. Feb. 16, following the Valentine's Day uproar, the I-J filed declarations charging the unions, their leaders and the labor councils with contempt of the injunction, as a result of the Feb. 14 happenings.

After a series of court hearings and technical amendments of the declarations, the action resulted in this week's hearing.

A total of 17 persons were injured in the Valentine's day demonstration. Six of the victims required hospital treatment.

Sausalito police oficer William Palmini suffered a pierced hand when a roofing nail was fired at him; San Rafael Patrolman John Rosentangle was treated for face cuts and a bruised head after being hit by a picket sign and clawed by a demonstrator, and San Rafael Reserve Patrolman Daniel Duffcy was treated for a bruised right leg after being struck with a club.

Union supporters treated at hospitals included Alvis Dean Bailey and James Starkey Broke, both of San Francisco, for head and scalp bruises and cuts, and John Clancy of San Francisco, who suffered a fractured left leg.

Valentine's Day was marked by two high tides of trouble. After several hundred union members and sympathizers rallied at 7:30 a.m. in the city parking lot on A Street behind the I-J building, a march commenced around the newspaper plant. As the marchers chanted, nearly every window on the ground floor was smashed, and rocks, machine bolts, crude stench bombs and other objects were hurled through windows on the upper floors by hand and with large slingshots. paint was splashed on the walls.

At the same time an I-J delivery truck near the paper's Julia Street loading platform was battered and set afire.

San Rafael police quickly led 100 officers in forming a thin line completely about the building. Officers stood five yards apart, their backs to the shattered windows, facing demonstrators who continued marching around the block. After police warnings that their assembly was illegal, most of the marchers withdrew to the A Street parking lot.

Relative quiet prevailed until about 1 p.m., when an unidentified motorist tried to drive away the auto he had parked near the I-J on Julia Street. Surging demonstrators blocked the car's exit; picket signs swung and rocks flew as police cleared a path for the car.

Police again and again ordered the crowd to disperse, and warned reinforcements were arriving. Missiles continued to fly, and finally police formed a line to clear Julia Street and the parking lot.

After learning the I-J did not intend to try to distribute an edition that day, union leaders persuaded most of their members and many sympathizers to leave the area.

Preliminary Set In Marijuana Case

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Oct. 20 for Michael Brown Bick, 19, no known address, who is charged with possessing marijuana when arrested Sept. 28 on Shoreline Highway.

Sheriff's deputies said they were called to the area because Bick had reportedly been bothering residents. They said he threw a plastic bag of suspected pot into a ditch but that it was retrieved.

San Rafael Woman Hurt In Car Wreck

A 23-year-old San Rafael woman was treated for a cut face at Marin General Hospital at 10:25 p.m. yesterday following a two-car collision at Third and D Streets, San Rafael.

Police said Christine L. Gibson of 103 Golden Hinde Boulevard was hurt when her car collided with one driven by Robert George Benz, 28, of 23 Scenic Avenue.

Man Is Treated For Cut Wrists

Clark Fullerton of 35 Tamalpais Avenue, San Anselmo, was treated Monday at Marin General Hospital for apparently self-inflicted cuts on his wrists, according to San Anselmo police.

The hospital, which referred the incident to police, yesterday withheld comment on Fullerton's condition.

OBITUARIES

MABEL HARTMAN

Mabel Hartman of Novato died today at the age of 81 at a local hospital, 15 months after suffering irreversible brain damage from carbon monoxide inhalation.

Mrs. Hartman, a widow, formerly lived at 710 Bradley street, but had been hospitalized since found May 1, 1969 unconscious in a garaged car, a hose leading inside from the exhaust pipe.

The Marin County coroner's office tentatively attributed death to the brain damage suffered. Mrs. Hartman's request, in a note found beside her that day, that her eyes be donated to the Dawn Society eye bank in San Francisco, could not be fulfilled because of the required autopsy, according to the coroner's office.

She was born in Alameda County and had lived in Novato 45 years. She and her husband, William Hartman, formerly owned the Happy Day Farm on Novato Boulevard just west of the O'Hair property being considered for a city park. Her husband died in 1962.

She leaves no immediate relatives.

HAROLD WILKINSON

The body of Harold Stanley Wilkinson was found in a bedroom by his son, David Wilkinson of San Francisco.

Wilkinson, 72, was a native of England.

The Marin County Coroner's office said cause of death was unknown pending an autopsy.

WILLIAM SAVAGE

Funeral for William T. Savage, brother of Jack Savage of Greenbrae, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Christ Church in Portola Valley, San Mateo County.

Savage, 43, died Monday in Woodside. He was a native of Great Falls, Mont.

He also is survived by his wife, Jean, and son and daughter, Ann and Kirk Savage of the home in Woodside; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Savage of Great Falls and a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Campbell of Anaheim.

LILLY LEHMAN

Lilly Mae Lehman, 78, of Bloomfield, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

A native of Fayetteville, Ark. she had moved to California in 1947 and had lived at 11545 Sutton Road, Bloomfield, for nine years.

She is survived by six daughters, Flora Lehman of Bloomfield, Frances Smith of Monrovia, Los Angeles County, Minnie Hicks of Fayetteville, Ark., Hattie Heavner of Howe, Okla., Bobbie Lehman of Sonoma and Ollie Flox Fowler of Heavner, Okla., and two sons, George Lehman of Sonoma and Albert Lehman of Fayetteville, Ark.

OCEAN

some marine experts contending that as the gas escaped it would result in a major kill of sea life.

The Environmental Council's report said present policy prohibits ocean dumping of wastes with a high level of radioactivity and said ocean dumping of most other radioactive materials should be prohibited unless there was "no alternative offering less harm to man or the environment."

The council urged a termination as quickly as possible of ocean dumping of industrial wastes and of undigested sewage sludge, the solid by-product of municipal waste water treatment processes.

In his message Nixon cited a section of the council report concluding that "the current level of ocean dumping is creating serious environmental damage in some areas and the volume of wastes dumped in the ocean is increasing rapidly."

The President expressed concern that some cities and industries were turning increasingly "to the ocean as a convenient sink for their wastes."

Pleads Guilty To Forgery Charge

Terry Sue Schieman, 21, of Larkspur, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of trying to use a forged prescription to obtain drugs at a Corte Madera pharmacy on Aug. 13.

She had originally been charged with a felony count of the same offense.

Judge Peter Allen Smith set sentencing for Oct. 30.

Four Arrests In Explosives Scheme

DANVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Undercover Treasury agents posing as extremists with a scheme to blow up Chicago's Federal Building and railroad yards have arrested four Danville youths in connection with the seizure of 700 pounds of stolen explosives.

Agents said the youths, members of a downstate Illinois gang, contacted them about trading the explosives for money and weapons.

Agent Joseph Scott said Tuesday two undercover agents, whom he refused to identify, arrested Michael McMahon, 20, Monday night near a pickup truck parked on a country road south of Danville where the exchange was to take place.

ROBERT SKINNER
Among four suspects

The truck was loaded with ammonium nitrate, primers and blasting caps, agents said.

The three other youths, Robert Skinner and William Moore, both 18, and a 16-year-old juvenile were arrested Tuesday.

McMahon and Skinner were arraigned on charges of conspiring to possess and transfer destructive devices. They were held on $5,000 bond in the Vermilion County jail.

Charges were to be filed today against Moore and the juvenile, a police spokesman said. They were held in the same jail.

The stolen explosives were believed to be the same kind used in the Aug. 24 bombing of a University of Wisconsin research building which left one researcher dead and caused up to $6 million damage.

"Ordinance men tell us there's enough of that stuff to blow up three city blocks," Scott said.

Authorities said the confiscated explosives, first taken to Camp Atterbury, Ind., to be detonated, were sent back to Illinois to be returned to the firms from which they were stolen.

Scott said the ammonium nitrate was taken from the Material Service Corp. stone quarry and the blasting caps from the Deep Valley coal mine, both near Danville, earlier this month.

Scott said the scheme to apprehend the youths began more than a month ago after one of the gang members contacted an agent posing as a revolutionary bent on bombing sections of downtown Chicago.

"I told them I was connected with a left-wing organization and that we wanted to blow up the federal building in Chicago and railroad yards and anything else we could find," one of the Treasury agents said.

After the initial contact, the youths promised to call the agents when they had the explosives. Scott said that call came a few days ago.

Inverness Pair Reported Lost Aboard Canoe

Two Inverness men aboard a red-sailed outrigger canoe were listed as missing today somewhere between that community and San Francisco, the Coas Guard reported.

The two men, Richard E. Horton, 31, and Michael Needham, 25, left Inverness yesterday at 530 a.m. en route to the St. Francis yacht harbor in San Francisco, the Coast Guard said.

At 4:25 p.m., when the two men had not notified their families of arrival in San Francisco, Horton's family phoned the Coast Guard seeking assistance.

Janice Yates Wins Tam Freshman Post

In a runoff election this week at Terra Linda High School, Janice Yates was chosen freshman class president by the margin of two votes.

According to a spokesman at the school, Miss Yates defeated her opposition, Steve Listug, by a vote of 126 to 124.

On Thursday, during the original election, Alix Downs defeated Gayle Zielgar for secretary and Dave MacNamara was elected treasurer while running unopposed.

About 250 of the 550 freshmen turned out to cast their ballots on Thursday, and besides electing class officers, elected seven class representatives. They are Jeff Hudson, Betsy Eastlund, Suzy Ellsburg, Holly Barker, Debbie Franzblar, Janice Sangester and Bart Bright. The seven were running to fill eight positions.

Other vote totals were not released by the school to avoid embarrassing the losers.

Behr Coffee

A coffee for Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, Republican nominee for state Senate, will be held at 8 p.m. on Oct. 17 at the Novato home of Dr. Richard A. Gaebel, 205 Grandview Avenue.

Condition Good From Car Fall

A 20-year-old man was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with bruises suffered when he fell out of a car on Shoreline Highway at 830 p.m.

The California Highway Patrol reported Noah Richards, of Chatsworth, Los Angeles County, was riding in a van driven by Peter K. Wohltmann, 20, also of Chatsworth, when he began to feel sick and opened the front door.

Officers said he apparently lost his balance and fell out as the van slowed to a stop.

Weathermen Claim Credit For Bombing

NEW YORK (UPI)—A letter assertedly written by three prominent members of the Weathermen claims credit for a bombing Monday in Chicago and promises attacks against "the enemy" next week around the country.

The letter, postmarked Monday in Chicago, was signed by Bernardine Dohrn, Jeff Jones and Bill Ayers, sought as fugitives since their indictment for conspiracy and violation of the federal antiriot act. It was received Tuesday by the Youth International Party (Yippies) here.

The letter referred to the explosion early Monday that destroyed the statue of a policeman in Chicago's Haymarket Square for the second time in a year:

"A year ago we blew away the Haymarket pig statue at the start of a youth riot in Chicago. Last night we destroyed the pig again. This time it begins a fall offensive of youth resistance that will spread from Santa Barbara to Boston, back to Kent and Kansas.

"Next week," the Weathermen statement said, "families and tribes will attack the enemy around the country." There were no specifics given.

The letter predicted victory in a revolution against "America."

"We are building a culture and society that can resist genocide. It is a culture of total resistance to mind-controlling maniacs, a culture of high-energy sisters getting it on, of hippie acid-smiles and communes and freedom to be the frahest out people we can be...

"We are not just 'attacking targets' — we are bringing a pitiful helpless giant to its knees."

The Yippies, who released the letter and recordings with the same message, are the group which includes Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman, the members of the Chicago Seven.

Judge Rejects Newton Bid For Bail Reduction

OAKLAND (UPI) —A judge, who declared Huey Newton actually was asking for a reduction in bail, refused Tuesday to substitute $50,000 worth of state water bonds for the cash the Black Panther Party leader had posted.

In turning down the proposal, Judge Harold B. Hove noted in Alameda County Superior Court that the five bonds offered would now sell for around $26,000 and would not be paid until 2015.

Newton goes on trial Jan. 11 charged with voluntary manslaughter in the death of an Oakland policeman. His earlier conviction in the shooting was overturned by the State Supreme Court which found judicial technical errors.

10 Coffees Slated For Smallman

Ten coffees for Robert A. Smallman of Kentfield, candidate for Marin Municipal Court judge, will be held throughout Marin during the next week.

The coffees will be at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at the San Rafael home of George Slevin, 160 Holmes Avenue; at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Woodacre home of Jack Barnes, 43 Carson Road; at 10:30 a.m. on Friday in the Sausalito home of Dr. Frank Rossman, 4 Santa Rosa Avenue; at 8 p.m. on Friday at the Novato home of Richard R. Kuhn, 363 San Luis Way; at 8 p.m. on Monday at the Lucas Valley home of Ron Marinoff, 66 Mount Rainier Drive;

At 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday at the Novato home of Alton Fountain, 2424 Vineyard Road; at 2 p.m. on Tuesday at the Larkspur home of F. J. Buscher, 7 William Avenue; at 8 p.m. on Tuesday at the San Rafael home of Dr. Peter Gauder, 20 Edgewood Way; at 10:30 a.m. next Wednesday at the Larkspur home of William Secor, 93 Corte Del Bayo, and at 8 p.m. next Wednesday at the San Rafael home of Wayne White, 208 Mark Twain Avenue.

McGovern To Speak In Marin

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., a possible candidate for President in 1972, will address a fund-raising dinner for Assemblyman Jess Unruh, Democratic nominee for governor, on Oct. 20 in Sausalito.

The $25-a-ticket fund-raiser, at the Alta Mira Hotel, will start with cocktails at 7 p.m., followed by dinner at 8 p.m. Unruh will attend.

McGovern, who made a brief, unsuccessful presidential bid in 1968 following the assasination of Robert F. Kennedy, recently said he was "going to reserve any judgement about a candidacy for 1972."

Seashore Future Will Be Discussed

Conservation groups concerned with the future of Point Reyes National Seashore have called a meeting for 9 p.m. tomorrow in the Inverness Coffee Shop.

Jerry Friedman of Inverness said the meeting will be held to discuss hopes that the National Park Service will restrict vehicular traffic to some regions of the seashore, particularly the Mount Vision area, to avoid disturbing rare wildlife.

$15,000 Warrant In Pot, LSD Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $15,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Jimmy Lee Clemons, 21, of no known address, when he failed to appear for a preliminary hearing.

He is accused of possessing marijuana and having LSD for sale when he was arrested in Larkspur on a traffic warrant in October 1969.

Anti-Credit Card System Spreading Around World

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mike M. Yamano, 33, is the head of an anti-credit card ring and it's spreading fast.

From its Los Angeles base, his United International Club Inc., has galloped from Okinawa to New York operating on a simple premise—cash.

The key to the operation is a green and gold plastic card that looks deceptively like the ones credit card companies give away.

But with Yamano's card, the customer is entitled to discounts of from 10 to 40 per cent on merchandise when paying by cash at participating businesses, more than 70 in Los Angeles alone.

"Businesses are willing to take $90 for a $100 suit if they can get cash," says Yamano, who in a little more than a year has attracted 22,000 customers.

"They avoid the expense and worry of billing or discounting the charge out to a credit card company, or adding carrying charges and interest for long-term collection."

"There is no trick," he says. "The merchant can't mark up the price and then offer a discount, because he doesn't know he has one of the cardholders until it comes time for him to close the sale."

The so-called reverse credit card comes at a time when the credit card has come under national scrutiny for its possible effects on inflation and consequences for customers who lose such cards.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader recently told a congressional subcommittee that the credit card has become so powerful, some businesses will not accept cash anymore—just credit cards.

It may seem odd that one of the lone dissenters to the credit card bugaboo is a man from Japan whose family owns and operates the largest chain of beauty salons in that country.

Yamano came to the United States 15 years ago with the aim of creating a similar chain of salons but was waylaid with the idea of reverse credit.

Through his cash incentive company, Yamano hopes to push good will world-wide by promoting discounts to enable customers to save money for travel and at the same time save money on merchandise in foreign countries.

In order to display the UNIC decal, businesses pay $25 a year and a list of all participating companies, specifying the size of the discount each offers, is sent to all cardholders.

"Why, we even have dentists who will take $500 today for a children's job that they would bill $1,000 for under pre-UNIC conditions," Yamano said.

Services offered under the unique reverse credit card scheme include hotels from Los Angeles to Hawaii, car rental agencies, paint store, restaurants, barber shops, theaters, furniture-appliance stores and travel tour agencies.

UNIC advertised one discount of 40 per cent for a round-trip fare from Los Angeles to Tokyo

Henry Fischer, owner of La Salle Carpets, gives a 33⅓ per cent discount on his goods. "It is a very good idea, it has attracted a great amount of business," Fischer says.

The emergence of Yamano's cash incentive plan, coupling with several others offered by banks and savings and loan companies, is perhaps a David in a world of Golaith's where about 400 million credit cards are reported in circulation. But the credit card has a built-in risk.

There are about 100 million credit cards holders in the U.S. and each year some 1.2 million cards are lost and 300,000 stolen.

There are more than 16,000 cases a year reported by major oil companies alone, and one experienced an 80 pe CENT INCRease in card frauds during 1968.

Milton Lipson, director of security for American Express, said misplaced cards are often kept by dishonest waiters or bartenders and sold to organized crime rings at prices ranging from $50 and $250.

He said the cards are then given to agents who purchase airlines tickets and other merchandise which is then sold to an innocent third party.

A POPULAR PLACE

Marin Hopefuls Finding No Nursing Shortages

Take the case of registered nurses who want to live in Marin but find more of themselves than there are jobs.

This is despite the widespread public conception that all phases of the health profession are suffering a manpower shortage.

The reason for the nurse surplus is that "Marin seems to be a very popular place to live," according to Ann Walsh, registrar for the Marin Nurses' Association. Officials of Marin County's four major hospitals agree that there appears to be a large backlog of nurses, contrary to most other parts of the United States.

In her job-finding role, Mrs. Walsh talks with the California Nurses Association and other counties' registries. Compared with the rest of Northern California, Mrs. Walsh — a registered nurse herself — finds "at this period we are overstaffed."

"Since April, the demand here for nurses has fallen off terrifically," she said.

One registered nurse in her 50s, estranged from her husband and supporting a child, said she was nonplussed to find no place to work in Marin. Trained at a Midwestern clinic and most recently a public health nurse in a private girls' school, she said every advertised opening "has 30 to 40 applicants."

At the same time, she reported, families are being told by hospitals that private duty nurses are in short supply. "It's very confusing," she said.

Charles Womer, administrator of Ross General Hospital, was the only one who held out much hope for a registered nurse seeking a full-time job in a hospital. Although his facility has no openings now, he said that "there's never a good nurse, a well-qualified nurse, who cannot find a job." Such a person probably could find a spot on his hospital's staff within two or three weeks after applying, Womer said.

He explained that Marin is home for many nurses who want to work part-time — their husbands either work in San Francisco or are in military service at Hamilton Air Force Base or in San Francisco.

"But the real backbone of nursing care" in his hospital is the full-time nurse "who supplies the continuity of care," Womer said. He noted that his institution also is seeking licensed vocational nurses.

Private duty nurses — who stay with one patient continuously for days, weeks or even months, often without a day off — are hard to find, said Womer and Mrs. Walsh. Most of Marin's married nurses do not want to take such jobs. Few families can afford to hire such nurses at $40 per eight-hour shift for 'round-the-clock care, Womer pointed out.

Mrs. Walsh noted that many Marin nurses seeking full-time jobs first find work in Vallejo, Sonoma County or elsewhere, then shift to Marin as openings occur.

Guilty Plea To Dope

Thomas Roy Taggart, 30, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing a device for smoking marijuana.

Taggart, who had originally been charged with felony count of possessing marijuana, was placed on probation for one year and fined $100 by Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Taggart was arrested Aug. 1 after Sausalito police stopped his car because it had no tail lights and discovered he had outstanding traffic warrants. A search of his jacket revealed a hand-rolled cigarette.

U.C. Student Is Sentenced

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A University of California student from Greenbrae has been sentenced to Alameda County Jail for his role in May 5 disturbances on and near the campus.

Michale A. Conroy, 20, of 7 Corte Cayuga, was among 44 persons arrested in the troubles. He pleaded guilty in Berkeley-Albany Municipal Court Monday, to a charge of assault on a police officer.

Conroy was sentenced to 91 days in county jail, with one day suspended, and ordered to start serving his term on Oct. 26.

JUDGE TRIES TO COVER THE SUBJECT

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Randy Simon, 20, his bid to overturn a college rule against long hair frustrated by the ingenuity of a federal judge, went shopping for a short-hair wig.

Judge Wallace Gourley suggested a compromise: a wig during classes, natural hair by night.

Simon said he would wear the wig at least to registration.

Sewer Panel Objects To MMWD Role

Directors of Richardson Bay Sanitary District don't oppose formation of a combined Southern Marin sewage district, but they don't want the Marin Municipal Water District to operate it.

This is the gist of a resolution adopted by directors at a special meeting Monday, reported president Douglas de la Fontaine.

"We don't want out of the combined district," de la Fontaine said, "but we don't want it forced on us, either."

He said the board desires eventual dissolution of all Southern Marin sanitary districts, including its own, and the formation of a combined agency with directors elected at-large.

This proposal differs from one advanced by the water district, in which the district would be governed by a board not elected from the area which it serves, de la Fontaine said.

"Our business is sewage, and we know our business," he said. "The water board doesn't know how to run a sanitary district."

Complaints On Movers Sought

Consumer complaints on intrastate household moving are being solicited by the Sausalito-based Association of California Consumers.

The association is seeking the complaints as evidence for rules changes to be heard by the California Public Utilities Commission later this month.

Sylvia M. Siegel, executive director of the association, said it particularly wanted documented xases on estimates that were exceeded hy 10 per cent, losses that were not paid for by insurance, and delivery date promises that were not honored.

The association's office is at 3030 Bridgeway. The hearings, beginning at 10 a.m., will be held on Oct. 14, 15, 16, 28, 29 and 30 in the State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

Discussion On School Format

The San Anselmo Shool District board tonight will consider development of a new planning format for education.

Meeting at 7:30 o'clock at Brookside School, the board will consider using the new format now as opposed to when it may be made manditory by the state in 1973.

It involves outlining education goals, means of achieving them and measuring success.

The board will also consider readvertising for the principal's position at Hidden Valley School, discuss the educationally handicapped program and hear a report on proposed use of district recreation funds, among other items.

BRIDGEWAY'S PARKING BAN IS EXTENDED

The Sausalito City Council lastnight extended the test parking ban on Bridgeway another 30 days and set a special meeing for Nov. 5 to discuss the test's merits.

The council's action came after a decision that a full night was needed to assess the successes and failures if the parking ban on the city's busiest street. The council will meet at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Sausalito Zone Panel Is Sought

Seeking to streamline lengthy city council meetings, Sausalito City Mgr. Albert R. St. Cyr last night recommended the formation of a three-member zoning commission to hear most of the zoning requests which now go before the full city council.

Although the council merely referred the suggestion to the planning commission for study, councilmen individually seemed to favor the idea.

St. Cyr recommended that such routine matters as variance requests, conditional use permits, plan approvals and zoning change requests go initially before the proposed commission.

He said he felt the city's planning director should be one member of the commission.

St. Cyr made the recommendation after a study showed that the lengthiest items on the city council agendas were usually those related to zoning.

Councilman Stephen A. Fraser said he felt that persons who having their zoning requests denied by the commission on a split vote be allowed to appeal to the city council but those whose denials are unanimous not have the appeal opportunity.

This suggestion ran into some opposition from both Robin Sweepy and Mayor Alexander R. Imaly, each of whom said they felt the right of appeal "should not be tinkered with."

Zoning matters now go first to the planning commission for a recommendation and then to the city council for action.

The Sausalito City Council also:

VARIANCE — By a 4-0 vote — with Fraser abstaining — the council denied as a possible traffic hazard a variance request from Alexander Anolik to allow him to install a unique parking device in his garage at 911 Bridgeway which would allow parking four cars in a two-car garage. Lifts would have held two cars in the air above those parked on ground level.

MARINSHIP STUDY — Voted 5-0 to ask the planning commission to make a detailed study of the Marinship area's section of the city general plan.

RECLASSIFICATION — Held over until a future meeting a request from Edith R. Ritchie for rezoning of her property at 76 Cazneau from single family residential to zoning which would allow a duplex.

TAXI — Held over until next meeting a decision to grant an exclusive franchise to one taxi cab operation or allow competition within the city.

ZONING VIOLATION — Ordered David Suckle to confer with the city's building department on alleged zoning violations at his home at 193 San Carlos Avenue. The city complains that Suckle has constructed two illegal rooms in his garage area.

BOND SUPPORT — By a 5-0 vote, council endorsed voter passage of Propositions B and C on the November ballot. The two bond issues, if passed, would allow Marin Community College District to begin construction on the north campus and stop deficit spending in operation of the Kentfield campus.

AFRICA TRIP — By a 5-0 vote, endorsed an education trip to West Africa by two Tamalpais High School students, who will be accompanied by James T. Toliver, Jr.

Misplaced Line Garbles Meaning

A misplaced line of type garbled the meaning of a portion of a story [illegible]erday's Independent-J[illegible] Monday's meeting o[illegible] Rafael City Council.

The [illegible]led points were that archite[illegible]ral approval of a self-service gas station's signs was technically the only subject before the council and that councilmen could find nothing in city laws prohibiting self-service gas stations in San Rafael.

The council refused approval of the signs.

A Patient Wait On Street Paving?

A somewhat surprised city council learned last night that it was going to have to pave a portion of Cazneau Avenue . . . a job that should have been completed at least 24 years ago according to city records.

A somewhat sheepish Wyman Hicks, head of the council's finance committee, told the council that certain residents on Cazneau Avenue had ponied up extra tax funds from 1922 to 1946 to pay for paving the street.

It was never done, Hicks reported, and the city has apparently been sitting on — and drawing interest on — the approximately $5,000 the residents kicked in.

Hicks said the oversight came to light when Chris Wilkinson, of 89 Cazneau discovered some very old receipts he had received from the city many years ago.

The city council last night referred the problem to its city attorney for study.

It costs 20 cents in wear and tear for a 20-ton truck to stop and return to speed, says the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Behr Endorses Prop. 18 Calling For Transit Funds

Peter H. Behr, of Mill Valley, Republican nominee for state Senate, yesterday endorsed Proposition 18 on the November ballot.

The statewide proposition would allow diversion of up to 25 per cent of a county's gas tax revenue to transit upon approval by a majority of its voters.

Behr, speaking at a San Rafael Improvement Club lunch, said that at least $400,000 of Marin's gas tax funds would be available annually for public transportation if the proposition passed. (The author of the proposition, Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego, last month estimated that Marin would get $873,000 a year for transit under the proposition.)

Behr noted that the proposition also would allow such diverted funds to be used for air pollution control research. The proposition, he said, would help Marin "from being destroyed by pollution."

Guard Rejects Weapon Advice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— State Adjutant General S. T. Del Corso, in direct defiance of the recommendations of the Presidential Commission on Campus Unres , says the Ohio National Guard will continue to carry loaded rifles when called to campuses.

"You can't protect the public with empty guns," Del Corso said.

"Loaded weapons are a defensive weapon," Del Corso said. "Police carry loaded weapons and they don't do that with plans to kill people."

The presidential commission on campus unrest Sunday, in its report on the slaying of four students and the wounding of nine others at Kent State University May 4, said the tragedy "must surely mark the last time loaded weapons are issued to guardsmen confronting students as a matter of ccurse."

No Charge Filed

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Bernadette C. Gelvan, 20, of Sausalito, who was arrested Saturday in Mill Valley on suspicion of driving while under the influence of narcotics.

Board Moves To Buy Two Water Companies

The North Marin County Water District board, which wants to purchase and improve two West Marin water companies, formally offered to buy the utilities last night and voted a $50,000 down payment.

The board also asked the state Public Utilities Commission to appraise the Inverness Park and Point Reyes Station water companies, owned by James Downey. Both moves came on 4-0 votes, Commissioner George A. Amaroli, an employee of the PUC, asbtaining.

The board has scheduled a $250,000 bond issue Nov. 3 in an assessment district which it created and which would be served by the two companies. Purpose of the issue would be to purchase and improve the two utilities.

If Downey agrees to the sale and the bond issue passes, the water district would take over by March 1.

Under the proposed agreement with Downey, if the PUC values the two companies at more than $50,000, the water district would pay anything above that figure at 7 per cent interest. If the appraisal were less than $50,000, Downey would be required to refund the difference.

In other action, the board awarded a $61,162 contract to Pacific Excavators of Albany, lowest of 13 bidders, to prepare a tank site at Atherton Avenue and Bugeia Lane, and awarded a $31,330 contract to the Redwood Painting Co. of Pittsburg, lowest of eight bidders, to paint the tank.

It rejected all five bids for construction of the tank because they did not meet specifications. No date was set for receiving new bids.

The board approved in principle an agreement to deliver surplus water from its Russian River aqueduct to the Marin Municipal Water District. Details of the agreement are to be worked out by the staffs of the two districts.

Development's Map Gets Tentative Nod

The tentative map for a planned unit development was approved last night by the Petaluma Planning Commission, but a reappraisal of the ordinance to bring greater clarity was ordered.

Sunco Development Corp. received approval on a tentative map for a 100-unit cluster development at Ely Boulevard North and East Washington Street to be known as Sun Terrace Park.

Planning Director William C. McGivern said the present planned unit development ordinance specifies an average lot size requirement, but ignores setting a minimum lot size.

He noted that other applications for planned unit developments will be presented and that a new ordinance clearly spelling out requirements must be prepared.

Taylor and Mazza Inc., which had filed an application to prezone an area for single and multiple family residences said they instead would file a request for the planned development. The area, not yet annexed to the city, is located on Old Lakeville Highway between Casa Grande and Frates roads.

The Petaluma Planning Commission Also:

MOBILE PARK — Denied with little discussion the application of McDowell Investment Co. to rezone 28 acres on North McDowell Boulevard from agricultural to mobile home park. The recently annexed land is adjacent to the Candlewood Mobile Home Park.

PREZONING — Approved the prezoning from agricultural to mobile home park zone on parcels bounded by Casa Grande Road, Old Lakeville Highway and Lakeville Highway. The Detero Corp. plans to build the Larwin Mobile Home Park.

SUBDIVISION — Approved tentative maps for Monarch Manor subdivision units no. 8, 9 and 10.

EXTENSION — Granted a one year extension on approval of the tentative map for Sonoma Vista unit no. 3 to be located on South McDowell Boulevard.

The number of factories in Hong Kong rose from 5,599 in 1960 to 14,754 in 1969.

Lessons Set On Beginning Bridge

Basic fundamentals and principles of bridge will be the subject of eight lessons beginning tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, 1600 Mar West Street.

The lessons will be taught by Cleon Meyers of San Rafael.

Candidates Will Appear In Novato

Candidates for the state Senate and Assembly will present their views at the Novato branch of American Association of University Women's public meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Sinaloa Junior High school Library in Novato.

Appearing on the program will be Senate candidates Peter H. Behr, Republican and Michael R. Peevey, Democrat, and Assembly candidate, Joseph A. Forest, democrat. Incumbent Assemblyman William T. Bagley is unable to attend.

American Independent Party candidates, Anne Smart, running for the Senate and Glenn A. Bernd, Assembly candidate, were not invited to the meeting, according to Callita Moore, AAUW Novato branch president.

Also on the program will be Dale Fleming, planning director at College of Marin and college trustee Harry Moore, who will explain the measures on the November ballot relating to the college.

Williams Steps Down From Chairmanship

Harry M. Williams, mortician and civic leader, stepped down last night as chairman of the San Rafael Fire Commission after six years in the post.

Williams said today he left the office because of business pressures and a need to "slow down."

He will continue as a member of the commission, which he has served more than two decades.

Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy was named as interim chairman with a permanent one to be named at the next commission meeting.

In other matters, the commission was told by Chief Vance Trivett that delivery of the fire department's new $70,000 snorkel truck was expected today. The truck is expected to be housed at Station 4 while being outfitted.

Water District To Appeal On Salaries' Publication

The North Marin County Water District Board voted unamiously last night to appeal the Marin Superior Court decision requiring the district to furnish the Independent-Journal with names, jobs and salaries of its employees.

Included in the motion made by Commissioner George A. Amaroli was the stipulation that the appeal would not be financed with the taxpayers' money, but that commissioners wouldshare the expense of taking the case to the appellate court.

An earlier motion by Frank Baccaglio and seconded by Franklin Gustafson to abide by the decision of the court was defeated 3-2, with Arnold Heise, Emil Renati and Amaroli in the majority.

On July 21 the board voted 3-0, with Renati and Baccaglio abstaining, not to furnish the Independent-Journal with the names of employees, only the positions and salaries.

On Sept. 28, Judge Thomas F. Keating of superior court, ordered the district to furnish the names of employees, job classifications and salaries.

Judge Keating ruled that the law concerning the right of the public to have access to such records overrides the district's objection that such publication would be invasion of privacy of the individual employees.

Byran R. McCarthy, attorney for the I-J, had argued in court that if public agencies could withhold the names of employees, their jobs and pay, the public would have no way of knowing whether a payroll were padded.

In making the motion to comply with the court order, Baccaglio said he felt the board should accept the judge's decision. Gustafson said he felt that way also because all other local agencies were furnishing this information.

Bold asked for the closed meeting to discuss litigation on the case, and the decision to appeal followed.

Board president Heise said no other newspaper to his knowledge printed such lists, but common sense indicated that it was a report on use of taxpayers' money.

"It's an insult to our employees," said Amaroli. He said he was opposed to spending any more taxpayers' money and was willing to pay from his own pocket his share of taking the matter to a higher court.

Bold estimated the cost of printing the court transcript and his time at $700 for the appeal.

Renati suggested that if the employees did not like publication of the list, they could join together to take the action, but this did not get any favorable reacion from other board members, and it was agreed the directors would share the cost equally.

Baptise To Lead Sewer Bond Panel

The Novato Sanitary District board has named Arnold Baptise, Marin County supervisor-elect, as chairman of the citizens committee for its $5.5 million bond election Dec. 8.

The bond issue would finance improvements to the Novato and Ignacio treatment plants and an 8,500 outfall line into San Pablo Bay to satisfy requirements by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

In other business Monday night, the board approved spending $3,500 for aerial mapping in cooperation with the City of Novato and North Marin County Water District, which will pay $4,800 each.

Vandalism At Loma Verde School Drops

Vandalism at Loma Verde School has virtually ceased since parents were inflormed of the problem, principal John Laycock told the Loma Verde Homeowners Association lastnight.

The school had been reported vandalized in the past and last night's meeting of the homeowners was to see what could be done about it, according to association publicist Lillian Tindell.

Laycock, new principal of the school, earlier this year sent letters about the vandalism to parents and asked their help in correcting it, Mrs. Tindell reported. It has dropped almost to zero since, she said.

Lt. Harvey Teague, chief of the juvenile division of the sheriff's department, told the group that it was the parents' responsibility to help curb vandalism but that California laws were lax on fixing parental responsibility, he reported.

Pleads Guilty To A Reduced Charge

A headline in Saturday's Independent-Journal incorrectly stated that Merrill Brandon Fields, 41, had pleaded guilty to murder.

Fields pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter stemming from a bloody melee in his apartment last March in which a man died.

Approval Given To Design For Mobile Homes

Site design approval was given to the Petaluma Estates Mobile Home Park at 901 North McDowell Boulevard. The development was formerly known as the Youngstown Mobile Home Park.

The board also approved the design of a 184-unit apartment building to be known as Baywood Arms and located on the east side of the future Baywood Drive between St. Francis Drive and Perry Lane. The apartments will be built by the Atlantic and Pacific Building Corp.

The board also granted the request of Douglas S. Oliver to do photography work at his home at 54 Jess Avenue and the request of Matias E. Coloma Jr. to sell detergent from his home at 175 Payran Street.

Tito In Belgium

BRUSSELS (UPI)—President Tito of Yugoslavia toured Belgian provinces today after telling the big powers they are responsible for the situation and should take measures to keep it from deteriorating.

"The situation in the Mediterranean area is very serious and I think no efforts should be spared to prevent any aggravation of the situation in that part of Europe," Tito told an interviewer on the Belgian Radio Tuesday night.

Townhouse Grading Action Is Delayed

The Mill Valley Architectural Committee last night postponed action on a grading plan for a 188-unit townhouse development because members did not approve of the developer's dirt disposal scheme.

Zoning Administrator Howard W. McGill said the applicant, Warner Odenthal, was told to return Oct. 20 with a revised plan.

Odenthal proposed dumping the dirt from the grading operation on an open hillside and then building a recreational area there.

McGill said the committee instructed the developer to provide more information on access to the area. Members said they would like to see the fill broken up instead of deposited in one location.

The committee also approved: Otto H. Schreier's landscaping plans for three apartments at 469 Miller Avenue; the concept of a townhouse development planned by Trans-Marin Properties at Sycamore Avenue and La Goma Street, and Lyman Emerson's plans to convert his house at 230 Miller Avenue into three apartments and add on to another apartment on the property.

Domino Tourney Slated Oct. 19

The second Marin Open Domino Championship will be held at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 19 at the Corinthian Yacht Club, Tiburon.

Proceeds of the tournament will benefit the Marin City Boys Club.

A choice between $500 or four roundtrip cruises to Los Angeles will be offered the winning team, with the other going to the second place team.

Entry information is available from Karl Treffinger of 283 Bay View Avenue, Belvedere.

Computer Music Is 'Humanized'

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) —A Stanford University music professor has come up with a method of "humanizing" music that is produced by a computer.

Leland Smith notes music which is played in perfect rhythm, such as a computer can play, is much less pleasing to the ear than music with human variations.

By using a pair of telegraph keys instead of a baton to "conductor" the music, Smith is able to produce those human variations which make a computer's music sound less machine-like.

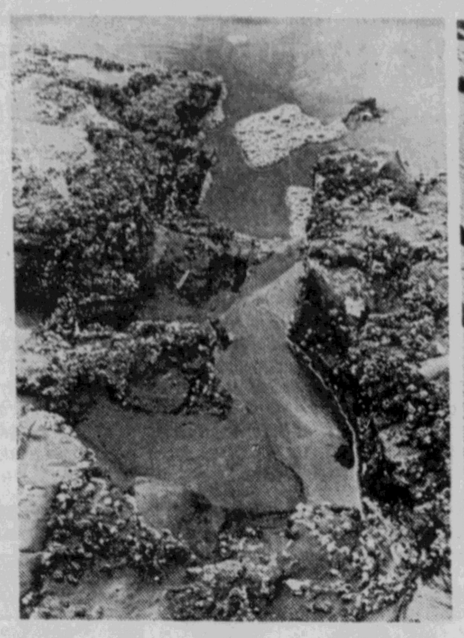
QUIET SHORE — Gentle waves lap at sandy beach, almost deserted in the early morning, as two girls walk along enjoying the natural beauty of Drake's Bay on the Point Reyes Peninsula. The hills beyond appear as they did to Sir Francis Drake when he sailed into the bay centuries ago, with the cliffs bearing a resemblance to the white cliffs of Dover in his native England.



WATER AND SAND — A small tidal pool bordered by barnacle-covered rocks (left) and shifting sands (right) provide a contrast in nature's pattern at the beach.

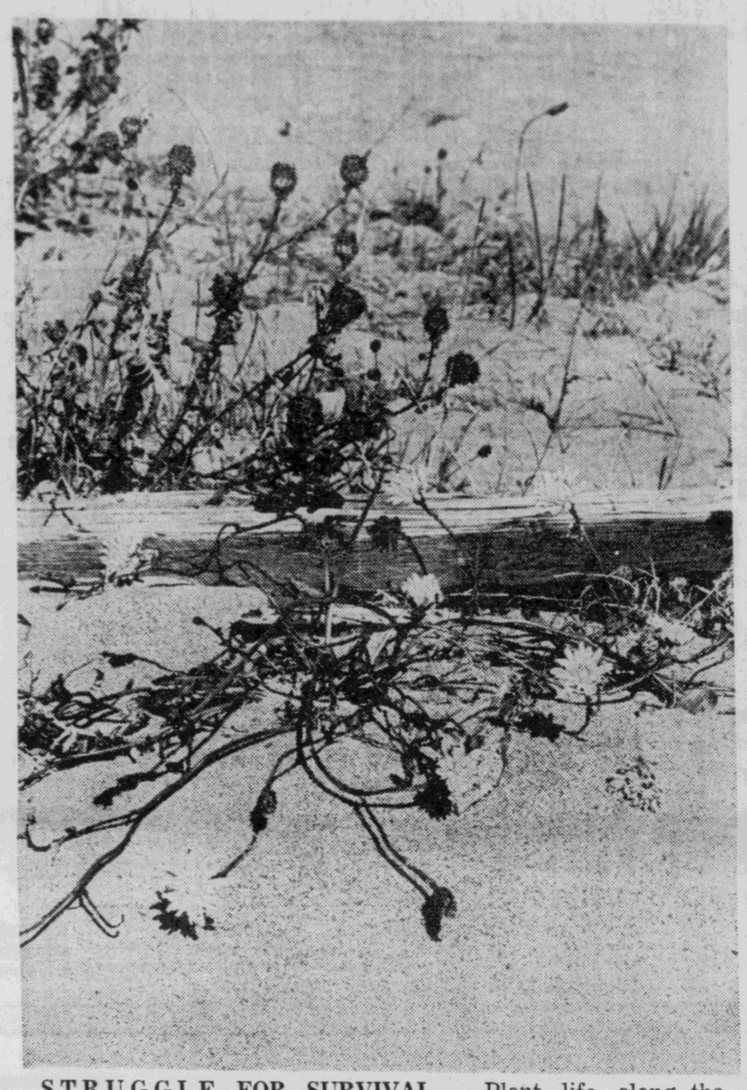
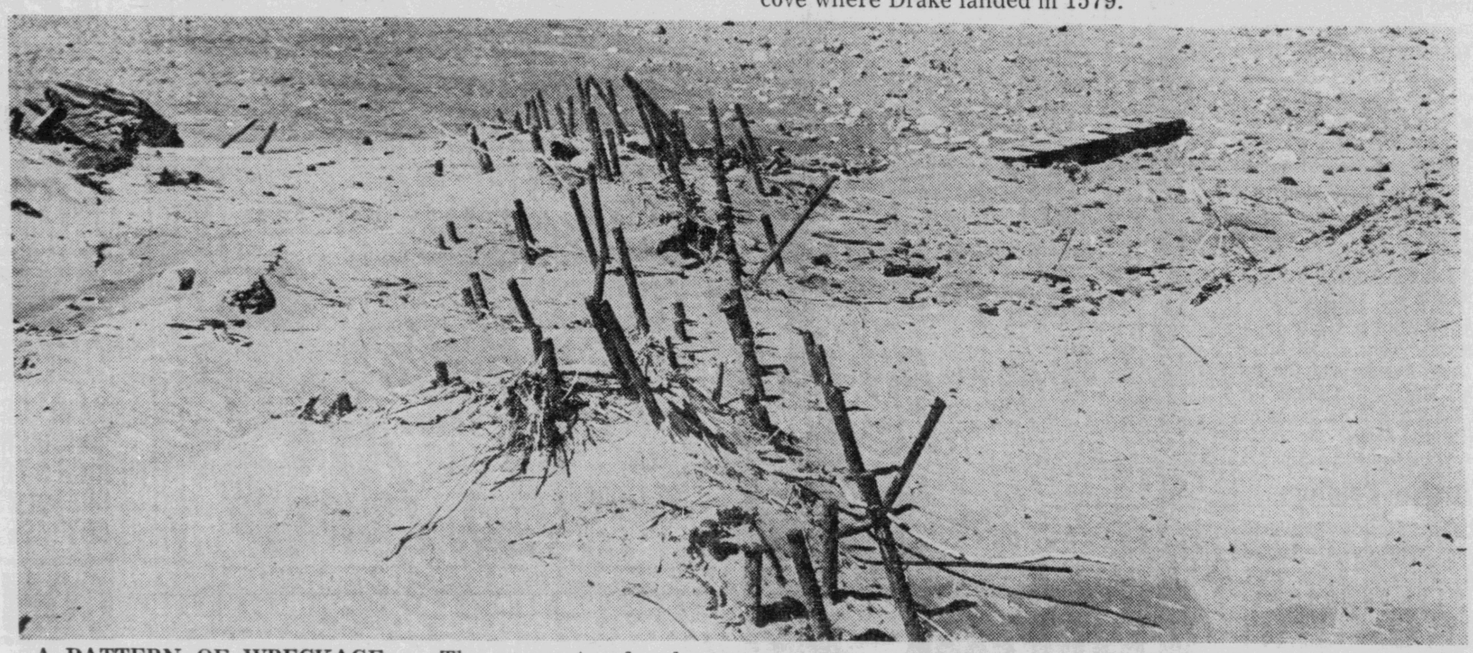
SEA CREATURES — Lying at the water's edge is a starfish and atop the starfish is a dead crab, forming a pattern among the rocks and giving passersby a scene to ponder.



STRUGGLE FOR SURVIVAL — Plant life along the shores of the bay buffeted by sea winds face a struggle to survive, but flowers, clustered around a post, apparently are winning their fight for life.

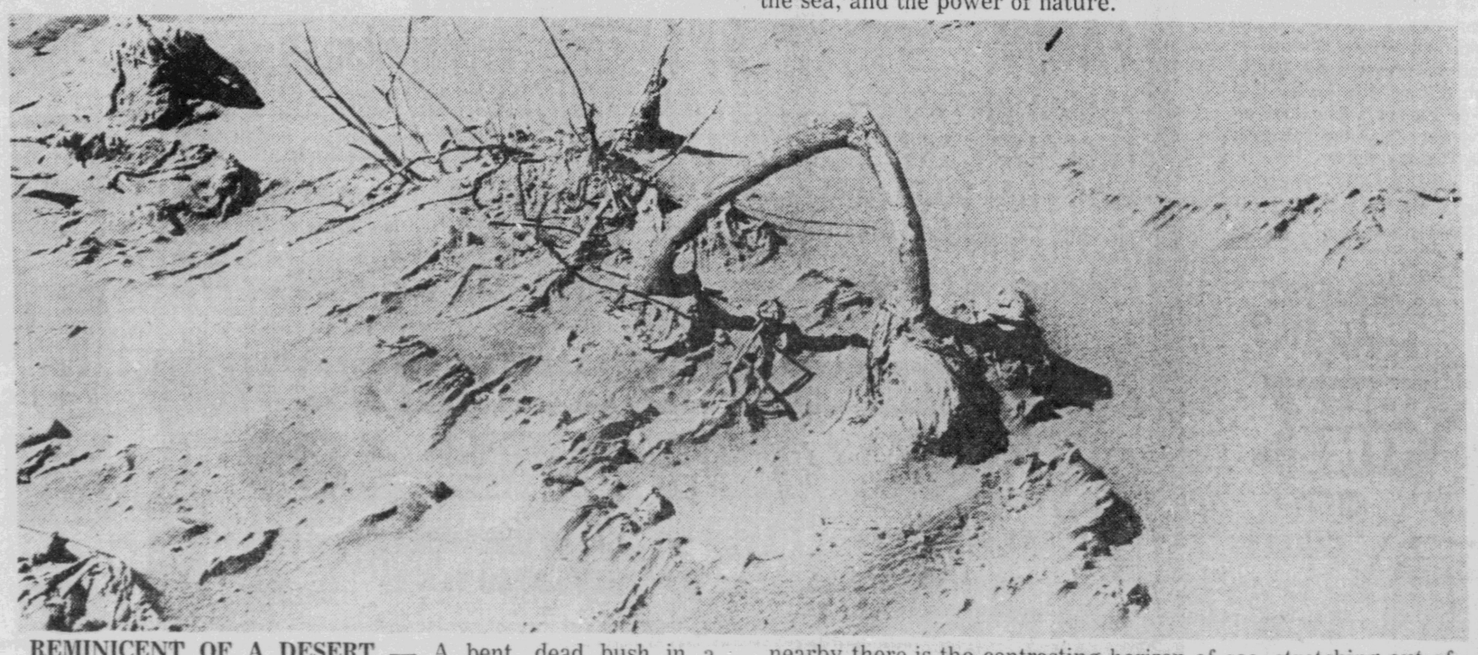
RUSTY ANCHOR — An anchor given by the Royal Naval Barracks, Devonport, England, as a memorial to Sir Francis Drake and other early navigators to the California coast, lies rusting beside a post bearing the commemoration plaque, at the cove where Drake landed in 1579.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE SAND — A day at the shores of Drake's Bay provides simple pleasures such as leaving your footprints in the sand, as the three unidentified girls did, and feeling the sea air.



A PATTERN OF WRECKAGE — The remnants of a boat poke through the drifting sand, a reminder of the treachery of the sea, and the power of nature.

AFTER THE CATCH — Two fish heads laying on a sun-baked log provide an eerie scene, most likely the remnants of a catch by a fisherman.



REMINICENT OF A DESERT — A bent, dead bush in a sand-blown stretch of the beach present a desolate scene, but nearby there is the contrasting horizon of sea, stretching out of sight. (Independent-Journal Photos by Alfred M. Arn and W. Kep Brown)

Bay Houseboat Owners Get Word

Thirteen houseboat owners in Richardson Bay got the word yesterday from the Marin County Board of Supervisors to shape up or ship out within 45 days. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

If the houseboats are not brought up to the county's houseboat code requirements or moved out of the county in 45 days, the county will have them abated as public nuisances.

Of 17 houseboat owners scheduled for a hearing yesterday, two have already complied with requirements, marine inspector Richard L. Larson reported. Supervisors held up action on two others because one, Don Bailey, promised to tow his boat to Los Angeles, and the other, Frank Kenneth Wood, was described by Inspector Larson as "working like a beaver to bring it up to code."

Larson reported that the houseboats are scattered in various parts of Richardson Bay near Waldo Point, with many of them in no condition for human habitation, and some of them changing ownership so that the real owner is sometimes difficult to pin down.

With Louis H. Baar as acting chairman in the absence of vacationing John F. McInnis, the four-man board of supervisors ticked off abatement orders in rapid-fire order against the following 13:

Peter Bailey, who reportedly sold his boat just recently to a Carol Lee Peterson; Russell Baker, whose uncompleted houseboat is at Miriam Tellis's harbor at Gate 6; Randal Colombo, who has a boat described as a dilapidated pile of junk off George Kappas's Harbor; Scott Diamond, who has a large pontoon type boat off the Strawberry Peninsula; Jim Griffin, who owns a small cruiser type boat; Marjorie Kirkland, who notified the marine inspector she no longer owns the boat; David Mitchell, who has a small 15-foot craft in Kappas's Harbor at Gate 6½ but claimed the owner lives in India.

Also Jim O'Keefe, who has a partially completed houseboat on a lifeboat hull; Rick de Olazarra, who owns a little trailer house type of boat; Karl Schaupp III, whose converted lifeboat hull is tied up at Kappas's Harbor at Gate 6; Mike Scott, who is building a houseboat on a log raft float off Gate 5; Susan Winship, who has a small substandard houseboat tied up at Gate 5, and Mike Young, or a Mike Taylor, who has a large floating home partially sunk off Gate 5.

UN Day Is Fine, But Not $10 Fee

Marin County United Nations Day celebration at the Civic Center is fine, but the county should not set a precedent by contributing $10 as a sponsoring agency, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

The UN Day celebration will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Friday Oct. 23, in the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center, with Dianne Feinstein, president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors as main speaker.

Mrs. Eric W. Eiserich of San Rafael, UN Day chairman for Marin, announced that sponsoring organizations are asked to contribute $10 or more and suggested that the county chip in.

"I certainly have nothing against the UN but a contribution would set a precedent," said Supervisor Michael Wornum.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., the supervisors rejected any monetary contribution.

Mrs. Eiserich announced that Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson will be honorary chairman for the UN Day observance.

Consultant Voted For Bel Aire Plan

Bel Aire Flood Control Zone should have an outside consultant review a master drainage plan drawn up by the Marin County Department of Public Works, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

On a motion by Michael Wornum, supervisors unanimously approved a $2,300 contract with the San Francisco Engineering firm of McCreary-Koretsky to see if the drainage improvement plan prepared by the county department of public works is feasible.

The decision for the $2,300 review was a reversal of the Aug. 31 decision of the Bel Aire Flood Control Zone Advisory Board which voted 3-2 to accept the master plan drawn up by the county department. That plan calls for $560,000 in drainage improvements in the 600-acre Bel Aire watershed to stop the annual flooding.

"The people in Bel Aire do not believe what the county says," declared Wornum. "The Bel Aire Homeowners group wants a review by the outside consultants." Wornum said he believes the homeowners group, rather than the flood control advisory board, more nearly represents the views of the Bel Aire residents.

If the $560,000 drainage improvement plan proves feasible, a bond issue is the only practical way to raise the funds, said Wornum. "I know that a bond issue won't go through unless we get this review."

The $2,300 for the engineering review will come from the Bel Aire Flood Control Zone.

Pompidou Has Russian Round

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Georges Pompidou of France today completed nearly three hours of talks with the Soviet troika on the political and economic future of Europe, a French spokesman said.

The spokesman, Jean Belierd, said Pompidou sat opposite all three of the Soviet Union's top officials and "exchanged views on only one subject."

The one subject, Belierd said, "was Europe — Europe as a political subject, and Europe as an economic subject."

Belierd provided no other details.

County Votes $10,000 For Bon Air Bridge

Bon Air Bridge, its underpinnings weakened by the dredging of Corte Madera Creek, was assured of a $100,000 repair job yesterday.

Marin County Board of Supervisors voted 4-0 (John F. McInnis is on vacation) to chip in $10,000 as the county's share of the cost.

Louis H. Baar, acting chairman, proposed the county contribution to round out a cost sharing proposal including federal, state, and city of Larkspur funds. The Army Corps of Engineers will put up $50,000, the state department of Water Resources will contribute $30,000, and the City of Larkspur will chip in $10,000.

Baar said the bridge underpinnings have been failing since the Army Corps of Engineers dredged the creek for the Corte Madera Flood Control project.

The Marin Board Of Supervisors Also:

COMMENDATION — Approved a resolution honoring Florence Fast for 25 years of service with the Marin County Department of Public Social Services. She will retire as social services supervisor on Nov. 1.

AERIAL ADS — Declined to support a plea by Dr. George Sugarman, president of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, for banning of aerial advertising in Bay Area skies, but asked the county administrator to check with the Federal Aviation Agency for information on control of such advertising.

LAND DIVISION — Relaxed one of the conditions imposed on Frank W. Joyner to split his property into three lots at 568 Wilson Avenue, Novato. He must dedicate a 30-foot strip along Wilson for future road widening but may build with a septic tank until a sewer system is available in the area. Two of Joyner's three lots already have homes, with septic tanks.

BICYCLE REGISTRATION — Accepted an offer by the Peter Pan Chapter of Children's Home Society to serve as a clearing house for all bicycle registrations in the county, and asked the county administrator to contact various cities for approval and see if that information can be included with county tax bills that will go out in a week or two.

WELFARE EXTRA HIRE — Approved a $3,300 outlay from the county reserve fund to pay for extra hire help needed in the Department of Public Social Services for the remaining three months of the year.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY — Approved an agreement to pay $1,900 for one year to the Marin County Historical Society in exchange for services to be provided, including advising the county parks and recreation department on historical monuments and operating the museum at Boyd Park in San Rafael.

SAN QUENTIN SHOW — Approved the use of ahe Civic Center on Saturday, May 22, 1971, for a San Quentin Prison art show.

Bathing Woman Taken To Center

A woman reclining fully-clothed under a sprinkler on the lawn of the old courthouse in San Rafael Monday was returned to the Marin Community Mental Health Center after asking police officers to join her in "paradise."

Declining the invitation police took a drenched Janet E. Manerud of 1005 Irwin Street, Apt. A, to the mental health facility at 12:15 p.m. after she told them her name was Eve Adam.

Police had received a call that a woman was washing her hair in the sprinklers and frolicking about the lawn. She had been on leave as an outpatient from the mental health center, police said.

Search Ordered For Santa Rosan

A bench warrant with bail set at $3,500 was issued in Marin Superior Court for John Edward Brown, 20, of Santa Rosa, when he failed to appear Monday in court to face a jail sentence.

Last May Brown was given a one-year sentence for two burglary counts but Judge E. Warren McGuire said he would stay execution of the sentence if Brown would enter the armed forces.

In the meantime, Brown, still a civilian, has been arrested on suspicion of holding up a hitchhiker.

He was freed on bail last week on that charge.

Rules Agreed Upon For Naming Director

Ground rules for selecting a new executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority were agreed on last night after a heated exchange with a Marin City woman.

Authority members agreed to accept nominations from three professional urban planners, due Friday, and then subject the candidates to interviews by representatives from several Marin City organizations before making the final selection in cooperation with the county redevelopment agency.

Thelma McKinney of 30 Pacheco Street interrupted housing authority chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., crying, "The process should be reversed. We get all these so-called experts coming in here who don't even live here. Let's let the people here decide who they want to interview."

Wallace K. Shepherd has been acting executive director since mid-July, when former director Donald O. Stutsman resigned. Shepherd was an administrative assistant under Stutsman.

Ehrlich explained that the selection process has been discussed at four previous meetings and the directors had agreed to turn over initial screening to professionals in the field. Then representatives from Marin City's tenant association, homeowners and other groups would interview the candidates, he said.

"This homeowner stuff has got to go," shouted Mrs. McKinney. "Are they really a legitimate group?" she asked.

"The homeowners are probably the most legitimate," replied director Arthur Miller Jr.

"How?" demanded Mrs. McKinney.

"They pay the bills," Mill replied.

A chorus of groans from the audience drowned out several attempts by audience members to speak. Finally Mrs. McKinney regained the floor.

"We all pay the bills," she said. "And we all support this community."

After several similar flare-ups the directors decided to stick by their original plan to let the screening for a new executive director begin with interviews by the panel of three professional urban planners.

The authority board also discussed briefly a report by James Montgomery or the Marin Urban Development Association on that organization's plan to take over development of Marin City. Money for a revised master plan is still needed from the county redevelopment agency, Montgomery reported.

Campaign Ammo: Long-Hair Image

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Fair Campaign Practices Committee says it has received complaints of attempts at "guilt by association" from candidates whose opponents have pictured them with long-haired students.

"The committee has received complaints of attempts to pose a phony picture of a candidate with long-haired students and reports of distribution of a candidate's picture with long-haired students, identifying them as helpers, when in fact they were merely members of the audience," it said.

The committee, established in 1954 as a private, nonpartisan group to investigate and expose unfair campaign practices, warned voters to watch out for such attacks.

Road Work Funds Is Awarded

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Federal Highway Administration has awarded $64,833 to the California Division of Highways to complete repairs on last winter's storm damage in two Marin County areas.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., said yesterday the money is earmarked for work on Highway 101 south of San Rafael and on Shoreline Highway near Marshall.

In San Francisco, Alan S. Hart, district engineer, said the federal funds will hire contractors to complete repairs on a slide near the top of California Park Hill on Highway 101, and on high water damage to Shoreline Highway. He said plans are all prepared, and bids will be called immediately for the work.

Appeals Court Refuses To Halt Picketing Order

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California's Court of Appeal refused Tuesday to halt enforcement of a Monterey County Superior Court prohibition against picketing by Ceasar Chavez' farm union.

The lower court had ruled that picketing by the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee was illegal because the growers involved had valid contracts with the Teamsters Union.

Chavez' union and the Teamsters are in a jurisdictional dispute over which shall represent field hands in the fertile Salinas Valley lettuce fields.

As picketing decreased, Chavez has called for a national boycott of all lettuce which does not carry the label of his union.

Leary Brief Claims Caged Eagle Plight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Fugitive Timothy Leary, an LSD exponent, compares himself to an American eagle which "cannot live caged" in a legal brief addressed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Leary's "Eagle Brief," copyrighted in his own name, has been published in pamphlet form and is being sold at a local bookshop, it was revealed Tuesday.

Poet-publisher Lawrence Ferlinghetti said any royalties from sale of the pamphlet will be held for Leary if he ever shows up. He escaped from the California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo Sept. 13, the day after he gave the brief to his lawyer.

The "Eagle Brief" is in blank verse and presents Leary's arguments in support of having the Supreme Court free him on bail while he appeals a six month to 10-year term for possessing marijuana.

"Wild creatures cannot live caged," he wrote. "Eagle must fly high and cry freedom to the winds at sunrise. Be patient, soon you will be freed . . ."

Turning to prose, the former Harvard faculty member said: "We have demonstrated that the principles of the First and Eighth amendments and the sanctity of our tribal traditions, indeed, the spiritual survival of our people, require release of souls who are held captive because of their freedom."

He said his "unlawful imprisonment" signaled a grave danger to the spiritual and political welfare of the United States.

Cucaro Exhibit

Paintings by Sausalito artist Pascal Cucaro will be included in the American art exhibit at the first International Book Exhibition and International Festival of Culture in the Dominican Republic from Monday through Dec. 11.

Rifle Smuggling Charge Denied

A San Quentin guard charged with smuggling a rifle into the prison on Sept. 12 has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

Mitchell was arrested after prison officials found a sawed-off .22 caliber rifle in his car along with 20 rounds of ammunition.

He had not appeared for work the day before but was searched when he returned the next day.

Sonoma Youth Held As Suspect In Auto Theft

A Sonoma youth arrested in Belvedere Monday on suspicion of car theft has been referred to the Marin Probation Department for a check on his age.

Dennis Earl Ewadinger, who gave his name as Dennis Soule and his age as 18 when arrested, said yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that he is only 17.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. released him Monday on his own recognizance and told him to return to court Oct. 19 to see if he will be tried as an adult or juvenile.

Ewadinger and another youth, who was not charged, were arrested about 1:10 a.m. after a police check showed the car they were driving had been stolen earlier that night in Sonoma.

Beautification Committee Presses Work On Trees

The Novato Beautification Committee is working to keep a jump ahead of the contractors and get trees growing along Novato Boulevard before the thoroughfare is widened next year.

Dr. Gregory J. Graham, chairman of the beautification committee, said most existing curbside trees will be removed for the widening. The committee is offering to plant redwoods inside the future curbs if property owners will water them for a year. Several clumps of trees already have been planted, Graham said.

At its meeting Monday night, the beautification committee also discussed plans for landscaping the Scottsdale subdivision pumping station, and still incomplete plans for a footbridge connecting the new Novato library to the Downtown Shopping Center across Novato Creek.

The committee asked the city council to petition the Legislature to regulate use of nonreturnable bottles.

Camera Is Stolen From Reading Clinic

A camera valued at $106 was taken from the DeWitt Reading Clinic between Sept. 26 and Sept. 28, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The Polaroid was left at the 1513 Fifth Street clinic by Michael Wedge of 350 Scholl Road, Novato, police said.

KNEADING THE dough for the whole wheat bread to be served at the Toyon Unit of Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa luncheon is Mrs. A. L. West of San Anselmo. Mrs. West supplied the recipe for the bread that will be served with a gelatin salad mold and chicken at the three bridge buffet luncheons next Wednesday.

Toyon Cooks Share Recipes For Buffet

At three simultaneous lunches next Wednesday, sponsored by the Toyon Unit of Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa, a buffet of whole wheat bread, bing cherry salad mold and chicken Toyon will be served.

Recipes for the buffet have been named Toyon Favorites because they are the favorite recipes of members Mmes. A. L. West of San Anselmo and Donald Deane and Philip McNamara, both of Greenbrae.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD
(Mrs. A. L. West)

2 packages yeast - cakes
1 teaspoon sugar
½ cup tepid water
⅔ cup shortening
1 lb. dark brown sugar
3½ teaspoons salt
1 quart milk, scalded
4 cups whole wheat flour
9 cups sifted white flour

Dissolve yeast and sugar in tepid water. Combine shortening, brown sugar and salt. Add milk, stirring until shortening is melted. Place whole wheat flour in large bowl. Add milk mixture. Beat until smooth. Add dissolved yeast and blend. Add white flour, one cup at a time. Beat until dough is formed and knead on floured surface until smooth.

Place in greased bowl and brush with shortening. Cover. Let rise in warm place until double its size, about 1½ hours.

Shape dough into four loaves. Place in four greased loaf pans. Brush with melted shortening. Let rise until double its size again, about 45 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 55 minutes.

BING CHERRY SALAD MOLD With Pineapple Cream Cheese Filling
(Mrs. Donald Deane)

1 large can pitted bing cherries
2 packages black cherry gelatin
1 cup boiling water plus juice from cherries (to equal 2 cups)
2 cups port wine

Dissolve gelatin in boiling liquid; cool. Add wine and cherries. Pour in ring mold and refrigerate.

Filling

1 large package cream cheese
No. 2 can crushed pineapple, including juice

Mix well. Fill center of unmolded salad ring. Serves 10.

CHICKEN TOYON
(Mrs. Philip McNamara)

1 large stewing hen (6 to 8 pounds)
3 packages broccoli, cooked
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon thyme
½ cup dry white wine
Parmesan cheese

Cook chicken until tender. Bone and skin after it has cooled. Cut into large bite size pieces. Blend remaining ingredients except broccoli in large bowl. Use two large, flat casseroles. Line bottom with broccoli and add chicken. Pour sauce over chicken and sprinkle on a generous amount of parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for one half hour.

PUTTING THE bread into the oven, Mrs. Cecil Davidson of Greenbrae is assisted by Mrs. Wilbur Walter, also of Greenbrae. The bread will be frozen before it is served at the luncheons next Wednesday at the homes of Mmes. Davidson, Walter and Don Mozley in Kentfield.

Egg Sauce Tops Corned Beef Slice Sandwiches

CORNED BEEF GOLDENROD

1½ pounds sliced cooked corned beef
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk
3 hard-cooked eggs
2 to 3 tablespoons prepared horseradish, drained
1 teaspoon lemon juice
6 English muffins
¼ cup softened butter or margarine
2 tablespoons prepared mustard

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Separate egg whites and yolks, chop whites and put egg yolks through a sieve and reserve.

Add horseradish, chopped egg whites and lemon juice to cream sauce. Combine ¼ cup butter or margarine with mustard. Split and toast English muffins. Spread with mustard butter. Dividing corned beef equally, arrange on 12 muffin halves. Top each with 2 tablespoons of sauce and sprinkle each with 1 to 2 teaspoons of sieved egg yolk. 6 servings.

Get The Message

The plain sweat shirt's going the way of all those things you used to be able to buy for five cents. What's in? The sweat shirt with a message or a decoration. The "peanuts" shirts might have started the trend. However it started, it's here. Sweat shirts with peace symbols, caricatures and huge numerals abound. Maybe the sweat shirt's taking the place of the protest sign?

Skewered Stew Gives It New Look And New Taste

"Different approach" is a common term these days, and no wonder. It's fun to have a change. That's true for cooks and diners, too.

Even a dish as traditional as stew can be altered for a new look and taste. Try putting the beef cubes on skewers for a novel and satisfying entree.

ZIPPY BEEF CUBES

1½ pounds boneless beef, cut in 1-inch cubes
24 one-inch green pepper squares
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cut water
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 garlic clove, minced
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Thread 3 beef cubes and 2 green pepper squares, alternately, on each of 12 5-inch wooden skewers, beginning each with a beef cube. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper.

Cover tightly and cook slowly on range top or in oven (325° F.) 1 hour. Combine water, tomato sauce, green pepper, brown sugar, worcestershire sauce, mustard, remaining teaspoons salt, garlic and lemon juice.

Pour sauce over meat. Cover tightly and continue cooking 1 hour or until meat is tender. Serve kabobs with zippy sauce on rice. 6 servings.

Potholder Problems

NEW YORK (UPI) —The potholder can result in serious injury under certain conditions, says the Greater New York Safety Council. For example, the use of a wet potholder or even one that is slightly damp can cause the strongest hot dish to break and spill its contents upon the housewife or on those seated at the dining table.

Hot Grapefruit For Dessert

1 grapefruit (for each two servings)
Nutmeg
Strawberries or Maraschino Cherries
Honey
Hawaiian rum

To prepare, cut grapefruit in half crosswise, and remove seeds. Remove core and loosen each portion from membrane. Fill the center with rum, topped with a little honey, and a sprinkling of nutmeg. Wrap each section in double thickness of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Lay fruit, cut side up on grill over medium heat for about 20 minutes. Unwrap and serve hot. Garnish each grapefruit half with a fresh strawberry or maraschino cherry in center.

Cleaning Shelves

Rubbing a light coat of wax on your shelves makes cleaning easier, and prevents shelf paper from sticking to the shelf.

Fresh Lettuce

Wrap lettuce in aluminum. It will keep better and longer.

THE STUDENTS in Isabelle Merlin's class at Oakview School in San Rafael show Welcome Wagon members how they use their new ear phones to listen to a phonograph record. The headsets were purchased with money donated by Welcome Wagon, and are helpful learning tools for the trainable mentally retarded children, according to the teacher, because they capture the children's attention and also allow other activities to go on at the same time without distraction. Demonstrating the equipment are, from left, Billy Zita (in striped shirt,) Curtis Gill, Jill Goodall, Cissy Meyers, Caroline Glass, Jose Camilo Mora, Brian Burke and David Reck. Observing the students are, Welcome Wagon members Mrs. Russell Sellentin of Greenbrae, left, and Mrs. James O'Brien of San Rafael, right, and Miss Merlin in polka dot dress.

Women Provide 'Extras'

A mother of a student in Isabelle Merlin's class for trainable mentally retarded children remarked to a friend, "my daughter's school doesn't have anything."

That was four years ago when Miss Merlin's class was held in an older house in Santa Venetia, and the mother's friend was the president of Marin Welcome Wagon Club.

Today Miss Merlin's class for 5½ to 10½-year-olds is held at the modern Oakview School and equipped with many extras bought with funds donated by Welcome Wagon.

The club has "adopted" Miss Merlin's class as its philanthropic endeavor. Money raised through luncheons, auctions and days at the races have been given to the teacher who has bought a tool chest, a work bench, a tape recorder, a film strip phonograph combination, an indoor jungle gym, a set of large wooden blocks and headsets for the classroom.

"I am so grateful for these gifts," said the teacher. "If you took away all the things that were purchased with money Welcome Wagon has donated, the classroom would look pretty empty."

CURTIS GILL shows Jose Camilo Mora and Kim Hammermann how to work a drill. The drill, the work bench and the jungle gym in the foreground are among the items purchased for the classroom with funds donated by Welcome Wagon. (I-J photos by Alfred Arn)

From T.V. To T.B. For Marin Christmas Seal Drive Chairman

Television newscaster Wanda Ramey has shifted her concerns — from T.V. to T.B. She has accepted the 1970 Christmas Seal chairmanship for the Marin Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

"Actually", she says, "I'm really returning to my first love. A Christmas Seal show was my very first voluntary activity. I won't tell you how long ago that was, but the clue is that words like 'emphysema' were unknown and air pollution was something that happened only in Los Angeles and Pittsburgh on a smoggy day."

Then she turned serious. "Yes, there is still T.B. in Marin, but this year the Christmas Seal campaign is also turning its attention to emphysema, other respiratory diseases and air pollution — two sides of the same coin, as it is now generally conceded that air pollution is a major factor in respiratory disease.

WANDA RAMEY

MISS RAMEY, who is Mrs. Richard Queirolo of Mill Valley in private life, is no longer active in a daily television show. She did the KPIX noon news for 10 years. However, she is certainly not retired. One of the exciting projects both she and her husband, a film maker, are involved in is the San Quentin Prison's Inmates Film Workshop, where she is chairman of the board.

"That makes me an honorary inmate," she says. It is no idle title, nor is the workshop merely a rehabilitation palliative.

"We have made several documentaries out there and Dick is, at present, overseeing and directing an inmate-made film on burglaries." Miss Ramey is also doing free-lance television assignments.

Another of her current activities is president of the Parents' Group of the Marin Country Day School, where her daughter, Kristi, is enrolled. Speaking of children, Miss Ramey says she has still another reason for her interest in the current Christmas Seal drive.

"My niece, my own daughter's age, is an asthmatic. So was I as a child. I have only to remember her, or myself for that matter, propped up in bed, wheezing, gasping for breath to be grateful for the Marin Association's having instigated and operated for three years an out-patient respiratory disease clinic where respirators were on loan to those patients who needed them.

MISS RAMEY, who has won awards from the Associated Press, the Freedom Foundation and the San Francisco Examiner, speaks warmly about a career of interviewing the world's famous as well as some of the world's infamous. It is a career that took her from work as a women's radio commentator to KPIX Noon News, to West Coast correspondent for Public Broadcasting Laboratories and more recently to KGO's Newsbeat show.

Her greatest thrill? She thinks a moment and, as the expert interviewer she is (one eye always on the studio clock) doesn't think much of the economy of that question. But she answers it, as there is plenty of time. It was, she thinks, the hours she spent with the late Eleanor Roosevelt, picking her up at her hotel, driving her to the studio, interviewing her and being utterly captivated.

She says she can more easily remember those interviews that didn't go so well. Or when she wasn't captivated.

"I guess I'm inclined to be a bit on the square side and, in today's jargon, I'm apt to be uptight when I feel I'm being put on. That has happened once or twice," she says.

This reminded the interviewer of a statement once made by a Ramey show producer. He said that, as an interviewer, Wanda Ramey was not only skillful but eminently fair, and never used the microphone as a weapon against those who could not fight back.

PERHAPS THAT is why she remembers so vividly when the tables were reversed.

Wanda considers herself a small-town girl having been born and reared in Terra Haute, Ind., where her father was a local railway express official, a responsible post but not an especially lucrative one. The family tells the story about how broken or damaged goods that had to be written off often wound up patched and mended under the family Christmas tree. Thus when father, as a special treat, brought home a brand new small ceramic Christmas tree, young Wanda walked around it, scrutinized it carefully before asking:

"Where is it broken?"

Like most other people in the country today, clean air is becoming a concern to the Queirolo family. So, each weekend it's off to the Napa Valley where the family has a piece of ground and a small house.

"Dick and I breathe air, Kristi rides horseback and, Carol, the dog, chases lizards."

The fight fo clean air is just another reason why Miss Ramey will in the forthcoming months, be urging Marinites to support their 1970 Christmas Seal campaign.

Marin Brides Living In Europe

By MOLLY MARIN

Anne Christine Teller of Ross, who will be wed to Massimo Ornani of Florence, Italy, on Saturday, was honored at a luncheon Saturday given by Mrs. Leo Schwab of Greenbrae and her daughter Mrs. James H. Farren Jr. of Mill Valley at Mrs. Schwab's home.

Mrs. Farren, who will be a bridesmaid at the wedding, and Carol Foresti, also a bridesmaid, honored Anne at a shower Thursday evening at Miss Foresti's Tiburon home. The shower was attended by 12 close friends and family members, including future bride's mother, Mrs. Frederic de Peyster Teller of Ross; her sister, Mrs. Joseph P. Stone of Kentfield, who will be matron of honor; and her aunt, Mrs. Jack Sims of San Rafael.

Anne met Massimo when she lived in Rome for one year, where she worked as a secretary. She returned to Marin in June, and the couple's engagement was announced when he arrived in September to spend a month.

RECENTLY RETURNED from the Netherlands, where their daughter was married, are Mr. and Mrs. Wilson H. Madden of Corte Madera. The Maddens' daughter, Patricia, became the bride of Dutch Opera singer Marco Bakker in a ceremony performed by the mayor in Beverwijk at the city hall.

The couple met in Munich two years ago where each attended an international singing competition. Then Patricia returned to Europe to study music in Holland. Mr. Bakker is a leading baritone with the Netherlands Opera Company and has appeared in concert, opera and oratorio in West Germany, Belgium and South America, and he has his own television show in Holland. He is also under contract to a recording corporation and making recordings in Molland.

Patricia attended Stephens College and toured the United States with singing groups and did light opera engagements. She lived in Corte Madera before she left for Holland last year.

The couple will live in Beverwijk and plan to sing together on television and for concerts.

A RECEPTION for opera artists was given Sunday in Hillsborough and attended by several Marinites. The reception was sponsored by the board of directors of Opera Action and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico Economic Development Administration and was held at the home of Mrs. Berenice Grant. Marin guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Graves Jr., and Mmes. Carl G. Brimmekamp, chairman of the Marin Opera Action group; Edmond C. Ward, a director of the San Francisco Opera Association; B. G. Falk, J. C. Davila and John Littel.

MRS. MAYNARD Norris of Mill Valley will be the guest of honor at a baby shower on Saturday afternoon. The party will be given in the San Francisco apartment of her sister, Charlene Torley.

AMONG MARIN sponsors who plan to attend the annual antiques show of the League for Service at the St. Matthew Episcopal Church in San Mateo next week are Mmes. Theodore Martin of San Rafael, John Hoefer of Belvedere, H. E. Gamlen of Tiburon and Floyd Gilman and James Reese of Ross.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

Royal Clerk In A Tokyo Store

TOKYO (UPI)—The former Princess Suga, the independent-minded daughter of Emperor Hirohito, started working in a Tokyo department store today. The Emperor's daughter, who startled the Japanese public 10 years ago when she chose a commoner husband, began work in an exclusive branch of the Seibu department store. She showed up for her first day wearing a black and white midi dress.

"I really don't know what exactly Il'l be doing here, but I think it will be advising customers on their purchases," she said. The former princess, whose married name is Mrs. Hisanaga Shimazu, refused to disclose how much she would be paid.

Mrs. Shimazu, 31, has been the maverick in the imperial family. When the royal household agency started looking for a suitable husband for her, she set two conditions: he must be taller than her and intelligent enough to carry on a conversation.

DANNY CONRAD Hermsmeyer claimed Bonnie Jean Behre as his bride in a ceremoney at St. Rita's Catholic Church in Faifax. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Behre of Fairfax and Mr. and Mrs. George Hermsmeyer of San Anselmo. Following a wedding trip to Colorado the newlyweds will live in Fairfax.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Daughter With Two Children Now After Step-Father's Attention

DEAR HELEN:

I knew when I got kind hearted, I'd be sorry.

My oldest daughter has two children, no husband, but when she asked to move in with me and her step-father, I thought maybe she had changed for the better. (She is self-supporting, but had just broken up with her boy friend.)

Instead, she has taken over my house — which I could stand — and also, I'm afraid, my husband. I don't want to suspect foul play, but how can I help it when he no longer treats me as a wife, and cozies up to her constantly? He pays no attention to his own children (we have two, ages seven and eight), but his step-grandchildren can do no wrong.

I am still in my 30s, attractive, loving, and terribly hurt. My daughter had her first illegitimate child when she was 17, the same age I was when she was born — but I was married.

We never got along. She always seemed to hate me. Now she takes great pleasure in luring my husband away from me. If I show jealousy, he acts hurt and surprised — he's just being fatherly, he says.

What can I do? — T.K.M.

DEAR T:

Whether this is a real triangle or an illusion caused by long-standing jealousy, the best thing you can do is, remove your daughter from the house. Two grown women competing for one man is pure dynamite not only for the three principals but also for the children. Find her an apartment on the other side of town —even if you have to pay part of the rent for a while. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Several times I've read in your column that the past should remain buried, for women as well as men, unless there was a child or a former marriage or some kind of legal hassle involved. In other words, affairs are strictly private, provided you weren't a prostitute or close to it.

Does this also go for an abortion? And how about VD, if it is entirely cured? These will more and more be the problems of the future. In fact, the first is now my problem. When I was 16, I had an unfortunate affair, and my parents took me to Mexico, with no one the wiser. Must I tell my fiance now? He has never asked about my past, and I'm quite sure he knows I am not a virgin. He doesn't seem to care, not being a prude, though he expects me to be true to him alone from now on —as I will be. — WOMAN WITH A PAST

DEAR WOMAN:

I'll stand on this: If your future partner isn't interested in your past — and it won't interfere with your future — why bring it up? Confession usually hurts more than it helps.

If he (or she) does want detailed information, be forewarned: There's trouble ahead from a jealous mate. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

When our little girl was born we picked out a name we liked. If we had wanted her called something else, we'd have chosen it. So why do relatives insist on shortening her name? I've told them repeatedly we like Nicole, not Nikki. No luck. Must I put a sign around her neck? — MAD

DEAR MAD:

Wouldn't help. Relatives being relatives, will call babies what they please — and be glad it isn't "Sweetums pie." — H.

Competent, Well Informed Consumer Can Save $50,000

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—An estimated half a million dollars in lifetime earnings will pass through the hands of the typical young couple getting married in the 1970s. Don't let the hands be a sieve.

Save something for our labor. Skilled buying and management could save 10 per cent of that half million, helping to buy more security and an improved standard of living.

Today's consumer sits in the driver's seat as never before, on one hand, with new federal and state laws on the books to protect the buyer from waste of money resulting from lack of information or outright deception.

ON THE OTHER hand, today's consumer faces new delimmas in buying complicated new household equipment, what to choose in the cleansing field alone with the infinite variety of detergents and cleansers, new hazards to safety from say the color television set, all the new convenience foods and the food additives.

The purchaser doing a good job wears three hats, says a new publication, "The Responsible Consumer," from the Public Affairs Committee, a nonprofit organization headquarted in New York. The publication is written by Sidney Margolius, author, who has served on the National Commission on Product Safety and the president's Consumer Advisory Council.

THREE HATS ARE: knowledge of the laws to protect you, participation in consumer organizations, and being a competent consumer yourself.

To get the most for that half million, or whatever your life earnings, Margolius outlines a nine-pont program:

—Compare prices of items in different stores before buying.

—Time your buying to take advantage of annual sales Promotional sales occur at any time, but some sales are regulars—children's and women's clothing in April, August, November and December, for instance, men's and boy's suits in April, August and December.

—Buy according to intended use. When buying food, for example, select Grade A products if appearance is important, but choose lower cost B and C grades for cooked dishes.

—Buy according to grade and specification. Brand names and higher prices do not necessarily mean significantly higher quality. For example, if a number of brands of frozen orange juice concentrate are all labeled U. S. Grade A, a consumer "can be assured of getting the same basic quality regardless of price."

—Buy on the basis of nutritional value. These days especially this means checking the ingredients listed on the package. Buy basic foods rather than processed ones—"sometimes each addiitonal step in processing increases the cost, sometimes moderately but often sharply."

—Buy in bulk to take advantage of the lower costs of large sizes of groceries, some meat products, soaps and toiletries. (Bess Myerson Grant, director of consumer affairs for New York City often reminds, though, that the larger size is not always the best buy. Read the label and compare contents with smaller for a price gauge.)

—Seek basic quality rather than deluxe features.

—Pool your buying with others. Margolius says this can be as informal as several families sharing a large purchase of garden supplies or of canned goods or more peramanent arrangements such as buying associations or the cooperatives.

—Finance family needs at the lowest cost. Margolius says that credit costs are higher than most people realized until enactment of the so-called truth-in-lending law.

Peanut Butter Makers Tie Up Court Over A Labeling Dispute

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Supreme Court, accustomed to tackling the major issues of the day, soon will have a look at the Great Peanut Butter Case.

In a nutshell, the main question is whether the Food and Drug Administration is justified in demanding that jars labeled "Peanut Butter" hold a food containing at least 90 per cent peanuts.

The plaintiffs say no —87 per cent peanuts is sufficient. They feel so strongly about this 3 per cent difference that they're willing to pay high-priced lawyers to argue the case before the Supreme Court.

THE PLAINTIFFS are just a couple of struggling companies — Corn Products, Inc., manufacturer of Skippy Peanut Butter, and Derby Foods, the Swift and Company subsidiary which makes Peter Pan peanut Butter. Skippy and Peter Pan are the largest-selling brands of peanut butter in the United States.

The way things stand, Peter Pan contains only 87 per cent peanuts. The rest is mostly sugar syrup — 9.6 per cent dextrose, plus 1.7 per cent seasoning and 1.7 per cent chemical stabilizer.

That's the way the customers like it, and that's the way it should remain, attorneys argued when they asked the Supreme Court to hear the case.

Taking up the Supreme Court's time over a difference of 3 per cent may sound pretty nutty, but actually this case is more than a tempest in a jelly jar. It is an example of how large, wealthy companies can tie up a matter in the legal system for years . . . to the detriment of the consumer.

THE CASE has been going on for 11 years. When the FDA first got involved in 1959, it found that some brands contained 75 per cent peanuts, others 95 per cent, but that there was no way to tell which was which from the labels.

The FDA tried to get a standard. Industry resisted. Public hearings in 1965 and 1966 generated a spate of peanut-butter jokes and led the FDA to declare a 90-per cent standard. Corn Products and Derby lost their fight to the FDA, lost a court appeal last May and now are at the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, there still is no standard. Nor will there be until the Supreme Court acts —and maybe not even then, if the plaintiffs can think up some new delaying tactic.

Peanut butter symbolizes the sticky problem of setting food standards so buyers can have some assurance that they are getting similar products under similar names.

The case also shows how far large corporations will go in fighting such standards if they think they might cut into their sales to any degree.

Pity the Supreme Court. With civilization awaiting advice on how to preserve humanity, it must learn how peanut butter is preserved.

ON THE AGENDA

'Reflections' Is Theme For 9th Annual Mannequin League Ball

Their 9th annual ball will be held by the Mannequin League of Marin on Saturday night at the Meadow Club. With "Reflections" as its theme the ball will begin with cocktails at 7:30 p.m., followed by dinner and dancing. The ball is a benefit this year for the Marin Community Workshop in San Rafael, a work-training program that enables handicapped persons to become self-employed.

Mrs. Kenneth Fuller of Greenbrae is chairman for the ball and radio personality Jack Carney of Ross will be the master of ceremonies.

ANOTHER SERIES of Friday Forenoons is underway at the Jose Moya del Pino Library, Octagon House, at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross. The series continues this Friday at 11 a.m. with a talk by Paul Romer on the "Story of Moya Painting." Other programs scheduled are Oct. 16, Friedel Klussmann, "Marin Treasures;" Oct. 23, Dr. William Morris, "Oriental Art;" and Oct. 30, Albert W. Gatov, "California Maritime Museum." Proceeds from the series go to the Moya library of the arts at the center.

Mrs. Russell Smith of Ross is chairman for the series.

MARIN CHARITABLE Foundation is sponsoring a dinner dance aboard the Harbor Emperor on Friday night. The boat will leave the Tiburon dock at 7:15 p.m. Mrs. Russell C. Johnson is chairman of the committee, which includes Mmes. William Schoenfeld, Hugh Carruthers, Harry Johnson III and Warren Lawrence.

Tickets are available from Marin Charitable Foundation, Box 759, Ross. Proceeds go to various programs benefitting the youth of Marin.

THE ANNUAL chapter chairmen luncheon of the Dominican College Alumnae Association will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at Caleruega on the college's San Rafael campus.

Mrs. Hazel Kalthof of San Leandro, director of chapters, will conduct a workshop at 10:30 a.m. at Pennafort Hall for chairmen of the 15 alumnae chapters.

Past presidents of the association will be honored along with the chairmen at the luncheon. The event will begin with a noon social hour on the Caleruega terrace .

Association president Mrs. Frank J. Ortman Jr. of Orinda will introduce three new council members at the general meeting following lunch. They are Mrs. Charles Sweeney of Atherton, parliamentarian; Mrs. Richard I. Pera of San Rafael, coordinator of events, and Mrs. Joe E. Petterle of Novato, social chairman. Mrs. Petterle is also Saturday's luncheon chairman.

Sister M. Samuel, O.P., president of Dominican College, will address the group.

THE MARIN Symphony Guild, opening its 19th annual membership drive, has elected officers. Newly elected board members who will serve two years together with 23 existing members are Jesse L. Birnbaum of Sausalito, J. Galen Foster and Mrs. Wilber F. Mathewson of San Rafael, Mrs. Malcolm Manson of Ross, and Mrs. Edward M. Zeller of Kentfield.

Continuing as president of the Guild is Mrs. Robert L. Schultz.

Also re-elected were Mrs. John A. Clements, administrative vice president; Mrs. James B. Stapler Jr., membership vice president; Leonard C. Asiano, treasurer; and Peter H. Behr, legal counsel.

Newly elected were Mrs. Joyce C. Conklin, youth program vice president; J. Galen Foster as business vice president; and Barry W. Boland, corporate secretary.

Other chairmen for the year are Mrs. Edward M. Zeller, president of the Marin Symphony Auxiliary; Mrs. Wilber F. Mathewson, chairman of the Marin Youth Orchestra; Mrs. Leno Franzini, chairman of the Workshop for Strings, and Mrs. Joyce N. Conklin, chairman of Music for Minors.

Marin Symphony Guild has a new office, staffed daily from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Ross Valley Savings and Loan in San Anselmo.

THE ANNUAL legislative dinner meeting will be held Friday by the Novato Business and Professional Women's Club beginning with a social hour at 7 p.m. at the Sportsman's Lodge in Novato.

Presented on a legislative panel will be Ruth Church Gupta, San Francisco attorney and state Business and Professional Women's legislative advocate; Peter Behr, Republican candidate for state senator, and Michael Peevey, Democratic candidate for state senator.

All businesswomen, their friends, associates and husbands are invited.

MARIN STAR Theta Rho Girls Club 121 of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, will hold a bake sale in front of Long's Drugs in Novato beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Proceeds will be used to pay for the club's installation of officers.

Julie Beauregard, president of Theta Rho Assembly of California, will pay a social visit to Marin Star Theta Rho Girls Club at 8 p. m., Friday. The meeting will be held at the Oddfellows Temple in San Rafael.

THE ANNUAL SCHOOL carnival of Bernard E. Eldredge Parents Club will be given Saturday at the school grounds in Petaluma. Game booths and food concessions will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and a spaghetti dinner will be served from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. At 7 o'clock an auction will be held.

ART REVIEW

All Tastes Satisfied At Marin '70 Show

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Group shows have a way of displeasing everyone. To experienced gallery-goers, their all-too frequent jumble of mundane talents are a bore, while others will resent the usual alternative.

That alternative is the stylized presentation where all the work is in one take-it-or-leave-it vein, often on such an esoteric taste level that many are denied the chance to appreciate, much less understand it.

As a group show, the Marin Society of Artists' Annual, through Nov. 1 at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, is different. For a very special reason this is one show that should please just about everyone from the most sophisticated to the person who enjoys his art out front where he can recognize and identify with it.

A sampling of the winners indicates why. The show has humor. Carol Herschleb's giant stoneware dentures with their enormous overbite and other assorted problems, are irrestible.

Then there are other moods as described in Sydney Herschleb's cool green oil of "Ward's Garden Center," or Orene Neal's surreal painting "Alice's Standard Time" in which a frog perches on a backwards clock while fugitives from a deck of cards pour water on a bush.

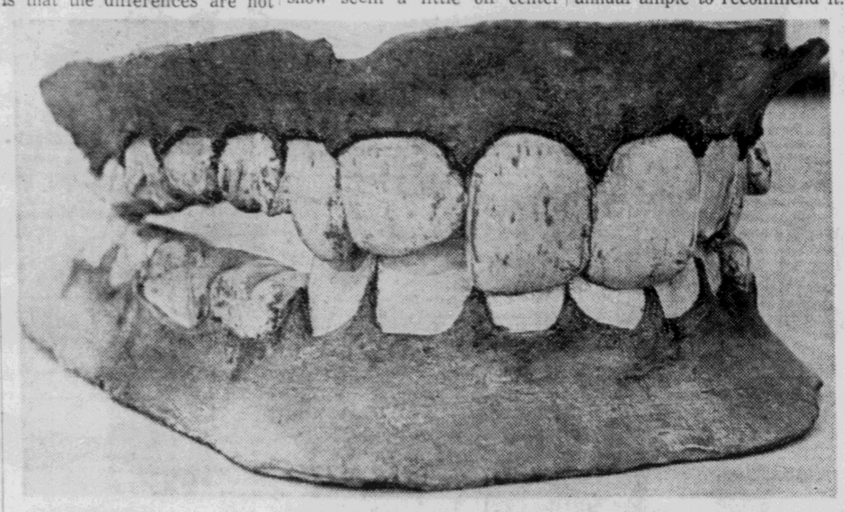
There's an equally strange graphic of a delicate nude by Heidi Endemann, Chris Wagener's scarred and rock-like raku pot, plus Miss Endemann's neat little oil of three tintype gentlemen sitting in brown splendor in a landscape layered in symbolic green balls and ripples of tan, yellow, orange and blue.

In addition, there are Miss Wagener's ceramic tool box, Ruth Bruce's twice woven nylon rug and Clarice Blum's hunky gold, sapphire and pearl ring plus honorable mention winners Vic York's reaching abstract wood forms, Maggie Hazell-Rosen's charcoal drawing, Ann Carroll's dirt plain landscape, June Lederman's tall hills with hyphenated cattle and Brent Bushnell's hard, mirrored sculpture.

All are obviously sharply different. But that's only half the point. The whole point, and also the real reason the society's annual can have such wide appeal is that the differences are not just from work to work but are innate in each work individually. If a painting is a simple realistic landscape the realism is not the usual postcard interpretation but rather one that seems pushed through that particular artist's stream of consciousness where it is affected by his particular vision and experience.

It makes everything in the show seem a little off center from the expected. With few exceptions, each work belongs solely to the individual who created it and it seems valid to employ that currently dog-earned word "honest" to describe it. So, while little in the show is over anyone's head, those jaded souls who feel they have seen everything will find exceptions. All of which gives the society's annual ample to recommend it.

PERSONAL VIEWPOINT — Artist Heidi Endemann's prize winning oil painting is but one of many individual ideas and approaches to art which mark the Marin Society of Artists' annual exhibition in Ross.



DENTURES — The prize Carol Herschleb won for this gigantic set of dentures was obviously awarded only for its fitting place in art, but as such it provides one of several humorous touches in the Marin Society of Artists' current annual exhibition in Ross.

Bomber Sentenced To Prison Term

MARTINEZ (UPI)—Anthony R. Tankersley was sentenced to one to five years in prison Tuesday for possessing explosives.

Judge Richard A. Arneson who pronounced sentence in Contra Costa County Superior Court said the term would run concurrently with a previous sentence for bombing a Pacific Gas & Electric Co. utility pole in the San Francisco East Bay Area.

Tankersley, 29, pleaded guilty after returning from Canada, where he had fled.

4 Concerts Scheduled By Symphony

Four concerts — one more than last year — will be presented in the second annual Marin series on the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, under the musical direction of the orchestra's new conductor, Seiji Ozawa.

The Saturday evening concerts are set for Jan. 16, Feb. 6, March 27 and May 22 in the gymnasium of Terra Linda High School, with Ozawa at the podium for three of them.

The series experienced staging difficulties last year, but this season a raised platform is promised to bring the orchestra in full view of the audience.

Pianist John Browning will join Maestro Ozawa on Jan. 16 for Prokofieff's Piano Concerto No. 1. Haydn's Symphony No. 1 and Brahms's Symphony No. 1 will complete the program.

On Feb. 6 assistant conductor Niklaus Wyss will conduct the overture to Beethoven's "Prometheus," Mozart's Symphony No. 40, Wolf's Italian Serenade and Stravinsky's Suite from "Petrouchka."

On March 27 Ozawa will conduct the overture to Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra; Berlioz's "Harold in Italy," featuring the orchestra's principal violist, Rolf Persinger of Tiburon, as soloist, and Tschaikowsky's Piano Concerto No. 1, featuring young pianist Andre Watts.

"Four Views of Romeo and Juliet" is the theme of the series' final concert. Included will be love music from Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," the overture-fantasy from Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" music from Prokofieff's "Romeo and Juliet" and sympohonic dances from Bernstein's "West Side Story.

Nixon To UN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will address the United Nations on Oct. 23, the 25th anniversary of the organization.

Marin Symphony Guild Opens 1970-71 Membership Drive

The Marin Symphony Guild has opened its membership drive for the 1970-71 season under the theme "Your Marin Symphony."

Guild president Mrs. Robert L. Schultz of Mill Valley said $30,000 is this year's goal. Proceeds will support the Marin Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Sandor Salgo; The Marin Youth Orchestra and Music for Minors, conducted by Hugo Rinaldi, and Workshop for Strings under Robert L. Jacobson.

Membership fees in the guild cover admission to the three Marin Symphony concerts to be given on Nov. 22, Feb. 14 and April 18 at the College of Marin Gymnasium. Members will have first choice of reserved season tickets for the first year of the symphony in the veteran's memorial auditorium at the civic center next fall.

Guild members are invited to symphony previews, dress rehearsals, held the Saturday before each concert and the annual symphony ball.

POW Group Plans To Press For Releases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 300 men and women gathered on the steps of the Capitol Monday before visiting members of congress to press for release of American prisoners of war in Vietnam.

Mrs. Carole North of Wellfleet, Mass., newly elected chairman of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, told newsmen "We are far from satisfied that everything that could be done is being done..."

(Among those who made the trip was Julie Butler of San Rafael whose husband, Air Force Capt. W. Butler, was captured in 1967.)

Mrs. North's organization, which helped to organize the recently held joint session of congress to call attention to the plight of American POWs, completed its four-day convention here today. Members planned to meet with congressmen throughout the day to obtain their signatures on cards pledging support for a greater U. S. effort to win freedom for POWs.

Mrs. North declared the organization had "...no intention of letting up the pressure even for one minute until all of our men are identified and, ultimately, set free." Her own husband was shot down over North Vietnam in an Air Force jet Aug. 1, 1966.

While she conceded the "government is doing everything it can," she emphasized more could be done through a massive letter-writing campaign to the leaders of North Vietnam. "I want my husband home and I want him healthy," she said.

Texas millionaire H. Ross Perot addressed the organization Saturday at a closed-door session to brief the wives on what was being done to secure the release of POWs. Mrs. North declined to discuss what Perot, who has been concerned with the prisoner issue, said.

Report Sees The Political System Scarcely 'Fail-Safe'

BERKELEY (UPI) — Right wing extremists movements in the United States do not spring out of bigotry but rather than a "backlash against change," according to a prize-winning analysis published today.

Prejudice—regional, national, religious or racial—is then revitalized and becomes a symbolic base for such movements, said Seymour Lipset and Earl Raab.

Their analysis, published as "The Politics of Unreason," was produced as part of the University of California Survey Research Center's "Patterns of American Prejudice" series under a $500,000 grant from the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. The book received the $10,000 Gunnar Myrdal Prize for works on human behavior prior to publication.

Lipset, a professor of government and social relations at Harvard, and Raab, executive director of the San Francisco Jewish Community Relations Council, traced right-wing extremism from foundation of the nation until the present.

They warn that the American population is "highly vulnerable to political extremism" and that "the American political system is less vulnerable but scarcely fail-safe." The authors credit the two-party system and the cross-pressures within each party with providing the "chief practical bulwark" against a right wing takeover.

Lipset and Raab said rightest movements "have been more indigenous to America and have left more of a mark" than the leftist ones, usually by affecting public policy through the major political parties.

They said extreme right wing movements have primarily developed as a reaction against social and economic changes which displace some population groups from former positions of dominance.

Such movements are basically made up of ordinary people caught in stress. The bigotry and "conspiracy theory" which usually accompany them are not the source of extremism but developments which follow it, the authors contended.

For example, Lipset and Raab said, inherent racism may be enforced by the white blue-collar worker's concern about what may happen to him in the course of Negro progress. But the cause of the backlash is "new areas, new industries, new migrant groups, new ethnic groups" encroaching upon the old, they said.

Lipset and Raab, using opinion surveys made by the University Center, warned the American public lacks "a firm and comprehensive commitment" which would make it reject an extremist program containing undemocratic elements.

The surveys said massive numbers of Americans have a "ritual attachment" to free speech, religious freedom and due process, but would throw them out in the case of hard-core dissenters, atheists running for public office, and sex offenders.

GMC Sole Transit Line Bus Bidder

General Motors Corp. was the sole bidder yesterday, at $71,827, to provide two transit buses to the Golden Gate Bridge District for its Sausalito ferry feeder service.

The bid will be presented to district directors for acceptance at 10 a.m. Friday in toll plaza offices.

Transit Mgr. Donald White said the 51-passenger, air-conditioned diesel coaches would be in service by Nov. 15 if the bid is accepted. They first must be painted and have minor modifications to comply with California laws, he said.

With sales tax, the two buses would cost $75,777. White had estimated the cost at $76,000.

As is common in the business, White said, the bid specifications do not include tires. Each bus would need seven tires at about $155 each, for a total of some $2,170.

White noted that the district was able to get the bids on short notice because the customer who had ordered the buses was willing to wait for a later delivery. The customer reportedly was the City of Las Vegas, and was short of immediate cash for the buses.

The district has been leasing two buses from Greyhound Lines at a monthly cost of about $4,500 since starting the ferry service in August, White said.

Peace Symbol Up For Trademark, Like Luv

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Patent Office has tentatively decided to register the peace symbol as a commercial trademark. It says the competition is between a shoemaker and a clothing firm which already has trademarked "Luv."

"If this were the accepted symbol of the Quakers, or any organized religious sect which is absolutely pacifistic, we would not register it," C. M. Wendt, director of the Patent Office's trademark examining office, told UPI.

"But it's a far cry from that used by the hippie movement Those who flaunt all the conventions of organized society," he added.

Spokesmen for two peace organizations disagreed.

"I think that's crazy," said Mrs. Dorothy B. Jones, Beverly Hills, Calif., cochairman of Another Mother For Peace. "It isn't just used by hippie groups. All over the world, it has become a symbol of peace."

"They're trying to make money on something that should be beyond commercialization," said Vincent F. McGee Jr., executive secretary of Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace.

The peace symbol is an inverted Y in a circle, with the bar of the Y extending through. It was first popularized by the "ban the bomb" movement of the 1950's, and is widely used by various opponents of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The Sept. 6 issue of the Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office listed two trademark applications for the symbol.

One was from Intercontinent Shoe Corp., New York, which said it puts the symbol in metal or leather on shoes, boots, and sandals. The other was filed by Harold Koenig, president of Luv, Inc., Miami Fla. Koenig said his firm makes "boutique type high fashion clothing for the junior customer." Wendt said the listing threw the two firms into competition for the trademark. The trade mark trial and appeal board will pick the winner, he said, based mostly on which firm used the emblem first. Four other applicants, also clothing firms, have been rejected.

UPI learned of the listing from John Coombe, 24, a George Washington University law student who peruses the Gazette as a clerk for a trademark law firm. Coombe said he and other law students may oppose any commercial registration of the peace symbol.

Wendt said anyone could object, but probably would get nowhere unless they demonstrate an economic interest in the outcome.

Recreation Use Up More Than Costs

Use of recreational programs in Novato has risen 10 times in the past seven years while their cost has risen 7.5 times, it was reported last night in the annual report to the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission.

In fiscal 1962-63, the department had a budget of $20,645 and 33,100 people used the programs. In fiscal 1969-70 it had a budget of $151,885 and 366,733 people used the recreational programs.

To finance this, the tax rate has gone up 2.5 times or from 10 cents to 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The department had 15 part time empolyees seven years ago and now has 75.

Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, reported that there was a decrease of 4,745 using city recreational programs in August, but an increase of 9,604 in September of this year.

The commission postponed consideration of a plan for the Tank Site Park on Vallejo Avenue and Seventh Street until 8 p.m., Oct. 19.

Door Flies Open On Maddox' Plane

MACON, Ga. (UPI)—The door on a private plane carrying Gov. Lester Maddox blew open in flight Tuesday and Maddox had to lunge across a seat and hold the door closed until the craft landed safely.

"It was nerve wracking and a strain," Maddox said later.

The twin-engine plane had just taken off from the Fulton County Airport in Atlanta when the door flew open. Maddox lay stretched across a seat for several minutes, holding onto the door, until the pilot could land the plane. Maddox switched planes and continued his flight to the Georgia Democratic Party Convention in Macon.

Cigarette Ads Tied To Pot Use

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Cigarette commercials are contributing to the use of marijuana in this country, a San Francisco psychiatrist and drug expert claims.

"By teaching people the acceptability of smoking tobacco, we are indirectly teaching them the smoking of marijuana," Dr. Joel Fort told the annual convention of the American Osteopathic Association Tuesday.

Fort, author of "The Pleasure Seekers: The Drug Crisis, Youth and Society," said cigarette ads play on the theme of escaping to a better world through smoking. It's only a short jump from tobacco to marijuana, he said.

RENOVATED STATION — The renovated main Sausalito Fire Station contains nearly double the 2,700 square feet of floor space in the original building. The portion of the building beyond the divider between the two plastic equipment doors was added in the project. (Independent-Journal photos)

RENEWAL IN SAUSALITO

Fire Department Quarters Larger

By C.P. McCARTHY

Despite the fact it can't aford a vacuum cleaner, the Sausaltio Fire Department is adjusting smoothly to its enlarged and renovated main fire station at 20 Caledonia Avenue.

The renewal project, financed primarily by an $85,000 bond issue approved last year, has nearly doubled the floor space at the station, bringing the total to approximately 5,400 square feet, much of it covered with easily maintained indoor-outdoor carpeting.

The total cost of the project is approaching $107,000, but Fire Chief Charles E. Masten said the renovated station is better than getting a new one. The original station was built in 1940.

The station now provides training, storage and working facilities which were previously unavailable, as well as a fringe benefit — additional privacy for firemen, Masten said.

The vacuum cleaner problem — caused by a shortage of petty cash — so far has been beaten by "sampling" four different salesmen's demonstration models, although Masten admitted he did not know how much longer the department could continue with this system.

In a departure from fire station tradition, Sausalito architect Donald K. Olsen has eliminated red lights in front of the station. The three equipment entrances — one facing on Caledonia and two on Johnson Street — have clear plastic doors. High intensity lights inside illuminate the fire equipment and the theory is that the need for the red lights — to discourage parking in front of the station's driveway — is eliminated because persons can see the equipment inside.

Much of the interior of the building was designed with an eye toward maintenance. The carpet, for instance, can be vacuumed in a few minutes, as opposed to the hours it would take to mop and wax tile floors.

The quick and easy maintenance, Masten said, releases men for more training and free time.

Much of that free time is spent either in the new dayroom or in the classroom.

The classroom is a new addition. Masten said about 75 per cent of the men attended school, and they now have a quiet place to study. The room is also used for training sessions, and Masten said it probably could be used to teach public first aid courses and for city commission meetings.

The dayroom, which in the original building was on the first floor in public view, is now on the second floor, allowing the men to relax out of uniform.

A new tower also provides a hose-drying and training facility.

A few problems remain, but they are apparently temporary ones.

One is drapes. Masten said he plans to install drapes in some of the rooms and wooden roller-type blinds in others. In the meantime, most of the windows remain unshaded, and the dormitory windows are shaded by blankets nailed over them.

NO BLINDS — Blankets nailed over windows provide shades in the station's second-floor dormitory. Eventually, wooden roller-type blinds will replace the blankets. The room, and gleaming fire pole in the foreground, are in the new section of the building.

Man Bound Over On Pot Charge

Thomas Maurice Purbaugh, 21, of San Quentin Village, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a charge of possessing marijuana. He is to be arraigned Tuesday.

Purbaugh was arrested Aug. 31 after officers stopped his car because it didn't have front license plate and said they found what appeared to be several packets of haishish.

PALE FACES MUST CHANGE THE SCRIPT

Instead, the Columbus Day script has been delicately rewritten so that this year's pageant depicts Columbus, played for the 12th straight year by Joseph Cervetto of San Rafael, returning triumphantly to Spain.

Reason for the change in script, according to a pageant spokesman, is that the Inidans who have taken part in the play each year have refused to continue. Without Indians there can be no landing, the spokesman said.

The Indians claim they are tired of being "discovered" in their own land and the general lack of hospitality toward them by the pageant sponsors.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1970 23

Members Meet New Boss, Set Election

Marin County Employees Association members last night met their new manager, Francis J. O'Connell of Fairfax, and began preparing for the annual election of officers Nov. 9.

Eleven employees were nominated to five of directorships.

President Newl G. Weaver said ballots will be mailed to all members during the last week of October. Results will be announced at the annual meeting Nov. 9. The top five will join the six carryover members to form the 11-man board.

Carryover members are Weaver; Leona Meysembourg, health department; Robert Testa, fire department; Wade R. Powell, sheriff's department; Frank Martin, public works, and Arthur Madsen, public health department.

Man To Appear On Pot Charge

A 24-year-old San Francisco man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana after he was arrested on the Waldo Grade by the California Highway Patrol.

Gary Lee Yoder posted $750 bail and will appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Officers said he was stopped on Highway 101 near Spencer Avenue because his truck lacked an outside mirror. A metal film can containing suspected marijuana was found on the floor.

California's first commercial productive oil well was brought in 1876.

Interim Plan On Housing Issue Asked

The Tiburon Planning Commission has recommended the city council adopt an urgency interim ordinance to require design review for certain single-family dwellings.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said the ordinance, if adopted, would require submission of plans to the city's design review board of proposed single-family or duplex dwellings which exceed two stories or 30 feet in height.

Action by the board would be limited to consideration of the preservation of views from adjacent residences.

Moody said the urgency ordinance would remain in effect only until the city's zoning ordinance can be revised in regard to defining and controlling maximum height.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

TRAILS — Recommended to the city council adoption of phase two of the Tiburon trails plan which calls for the establishment of a pedestrian trail along Tiburon Ridge from the downtown Tiburon area to the Corte Madera city limits.

HEARINGS — Set public hearings Nov. 2 on revisions in the planning department fee schedule; Oct. 29 for a Joint City Council - Planning Commission meeting regarding a housing element provision in the city's general plan, and Nov. 2 on use permits in planned development zones.

A Vote Of Confidence For Planner Chairman

Paul Stanley, who was accused of misconduct at the Petaluma City Council meeting Monday, was reelected last night as chairman of the city planning commission in a show of confidence.

Attorney Leroy J. Lounibous, representing land owners protesting an apartment development, said Stanley had threatened two of his clients and that a grand jury investigation would be requested.

Mayor Helen Putnam and the city council made no response to the accusations at the meeting, but Stanley was called to the city hall yesterday afternoon to meet with Mrs. Putnam, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer and City Atty. Edouard E. Robert.

Stanley would not comment on the content of the meeting, but said the mayor was highly upset by the accusation.

His position as chairman of the planning commission was questioned at the meeting. Stanley said it would have been logical for him to step down since he had served two consecutive one-year terms, but that his intended successor, Robert Koenitzer, said he could not take the chair because he may be leaving the commission as a result of a change in employment.

Stanley said that Commissioner Melvin Waters, also a possible candidate for chairman, refused to take the post under pressure and was named vice chairman instead.

Stanley said he had little comment to make at the impromptu city hall meeting because he had not been present to hear the accusations and had not yet heard a tape recording of the proceedings.

"To me it's very distasteful," Stanley said. "But I'm not scared. I'd love to get before the grand jury and clear the air. I have nothing to hide."

Hub Trustees Agree To A Citizens' Goals Panel

The San Anselmo School District board last night agreed to set up a committee of residents to establish district-wide education goals to be achieved by the teaching staff.

Supt. William Kenneth Lowry said today that once the goals are determined, the district's staff will determine means of reaching them.

Lowry said that a student with a special interest now may not be receiving necessary encouragement for developing that interest.

Such a student, he said, shoull be encouraged to pursue his interests in class and should receive the same acknowledgement as students excelling in more academic subjects.

Through such a program, he said, the student will be given a basic competancy and skill.

Until now, Lowry said, education planning has been done on a basis of "rapidly changing emergencies."

Formation of the goals committee will be at the Oct. 20 meeting, he said, adding he expected the committee to spend about three months developing them.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

HIRING — Approved the hiring of psychologist William Emerson for testing and evaluating educationally handicapped students. He will be paid $4,000 for his part-time service.

TRANSFER — Approved the transfer of one educationally handicapped class instructor from that position to remedial reading instruction.

CLOSED SESSION — Entered closed session at the request of trustee Basil H. Scalabrini to discuss hiring and firing of certified personnel.

Council Finds Roof Repairs Cost More

A special meeting of the San Anselmo City Council has been set for tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss changing the contract price for roof repairs on the mansion in Robson-Harrington Park.

Mayor James F. Reed said the Osborn Construction Co. of San Rafael has asked for an addition of $975 to its original $5,340 contract. The sum would be for a skylight the city thought was included in the original bid, Reed said.

Driver Nabbed As Suspect In Hit-Run Case

An 18-year-old Sebastopol girl was arrested last night on suspicion of felony hit-run driving at a Petaluma service station.

Candace D. Billings was arrested at 7:15 p.m. yesterday at her home by Sebastopol police. She was booked into the Petaluma jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Michael Statfield of Santa Rosa, an attendant at the Standard station, 4999 Petaluma Boulevard North, told police he was filling the gas tank of a car at 1:45 p.m. and washing the rear window when the car pulled away from the pumps and sped off.

Statfield was thrown against the gas pumps and suffered bruised ribs on the left side, according to police. The gas nozzle was broken causing damage estimated at $28.

To Describe Roles

Independent-Journal photographers Jim Kean and Roger Bockrath will describe their role in covering the shootout Aug. 7 at Marin Civic Center at a dinner meeting tomorrow of Sigma Delta Chi's Northern California chapter at the San Francisco Press Club.

Sacramento Firemen Strike, Block Buses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — City firemen, demanding higher pay, walked off the job today and set up picket lines at the Sacramento Transit Authority to cripple bus service for the capital.

The 450 striking members of Fire Fighters Local 522, AFL-CIO, were replaced by 140 firemen from the California Division of Forestry at 11 of the city's 21 firehouses. The strike began at the change of shifts at 8 a.m.

The union members ignored a Superior Court order barring a work stoppage until Oct. 15, and the city administration said copies of the decree would be served on picketers.

Hundreds of persons appeared at bus stops unaware of the strike situation. They had to resort to other means of transportation when they realized bus service was at a standstill.

The walkout was the first public safety strike in the city's history.

Members of Local 522 picketed the state Capitol the past two days to protest Gov. Ronald Reagan's authorization of the use of CDF firemen to replace strikers.

A CDF spokesman said the 140 men sent here were "handpicked" and would not be affected by the picket lines.

Loren V. Smith, general manager of the California State Employees Association, said Monday that the state firemen would serve in the city "with reluctance and bitterness."

Last week the San Mateo Ranger Unit of the CDF asked the CSEA for statewide strike sanction in an effort to get higher pay.

Bargaining in an effort to head off the city walkout ended in an impasse Tuesday night. There was no word when talks would be resumed.

During negotiations Tuesday, the firemen demanded their salaries be raised from $900 a month to $991 on Feb. 1. The city offered an immediate raise to $950 a month and an increase to $1,010 a month on July 1. Previously, the union had requested an immediate raise to $1,002 while the city offered $950.

Statisticians predict Texas' population will reach 18 million by 1990, up 7 million from now.

Antiplano Rich In Pre-Colombian Lore

By KARL GAHWYLER

Of Neue Zurcher Zeitung (Zurich)

(Via Toronto News Service)

The world's longest and highest populated plain, at an altitude ranging between 10,000 and 17,000 feet, it stretches along the west coast of South America on the shoulder of the Andes from Chili through Bolivia, Peru and Ecuador to Colombia.

In its most beautiful and renowned region, around Lake Titicaca, the snow-capped peaks of the Cordilleras loom above the high plateau to a height of over 22,000 feet. The human eye can see for hundreds of miles through the thin, glass-clear air.

At sunrise and sunset a veil of rapidly shifting pastel tones is drawn over the broad expanse of the plains. During the day, particularly in winter, the scene is dominated by blue and brown; the blue of the high-vaulting heavens and the brown of the treeless, barren earth. Despite the altitude, snow is rare, with the proximity of the equator confining it to the highest peaks.

It is not only the landscape here which makes an indelible impression, but also the tangible presence of pre-Columbian times. It was in these barren reaches, at this great altitude, that the Incas and their ancestors established their amazing culture. Tiahuanacu, Sacsayhuaman, Pisac, Machu Pichu, to name only the most famous, are megalithic citadels, temples and cities the archaic power of which is hardly parallelled anywhere in the world.

It is not only these mighty witnesses of a great past which keep the spirit of the Inca empire alive, however, but also such lesser vestiges as an old Inca roadway, an irrigation canal, an ancient grave, a shrine, or the Andes terraces. Particularly the latter accompany a visitor on every hand; step-like cuts in the steep mountain flanks, made in order to gain a bit of cultivable soil, rising hundreds of stories high up incredibly steep slopes, make one aware that in pre-Columbian times the Altiplano must have been a blossoming region.

Today, that is no longer the case. The Altiplano has become one of the greatest regions of misery in the world. Its people have managed to salvage an extraordinary legacy of customs and traditions, thus enabling a visitor to experience through their language, music, costumes and ancient religious piety, something of the great era of the past.

But that mighty past itself, the product of an active and rich life, has disappeared completely. The descendants of the highly-developed Incas are now themselves urgently in need of development.

The causes of this decay are manifold. One of them is certainly the fact that the people were not capable of guiding their own destinies.

They were always strongly led, and with the downfall of the Inca leaders the people lost their self-assuredness and slipped into dull passivity. Another factor was the harsh environment, with temperature fluctuations as great as 50 degrees between day and night, sparse soil, poor growth, lack of rain, no trees.

Additional elements were the feudal conditions of land ownership introduced by the Spaniards and a tenacious clinging to outmoded agricultural methods.

All of these resulted in a situation which was described as follows by U.N. expert Luis Saenz, himself a Peruvian: "There are few segments of the world's population whose food situation is as grave as that of the inhabitants of the Altiplano, except for regions beset by war, famine or epidemics." The alarming food problem in this area is accompanied by the classic symptoms of underdevelopment: Extremely high infant mortality, very low average life expectancy and a frighteningly high level of illiteracy.

In April, 1967, in Chuquibambilla, some 100 miles from Puno on Lake Titicaca, work was begun on a Swiss development project which holds great promise for the improvement of the agrarian situation on the Altiplano and thus for a general improvement of living standards there.

With financial assistance from the Service for Technical Co-operation, an agency under the supervision of the Swiss Federal Government in Berne, the undertaking was founded by the Association for Swiss-Peruvian Co-operation (ASEP).

Additional financial support was provided by a leading association of Swiss retail food merchants. In September, 1969, the Swiss Caritas organization replaced ASEP as sponsor of the project.

Known as the Agricultural and Trades Development Center, the project received a grant from the Peruvian government in the form of a hacienda more than 4,000 acres in extent.

The Swiss team of specialists includes a veterinarian, an agronomist, a secretary, a mechanic and a nurse, with 20 to 30 Indian helpers. They are operating according to a 10-year plan in the course of which they are to be gradually replaced by Peruvians. In 1976 the Peruvian government will take over management of the project.

At present, the undertaking is in its second phase, in which its model farm is being completed and an agricultural school is about to begin operations.

The primary aims of the model farm are to provide practical demonstration of new agricultural methods and to improve cattle breeding. It has already achieved several notable successes. The main problems facing cattle breeding on the Altiplano are a chronic lack of fodder and the inadequacies of the available breeds of animal.

The fodder problem has already been largely solved through construction of silos. Oats are planted and cut while still green, to be stored in large pits in the earth. Treated in this way, the fodder retains its full value for two years. This method can be easily adapted by the Indian farmers.

Under normal grazing conditions one hectar of land feeds 1.2 sheep per year, while with the silo system the same amount of soil can feed 3.5 sheep. Through the use of prime breeding rams, and by means of artificial insemination, it has been possible to develop a herd of 3,500 sheep bearing superior meat and wool.

Such progress is particularly important for the "comunidades" numerous in this region; they are cooperatives consisting of groups of families who, for countless centuries, have owned and worked their land jointly. Cattle breeding is also moving ahead.

The pure-blooded Swiss bull donated to the project by the Service for Technical Co-operations is being used to improve the local Criolla breed (only about half of the newly imported Swiss cows have survived the extreme altitude). The improved fodder has increased by one third the milk given by the Indians' cows.

Simple methods taken as a matter of course by Swiss farmers, but unknown on the Altiplano, have also yielded excellent results. This is particularly true of the building of barns and vegetable farming. Since the Indians have considerable experience in building their own houses out of adobe, they were easily taught to also build barns. These are very useful since they protect the cattle against loss of body-heat, make possible better feeding and facilitate the collection of dung which provides valuable fertilizer for the sparse soil.

As to vegetables, practically everything can be grown with the exception of tomatoes. The plants are protected against consant night frost by large, high-walled beds made of adobe. Previously completely unknown in the area, vegetable cultivation will help to improve the monotonous, unhealthy fare of the Altiplano Indians.

To combat the acute protein shortage in the area, the center instituted experiments with "canihua," a local plant known to the Incas, the seeds of which contain 24 per cent protein.

The flour thus obtained is mixed with conventional white flour and baked into a tasty, nourishing bread in the traditional Indian oven — in keeping with the principle that only techniques which can be adopted by the local people hold out any promise for real progress.

The model farm already enjoys an excellent reputation in the Puno district and is frequently visited by peasants hungry for knowledge or eager for advice. But the farm alone cannot sufficiently spread the urgently-needed new knowledge. To better serve this end the development center will soon open an agricultural school.

The housing for its students, built in the local style, has already been completed. For psychological and pedagogical reasons the school will begin by giving instruction to 20 young married couples.

ORDINANCE NO. 1790
AN ORDINANCE OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN AMENDING CHAPTER 11.20 OF THE MARIN COUNTY CODE PROVIDING FOR THE DIRECTOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS TO ISSUE OCCUPANCY PERMITS FOR MOORED VESSELS

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I. Section 11.20.010 of the Marin County Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11.20.010. Definitions. For the purposes of this chapter the following phrases, words and their derivations shall have the meaning given herein. When not inconsistent with the context, words in the present tense include the future, words in the plural number include the singular number, and words in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is always mandatory and not merely directory.

"Vessel" means any watercraft of any type or size, including but not limited to barges, ferry boats, arks, yachts, houseboats, floating homes and rafts.

"Moor" means the fixing of a vessel in one location, temporarily or permanently by mooring, anchoring, grounding or any other means.

"Transient vessel" means any vessel temporarily moored in the County of Marin which is occupied for a period of less than four consecutive days or ten days in any calendar month.

"Waterway" means any water, waterway, lake, river, creek, canal, lagoon, bay, inlet, slough, tributary, or arm of the sea situated within or bounding the County of Marin.

"Director" means the duly authorized and acting director of the Public Works Department of the County of Marin.

"Person" includes any person, firm, association, corporation, or any members, agents or employees of any of the foregoing.

"Garbage" includes any or all of the following: Garbage, swill, refuse, cans, bottles, papers, vegetable matter, carcasses of dead animals, offal, trash, rubbish and radioactive waste material.

"Sewage" means any and all waste substance, liquid or solid associated with human habitation, or which contains or may be contaminated with human or animal excreta or excrement, offal, or any feculent matter.

SECTION II. 11.20.020 of the Marin County Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11.20.020. Prohibited acts and activities. It shall be unlawful for any person to do any of the following:

(a) Discharge untreated sewage into a waterway;

(b) Dump or throw garbage into a waterway;

(c) Occupy, or cause, or permit another person to occupy any moored vessel as living quarters, other than a transient vessel, without first securing a valid occupancy permit as hereinafter provided.

(d) Rent or lease berthing space to any vessel other than a transient vessel, for which as occupancy permit has not been secured;

(e) Cause or allow a vessel located on or moored to his property to be occupied in contravention of this chapter for a period in excess of thirty days after receipt of a written notice from the Director, specifying the vessel involved and the location thereof;

(f) Furnish or supply electrical service, natural gas or fresh water, or provide a sewer connection, to any vessel, other than transient vessels, for which an occupancy permit has not been secured.

SECTION III. Section 11.20.030 of the Marin County Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11.20.030. Permits.

A. FORM-FEE. All applications for occupancy permits shall be in writing on a form supplied by the Marin County Department of Public Works, and shall be accompanied by a fee in the amount of twenty-five dollars.

B. CONTENTS OF APPLICATIONS. All applications shall, as nearly as is possible, contain the following information:

(1) The size, type and location of the vessel for which the permit is sought;

(2) The number of people to be accommodated on board;

(3) All provision that has been made for disposal of sewage by connection to an approved shoreside sewage disposal system;

(4) All provision that has been made for connection of shoreside utilities;

(5) Such other information as the Director may deem necessary to effectuate the provisions of this chapter.

C. ISSUANCE. If the Director, after investigation, determines that suitable provision has been made for the disposal of sewage and connection of shoreside utilities, and that occupancy of the vessel for which the permit is requested will not create a hazard to the health, welfare or safety of the occupants thereof or the community in general, he shall issue the permit. All permits may be made subject to such conditions as the Director deems appropriate to insure compliance with the provisions of this chapter.

D. POSTING. Permits shall be permanently posted and maintained upon the vessel in a conspicuous location.

The registration number of the occupancy permit shall be affixed to the vessel in letters and numbers four inches in height and clearly visible in the vicinity of the main entrance.

E. TERM-RENEWAL. All permits issued hereunder shall be effective for a period of one year, provided, however, that any material change in the conditions shown upon the application or any change in ownership or location of the vessel shall revoke the permit. Permits may be renewed by resubmission of an appropriate application and payment of a fee in the amount of one dollar.

F. INSPECTIONS - REVOCATION. The Director shall have authority to board and/or inspect any vessel when he has reasonable cause to believe that the vessel is occupied in violation of the provisions hereof. The Director shall have the right to revoke any permit granted hereunder in the event that he ascertains that the permittee, or any occupancy of the vessel, is acting in contravention of any of the provisions hereof.

G. APPEAL. In the event that any applicant or permittee is for any reason dissatisfied with the actions of the Director by reason of failure to grant a permit, revocation of a permit, or imposition of any conditions relating to the permit, the applicant or permittee shall have the right to appeal to the board of supervisors, in writing, within ten days after notification of the action of the Director. Upon receipt of an appeal the board of supervisors shall call a hearing within fifteen days from receipt of the appeal and give the applicant notice thereof by registered or certified mail addressed to the appellant at the address shown on the application or permit. At the conclusion of the hearing, the board of supervisors shall render a decision, which decision shall be final.

SECTION 4. Section 11.20.031 of the Marin County Code is hereby repealed.

SECTION 5. This ordinance shall be and is hereby declared to be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after its passage, and shall be published once before the expiration of fifteen (15) days after its passage with the names of the Supervisors voting for and against the same in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the County of Marin.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, held on the 29th day of September, 1970, by the following vote:

AYES: SUPERVISORS: William A. Gnoss, Louis H. Baar, Peter R. Arrigoni, Michael Wornum.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

Salaries For Special Districts

Salaries of public employees have been the subject of strong debate this year in budget sessions throughout Marin, at meetings of the board of supervisors, at meetings of city councils and of school district and special district boards.

Employees and their representatives, pleading for large pay increases, cited the rising cost of living and often argued that more money was paid in other counties, cities or districts for similar work.

Few employees got as much as they requested. Most local agencies granted more than they were willing at the outset.

The 1970-71 payrolls of all local agencies in Marin as of the start of the new fiscal year, July 1, are being published by the Independent-Journal during the next few weeks as a complete accounting of what is now paid public employees and as a basis of comparison from agency to agency.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Starting To Drink Heavily At 60 May Be Slow Form Of Suicide

E. C. G. writes: "If a 60-year-old man drinks a pint of whisky and at least one quart of beer every night before and after supper, with the intake just about doubled on weekends, would he be considered an abuser of alcohol? And wouldn't all this booze eventually have a harmful effect upon him? In addition, he is a heavy smoker but says he is "too old" to change. These habits are supposed to be forms of relaxation and have been going on for some time but they have me worried. As far as I know, he has no other problem."

Van Dellen

OBVIOUSLY this man is drinking and smoking too much. At 60, the booze is more harmful than the tobacco. And, if he is not now an alcoholic, he soon will be. Unfortunately, many with this history do not live long because the heavy drinking does irreparable damage to the heart muscle, brain and liver.

Telling him to stop does very little good because the decision to go on the wagon must be made by him. He will not do so unless he develops an illness or has an accident that is related to his drinking. Perhaps only a good scare will motivate him to stop.

WHY DO SO many people turn to alcohol after 60? Drinking may be a slow form of suicide for those who reach this age and realize that their dreams and ambitions have not materialized. Perhaps they were not promoted, forced to take an early retirement or had a business reversal. Some are depressed and obtain relief from alcohol.

OTHERS ARE BORED or unhappy. They never cultivate a hobby, a desire to read, or pursued outdoor activities. Or perhaps the individual neglected to acquire friends or to strengthen his contact with relatives or married children. These are some of the reasons many retirees find solace in a bottle.

A new lease on life may help this man more than criticism or admonitions. Evening studies, religion, travel or politics may be the answer. It is well to remember that man is through when he no longer contributes to the world in which he lives.

ADVANCING PARALYSIS

L. F. J. writes: Please be kind enough to tell me whatever you know about Gilligans-Beret. It seems to be a nervous condition which seriously interferes with walking.

REPLY

It is. In Guillain-Barre, there is a severe, rapidly advancing muscular weakness, pain and numbness that begins in the feet and legs. Within a few days, it ascends to the trunk, arms and face. This self-limited disease lasts from a few weeks to several months. The cause is unknown.

RECTAL BLEEDING

A reader writes: What could possibly cause a heavy discharge of blood with a bowel movement? This has happened to me three times in the last two weeks.

REPLY

A ruptured blood vessel is the most likely cause but you need an examination to determine the exact bleeding point. The bleeding may be from a hemorrhoid, fissure, polyp, or a malignancy.

ULCER AT 13

L. M. wirtes: I'm 13 and I think I have an ulcer from the emotional strain put on me by my two sisters. Is it possible for someone my age to develop an ulcer?

REPLY

Yes. Ulcer also occurs in infants and very young children but not so often as occurs in adulthood. An X-ray will answer your question in a jiffy.

Freitas Park Is Hit By Vandals

Freitas Park, an Oriental-style park under construction by the City of San Rafael near Kaiser Foundation Hospital, was hit by vandals during the night, park officials said today.

Officials said roof shingles were ripped from a building containing rest rooms and a storage area, causing about $50 damage. The trimly landscaped park is located on Montecillo Road.

TELEVISION REVIEW

'FBI' Makes The 10 Most Wanted List

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Marcus Welby, M.D.," the ABC-TV medical fiction series that climbed to the top of the ratings last season, continues to be television's most popular show despite the recent onslaught of new programs.

With Robert Young portraying the title role of Welby, the series is the across-the-board winner in the new season's three-network ratings competition for both the major markets and the national audience. The period covered was from Sept. 21-27.

Flip Wilson's new NBC-TV variety series, meanwhile, was the only freshman entry to crack the top 10 shows in the ratings that usually carry the most weight: The National Nielsens. He ranked fifth.

Curiously, despite being an urban-oriented black comedian, he finished lower in the major city ratings (14th) than he did in the national rankings, which give more weight to the provinces. What this means, obviously, is that he is a very popular guy all over.

Of interest, also, was the fact that ABC-TV's new Monday night, prime time pro football games had little or no ratings impact on CBS-TV's powerhouse competing lineup of "Gunsmoke," Lucile Ball, "Mayberry R.F.D.," Doris Day and Carol Burnett. They all did well.

On the other hand, NBC-TV's strong Monday schedule of Red Skelton, "Laugh-In" and a weekly movie fared considerably less well against the football game and CBS-TV's potent shows. "Laugh-In," which almost always ranks among the top three or four programs, finished in a three-way tie for 16th place in the national ratings.

Skelton, meanwhile, came in 40th (he also used to be among the top few shows), and the Monday movie ranked below Skelton.

The football game, it should be added, did rather well for ABC-TV. Although showing live at different times across the nation, it achieved 30th place in the national ratings that list all programs.

After Wilson, the most popular new series, nationally, was Mary Tyler Moore's CBS-TV situation comedy, which finished 23rd. Then came Danny Thomas' "Make Room for Granddaddy" on ABC-TV (28th). Then the pro football night game. Then CBS-TV's "Arnie," a comedy about a blue collar worker promoted to executive status (33rd). Then Andy Griffith's new CBS-TV show, "Headmaster" (38th). Then Skelton.

Outside of "Make Room for Granddaddy" and the night football game, ABC-TV's large lineup of new series did poorly in the national ratings. These include "The Odd Couple," "Barefoot in the Park," "The Young Lawyers," "The Young Rebels," "Matt Lincoln" (with Vince Edwards, "Dan August," "The Immortal" and "The Silent Force." Considering that this was ABC-TV's premiere week, the lack of viewer interest in even sampling the new series must be discouraging to the network.

New variety shows by NBC-TV's Don Knotts and CBS-TV's Tim Conway also got off to slow ratings starts. And returning hits with mediocre-to-poor audience statistics included the Dean Martin, Tom Jones and Andy Williams series, "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Bewitched," "Julia," "Family Affair," "Green Acres" and "Hogan's Heroes."

The top 10 programs nationally were "Marcus Welby, M.D.," CBS' Thursday Movie ("The Dirty Dozen"), Lucille Ball, "Bonanza," Flip Wilson, "Medical Center," Doris Day, "Mayberry R.F.D.," "Gunsmoke" and "The FBI."

Skeptical Citizenry Wants Study

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A citizens group wants a 60-day delay for a vote by supervisors on whether to permit the U.S. Steel Corp. to build a 500-foot building on San Francisco's waterfront.

Supervisor Roger Boas, speaking for the group, said Tuesday the time would be used for a study of the Port of San Francisco's economic needs.

"We are told that a 550-foot building is needed for the economic health of the port," he said. "What bothers us is that we really know very little about the economic situation and we must find out before we make any irrevocable decisions."

The study would cost between $15,000 and $20,000 and would be paid for by the citizens' group, he added.

Listed as group members beside Boas are Dorothy Erskine, a conservationist; Mortimer Fleishhacker, Planning Commission member; Father Albert R. Jonsen, University of San Francisco president; William R. Roth, land developer; Louis Goldblatt, labor union oficial; Stanley Powell Jr., for steamship line president; and Richard Holton, a University of California dean.

$2 Million Suit For Victim's Son

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A federal court judge Tuesday took under consideration a $2 million wrongful death suit filed on behalf of the two-year old son of Voityck Frykowski, the Polish writer slain in the Sharon Tate killings.

The suit was filed in July on behalf of Bartyk Frykowski, who lives in Poland. It asserted the slaying deprived the boy of "support of love, guidance and inheritance."

Defendants in the case were Charles Manson, Susan Atkinson, Leslie Van Houten, and Patricia Krenwinkel, all of whom currently are on trial for the killings, and Charles "Tex" Watson, who was extradited from Texas after the trial began.

U.S. District Judge Jesse W. Curtis did not indicate when he would issue a decision but it was believed it would not come until after the conclusion of the Tate trial.

Special Meeting

The Tiburon City Council will hold a special meeting today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to consider proposals for storm drainage construction projects in the downtown and Reed basins.

BLUE CHIP STAMPS mayfair SUPERMARKETS

Prices Effective Seven Full Days, Wednesday, Oct. 7 thru Tuesday, Oct. 13, in all Departments!

Blue Chip Stamps are something you sort of take for granted when you do your grocery shopping. In fact, you take them so much for granted that you might not even notice it when your store stops giving them. You get home. Unpack all the groceries. No stamps. So, the next week you ask and are politely told that they're not giving Blue Chip Stamps. So there you are left holding your half-filled stamp books... and you know the stamp people won't give you half a percolator or half a scatter rug, or whatever you're saving for. If your supermarket isn't giving Blue Chip Stamps anymore, remember this. Mayfair still is. Stamps you see don't cost very much but they are one of the best devices for saving for household items we know of. Let us help you fill those half-filled stampbooks with multiple stamps from Mayfair. Now that the chips are down, just remember: Mayfair is still chipping in. Now, more than ever...

McNamara Moves Across Bay To Join Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — John McNamara, fired as manager of the Oakland Athletics last Friday, was hired today as a coach for the San Francisco Giants across the bay from Oakland.

Giants owner Horace Stoneham announced the 38-year-old resident of Sacramento has signed a contract to assist Giants manager Charlie Fox during the 1971 season. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

"We have engaged a very able baseball man," said Stoneham, "and I know he will help us. I have known John for a long time and have always admired his baseball abilities."

McNamara said he had weighed coaching offers from three major league teams before choosing the Giants.

Insiders believe the personable McNamara was hired by the Giants not only because of his coaching abilities but also to assist Fox in arranging possible trades between the Giants and teams in the American League.

At the end of the 1970 season in which the Giants finished third in the National League West, Fox said, "the entire Giants organization is aware of our needs and we expect to fill them this winter by trades — hopefully in both the National and American Leagues."

So within five days, McNamara discarded the white kangaroo shoes of the Oakland Athletics for the traditional black of the Giants and all other big league teams. And he had to travel only about 25 miles from Oakland Coliseum to Candlestick Park to meet his new bosses.

A's owner Charles O. Finley fired McNamara the day after the Athletics compiled their best won-lost record in 38 years. Oakland finished as runnersup to Minnesota this season in the AL West.

Finley said he was dissatisfied with the club's second-place finish in addition to McNamara's failure to discipline a few players who strongly criticized the A's owner toward the end of the 1970 season.

The diplomatic McNamara, extremely popular among his players, indicated three weeks before the season had ended that he would not return to manage the A's. In retrospect, he said:

"I've been fired since last May when the club started out under .500. I don't think it's right to blame the ballplayers for what they said in the last two weeks of the season."

Despite his dismissal, the former minor league catcher refused to utter a bad word about Finley.

"I don't intend to criticize Charlie Finley, period," he said. "Mr. Finley gave me a chance to manage the ballclub and for that I am grateful."

McNanama has been in baseball since 1951, including 17 seasons as a catcher. He began managing in the minors in 1959 at Lewiston, Wash., and later won pennants at Mobile and Birmingham of the Southern League.

He moved to Oakland as coach of the A's in 1968 and succeeded Hank Bauer as manager of the team on Sept. 19, 1969.

WORLD SERIES SUPER FAN

Cornelis Blackman, 74, of Chicago displays his hat of ticket stubs from some of the 87 World Series baseball games he has seen, dating back to 1929. He plans to be at his 37th series when the Cincinnati Reds host the Baltimore Orioles in the first game Saturday.

Warriors Defeat Lakers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Second-year forward Bob Portman sceored nine of his 17 points in the final stanza to pace the San Francisco Warriors to a 105-101 preseason NBA win over the Los Angeles Lakers in the second game of a Cow Palace twin bill.

In the opener, newly-acquired Clem Haskins exploded for 35 points as the Phoenix Suns nipped the San Diego Rockets 114-112.

Forward Jerry Lucas and guard Jeff Mullins hit 21 apiece for San Francisco against the Lakers. Lucas, who has had a strong pre-season, was all over the court as he bucketed 10 of 15 shots, grabbed 26 rebounds and dished out seven assists.

Jerry West topped the Lakers as usual with 22 points and also collected 11 assists. Reacquired backcourt mate Gail Goodrich added 20 for the Lakers, now only 2-6 in exhibition play. The Warriors are 4-3.

In the opener of the twin bill watched by 4,741, Phoenix staved off a last-second Rocket rally. Elvin Hayes and Stu Lantz hocped 16 each for San Diego, which is 3-5 in the preseason. Dick Van Arsdale helped out Haskins by scoring 18 points.

Davenport To Manage In Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Jimmy Davenport will be the new manager of the Pacific Coast League Phoenix Giants next year, replacing Hank Sauer.

The parent San Francisco Giants Tuesday announced that Sauer will return to his former job as a scout for the parent club.

He hung up his spikes this season after playing in 1,501 games and hitting .258. He was considered a good clutch hitter and his flashy fielding earned him the nickname "Golden Glove."

Jim Palmer To Pitch The Opener

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Jim Palmer, a fastballing righthander who will celebrate his 25th birthday on Oct. 15, was named today as the Baltimore Orioles' starting pitcher for the opening game of the World Series against the Cincinnati Reds.

Palmer was the expected choice since Cincinnati's power is righthanded but Weaver wanted to study the statistics of the Reds against lefties before making the nomination official. The Orioles other two starters, Mike Cuellar and Dave McNally are lefthanders.

The nomination of the first game starter is critical because in a seven game series with two travel dates, the opening game starter is the logical choice for the three starting assignments. However, four times since 1964, a second game starter—Bob Gibson in '64, Sandy Koufax in '65, Jim Lonborg in '67 and Mickey Lolich in '68—started three times.

Palmer injured his right instep when he was hit by a line drive in the second inning of Monday's final playoff game against the Minnesota Twins. But while the instep is still sore, he doesn't expect it to bother him against the Reds.

Reds' Nolan Feels Biggest Assignment Is Behind Him

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Gary Nolan will be the starting pitcher in Cincinnati's first World Series game since 1961, but as far as Nolan is concerned his biggest assignment is behind him.

"Winning the playoffs was the most important thing," Nolan said. "It was bigger than winning the World Series because we needed it to get into the World Series."

IN 10TH

Nolan, a 13-year-old California high school pupil the last time the Reds won a pennant, shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates for nine innings in the first National League playoff game and picked up the victory when the Reds won 3-0 in the 10th.

They followed with 3-1 and 3-2 wins and face the Baltimore Orioles here Saturday in the World Series opener.

"I'll have a lot of time to think about the Orioles, but I don't think the pressure will build up enough to bother me," Nolan said. "I'm sort of a calm, down-to-earth guy.

"I think there's more pressure fighting to get into the World Series. Once you're there, pride will carry you. If you have a good game, you win, that's all."

WEEK OFF

During the regular season, Nolan completed only 4 of 37 starts while posting an 18-7 season in the low minors and record and 3.26 earned run average. He was not concerned that the week's rest between last Saturday's playoff opener and his Saturday's series opener might bother him.

"I need four or five days to recuperate after winning the pennant," he said. "Maybe I shouldn't say recuperate. I didn't go on a four-day drunk."

Nolan came up to Cincinnati in 1967 after less than a full compiled a 14-8 record, including five shutouts, and a 2.58 earned run average. But he threw too hard and hurt his arm and had to spend part of 1968 and 1969 in the minors.

"I've learned already what many pitchers don't learn until late in their careers," he said. "I've developed the curve and I can pace myself. I'm a more complete pitcher now."

SCOUT

Jim Russo, the Baltimore scout who trailed the Reds the past couple of weeks, said Nolan also has one of the best change-ups in baseball, a pitch he was taught by Johnny Edwards, the former Cincinnati catcher.

Nolan pitched against the Orioles once before, in spring training of 1969, but doesn't remember much about them.

"they don't know much about me, either, so I'll just go out and work my regular game," he said.

WHITE HOUSES ON A KNOLL

Weaver Sounds Warning

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Forget about the Astroturf in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

Instead, think about the white houses over the knoll beyond the outfield at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

At least manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles thinks those white houses are going to be more of a factor in the World Series than the Astroturf.

MAIN TOPIC

Of course, the turf has been a main topic of conversation in the pre-game speculation since Cincinnati is the first team to host a World Series with an artificial surface. The Orioles aren't used to playing on it since Chicago has the only artificial surface in the American League — and even there it's only on the infield.

But Weaver claims those white houses will bother the Reds more than Astroturf will bother the Orioles.

Although some observers think Baltimore should go to Cincinnati early to practice on the turf, Weaver says, "The Reds are the team which should come here early to practice against that hitting background. Our field will be more of a factor than their field."

The white houses on the knoll beyond the outfield, rarely pose a problem, since the Orioles play a majority of their games at night — but in the day time the ball comes right out of those white houses.

COMPLAINED

"The Minnesota players complained in the series that their players were definitely afraid of getting hit, because they couldn't pick up the ball against the white background," Weaver said. "It even bothers our players, but they're more used to it."

It may be a coincidence but in the four World Series games and three playoff games played in October in this park in the last five years, most have been low scoring games. The scores have been 1-0, 1-0, 4-3, in 12 innings, 1-0 in 11 innings, 4-1, 2-1, and 6-1.

It may also be a coincidence that the Orioles have won six of those seven games, losing only 2-1 to Jerry Koosman in the second game of last year's Series.

Weaver said the Orioles did give the Astroturf a lot of thought before deciding it wasn't necessary to go to Cincinnati before Friday for Saturday's first game.

NOT NECESSARY

"After talking to the players, I honestly didn't feel it was necessary to go to Cincinnati early. The Robinsons and Boog Powell played in the stadium in the All-Star game and they all said all you needed was one practice to get accustomed to the field. And we'll have two since we'll have one on Saturday before the game, besides one on Friday."

Baltimore had an off day Tuesday but will practice at home on Wednesday and Thursday.

Weaver even tried to make the case that Cincinnati could have trouble with the Baltimore grass. "Grass can change a lot every day depending on the moisture and its length," Weaver said.

Asked about the fact that the Orioles are listed as a slight underdog in the odds, Weaver smiled, "Jimmy the Greek doesn't know about those white houses."

Benefield To Be Honored At Testimonial Dinner

By RALPH CHATOIAN

When Glidden R. (Bennie) Benefield retired from the Tamalpais High School District two years ago he said he was going to do a lot of fishing.

He was true to his word, catching fish in New Zealand, the South Pacific Islands, Canada, Alaska, Ireland and parts of the U.S.

At 68, Benefield keeps more active than persons half his age. Since his retirement he has spent a week on a back packing trip in the Wind River Range of Wyoming and another at the 10,000 foot elevation of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

GLIDDEN R. BENEFIELD
Former coach

TESTIMONIAL

Benefield will be the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner dance Oct. 24 at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club, San Rafael, put on by a group calling itself "Bennie's Buddies Committee."

When Bennie retired, he was a Tam district project writer for federal grants. At one time he was the dean of Marin County track coaches. A native of Tennessee, he helped coach track and football while teaching English at San Rafael High School from 1927 to 1929. Then he went to Tamalpais High where he taught vocational guidance and coached football and track. he was the school's physical education chairman during World War II.

He helped organize Tam High's first cross-country running team in 1950 and became one of three men honored by the California Interscholastic Federation for their work to promote cross country running in the North Coast area.

Benefield coached high school football for 20 years and coached track and field for 35 years.

"I went out a winner," he laughs about his last year of coaching high school football. "My last year was 1948 and we won the North Bay League championship at Tam."

A graduate of University of California, Benefield, was first president of the Marin Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. He still gets together with some coaching friends and music teachers who still sing barbershop quartet fashion. The group, once known as "Bennie's Boys," now calls itself the Meadowlarks.

Getting back to fishing, Bennie's No. 1 hobby, he prefers fly fishing but tries it all. He even did some spear fishing with the natives at Figi Island. In New Zealand he fly fished for rainbow and brown trout, and used air-type spear guns at Morea. At Tahiti and Bora Bora he did some deep sea fishing, winning himself a 180-pound tuna in the process.

A TRIO

In his back packing trip into the High Sierra, he went with teaching buddies Fred Hines and Ralph Phelps. And Hines, veteran tennis coach at San Rafael High, was quarterback on Bennie's 1928 San Rafael High School football team.

Benefield now resides with wife Erma at 114 Avenda Mira Flores, Tiburon. When he retired in June of 1968, he told an Independent-Journal reporter:

"I've taught 41 years, and that's enough. There's lots of other things for a man to do before he gets too old."

He's doing those things now.

BASEBALL BRASS HUDDLES

Umpires Continue Talks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whether another call will be made for minor league umpires to work the World Series, as they did the first game of the playoffs, may be determined today in the office of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn was to meet with American League President Joe Cronin, National League chief Charles "Chub" Feeney and Jack Reynolds, attorney for the Major League Umpires Association, in an attempt to settle the umps' demands for higher pay for working the playoffs and Series.

The umpires, demanding an increase of from $2,500 to $5,000 for the playoffs and from $6,500 to $10,000 for the Series, struck last week's first playoff games at Pittsburgh and Minneapolis. However, they were back on the job the following day after agreeing to a temporary settlement which called for $500 raises for both the playoffs and Series.

At the time of the temporary settlement, however, the umpires made it clear they were returning to work only because baseball agreed to negotiate "in good faith" their demands for higher post season wages.

When the regular umpires did strike prior to the first game, six minor league umpires and two umpiring supervisors from the AL were recruited to work the two playoff games.

Giants' Booster Club To Meet In Fairfax

San Francisco Giants' Booster Club of Northern California will hold its first winter meeting of the year tonight at 730 at Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax.

Giant players Alan Galagher and Frank Johnson will be guests. Interested persons should call Rubini's for reservations, according to president Alan Murray.

Youth, Size, Aggressiveness For New Look Seals

By RON SUPINSKI

OAKLAND (UPI) — Youth, size and aggressiveness are the ingredients coach Fred Glover hopes will revitalize the Oakland Seals under a new ownership.

During the off-season, Glover and his assistants blanketed the Canadian winterland in search of raw, young talent which could develop to change the image of the Seals from featherweight checkers to bouncy battlers.

TOP PROSPECTS

In defenseman Ted McAneely, 19, and forward Chris Oddliefson, 20, the Seals came out of the amateur draft with two of Canada's top hockey prospects. Both stand an excellent chance of making the club.

Oddliefson, 6-1 and 175 pounds, suffered an influenza attack before the opening of training camp and was sent to Providence. But he has since been recalled and is working at right wing and center.

McAneely is a sturdy 185-pound defenseman who had 11 goals and 35 assists with Edmonton last season. But more important, McAneely hits with authority.

Other players rated high in Glover's book because of their aggressiveness are defenseman Ron Stackhouse from Haliburton, Ont., and center Dennis Hextall, a 180-pounder who played with Springfield and Montreal of the American Hockey League last season.

WITH VADNAIS

Stackhouse has been teaming with all-star Carol Vadnais on defense in pre-season games and he tallied two goals in a Seals victory over Philadelphia. Vadnais topped the Seals with 24 goals last season despite spending 212 minutes in the penalty box.

Other youngsters who stand a fine chance of making the squad are right wing Tony Featherstone, center Peter Laframboise, wings Ernie Hicke, Hilliard Graves and Randy Rota and defenseman Neil Nicholson. Hicke, 22, is the younger brother of Seals regular Bill Hicke.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics baseball team, purchased the Seals this summer from Trans National Communications. The controversial insurance magnate from the midwest immediately sought to inject some color into the team by changing uniform colors to kelly green and Fort Knox gold, plugging for white shoe skates and promising to install live Seals in the lobby of the Oakland Arena. Also, of late, he's calling the team the Bay Area Seals in an obvious move to gain wider support.

TO VOTE

So far, the colored-shoes tidbit has been approved by the NHL Board of Governors but Finley won't insist on white shoes for the Seals unless a majority of the players go along with him.

Bad news for the Seals has occurred in the contract signing department with only eight players having inked 1970-71 agreements. Veteran defenseman Harry Howell, Vadnais and goalie Gary Smith are having their contracts reviewed as part of an arbitration agreement.

Defenseman Bert Marshall and center Mike Laughton will miss the season opener in Detroit Oct. 9. Marshall is still wearing a cast on his fractured wrist and Laughton has one on his knee following surgery. Marshall's cast comes off Saturday but Laughton will be out of action until Christmas.

DEFENSEMEN

Other wings are Norm Ferguson, Gary Jarrett and Gary Croteau. Doug Roberts and Wayne Muloin return to bolster the defense corps. And Bob Sneddon from Springfield and Ross Brooks from Providence are battling for the backup spot behind goalie Smith.

But the major problem bothering Glover is getting his players to score more goals. The Seals tallied 169 last season, second lowest in the NHL while allowing 243, the third highest.

ALL IN A NIGHT'S WORK

St. Louis goalie Glenn Hall was forced into the net when Minnesota's J. P. Parise (11), and Bill Goldsworthy (8), fought with Bob Plager of the Blues for the loose puck after Hall blocked a shot by Parise last night in St. Louis. Hall covered the puck, Referee Ron Wicks signaled no goal and the Blues went on to defeat the North Stars, 4-2. (UPI Telephoto)

Players To Decide For Selves

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Saturday's Southern Illinois-Wichita State football game was canceled Tuesday in the wake of a Colorado plane crash which wiped out the heart of the Shockers' team.

A decision on whether to play the Shockers' other six games this season was left to the players.

The W.S.U. assistant coaches scheduled a meeting to discuss the school's football program. They were also to meet with the players, either Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

The players were to vote on whether to continue the 1970 season after meeting with the coaches.

Dr. Clark Ahlberg, university president, met with W.S.U. players Tuesday morning and told them the decision was up to them. Dr. Robert Holmer, W.S.U. faculty representative to the Missouri Valley Conference, said he did not want to express an opinion regarding the school's grid future this year because he did not want the players to feel they were being pressured by the university.

Head coach Ben Wilson and 13 front-line players were among 30 persons killed when one of two planes carrying the squad to Utah State crashed and burned in the mountains 55 miles west of Denver.

Also killed was Bert Katzenmeyer, the school's athletic director.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL ODDS

USC Is Four-Point Pick To Turn Back Stanford

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ohio State, ranked No. 1 in the nation seeks its third consecutive win of the 1970 season when it travels to East Lansing, Mich. Saturday to battle Michigan State, and some oddsmakers still haven't figured the point spread for the Buckeyes. Michigan State was blanked by Notre Dame 29-0 on Saturday.

Texas, which edged UCLA last week in the last 12 seconds to extend its victory streak to 23, is a 15-point pick over Oklahoma. The Sooners lost, 23-14 to Oregon State last week after winning over SMU and Wisconsin.

Third-ranked Notre Dame (3-0), which has held the opposition scoreless through 10 consecutive quarters plays host to an Army team (1-3) which has scored only three points in two games. No line is yet available.

In other games, ninth-ranked Auburn (3-0) is favored by 16 over Clemson, Penn State by 9 1-2 over Boston College, Harvard by seven over Columbia, Dartmouth 12 over Princeton, 16th-rated West Virginia (4-0) by 13 over Duke, eighth-ranked Michigan (3-0) by four over Purdue and North Carolina by four over South Carolina.

Brown finds itself a 21-point underdog to Yale, and Virginia Tech is seven points down to Wake Forest. Cornell is favored by 13 over Penn, Florida by 5 1-2 over Florida State. Tennessee, ranked 17th, is rated 3 1-2 over 15th-ranked Georgia Tech (4-0) while sixth-ranked Mississippi (3-0) is a 7 1-2 favorite over Georgia. Pittsburgh rates as 14 better than Navy.

Also, Houston rates by 9 1-2 over Mississippi State, Northwestern by 2 1-2 over Illinois, Minnesota by two over Indiana, Wisconsin by 2 1-2 over Iowa, Kansas State by seven over Kansas and Oklahoma State by 6 1-2 over TCU.

Air Force, seventh-ranked, is the 13 1-2 point choice over Tulane, while Colorado is figured 14 better than Iowa State, and Washington 4 1-2 over California. UCLA is favored by 9½ over Oregon in a night game.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Because your fingers are what produce pin-toppling spin, you should get your thumb out of the ball first at release. This gives your fingers a chance to press upward and spin the ball as it leaves your hand.

Troy Tops Football Statistics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—As Southern California emerges as the class of the Pacific Eight grid scene, the statistics are starting to reflect the Trojans' power.

USC leads in total offense in latest Pac-8 figures with an average of 538 yards per game. The Trojans are by far the top rushing club at 343 yards per contest, a full 125 yards ahead of runner-up Washington State.

Only in the passing does USC give way. Oregon and Stanford are fighting for that crown with the Ducks leading the tribe 298 yards per game to 280.

USC also leads in rushing defense (112 yards per game) and total defense (260). Washington has the most iron-clad pass defense, allowing but 134 yards per game.

In the individual figures, an old familiar face has appeared on top of the rushers with 1969 leader Clarence Davis of the Trojans number one at 403 yards in four games for better than a 100 yards per game average.

Jim Plunkett of Stanford still dominates things with 270 yards per game in total offense and 253.5 yards per game passing.

There is a cloud on Plunkett's horizon, however. UCLA's Dennis Dummit had a big day against Texas to move up to 213.0 yards per game.

Oregon State's Mike Nehl is the top punter with a hefty 42.5 average and Oregon sensation Bob Newland has grabbed 28 passes for 478 yards to dominate those statistics.

Hurting Eagles Acquire Running Back From Lions

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles, hurting for running backs because of injuries, Tuesday acquired second-year veteran Larry Watkins from the Detroit Lions for an undisclosed draft choice.

Watkins, a running back from Alcorn A&M, was signed as a free agent by the Lions in 1969 and rushed for 201 yards in 62 attempts for a 3.2 average and one touchdown.

Watkins, a native of Bessemer, Ala., also caught 13 passes for 87 yards.

The Eagles, 0-3 in regular season play, also activated defensive back Nate Ramsey from the injured "move" list.

Ramsey, injured in the opener against the Dallas Cowboys, missed the next two games because of injured ribs.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—Dave Hampton, hero of the Green Bay Packers' 13-10 victory over the Minnesota Vikings Sunday, underwent surgery Tuesday night for what was described as a pelvic abscess.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Offensive guard Tom Regner of the Houston Oilers of the American Football Conference underwent knee surgery Tuesday and will be lost to the club for the remainder of the season.

High Risk Offense For Cal Bears

BERKELEY (UPI)—Look for the University of California to gamble a bit more on offense Saturday against the University of Washington.

Coach Ray Willsey said he is installing a new "high risk" offense, which he hopes will also have a "high yield."

Three Bears who hurt ankles on artificial turf, safety Joe Acker, runner Bob Darby, and corner back Dave Lawson are expected to be in good shape against the Huskies. But linemen Neil Agness, with a shoulder bruise, and Bob Rogers, who has a virus, are more doubtful for the Husky tiff.

SPORTS SHORTS

Boxing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The featherweight fight between Jose Moreno and Ray Echavarria scheduled for tomorrow has been postponed until Nov. 6 because Moreno suffered an injury in training.

Water Skiing

Price will be pulled by a 22-foot Sciata ocean race boat driven by Harry Schilling, restauranteur who is sponsoring the event.

General

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sponsorship of the Helms Athletic Foundation was assumed Tuesday by the United Savings and Loan Association.

Headquarters for the foundation, which was begun in 1936 by Paul Helms, also will be moved a few miles from its present location to the headquarters of United near International Airport.

Basketball

BOATING

Boating Is Added Skill For Any Outdoor Hobby

By STAN DAVIES

One reason boating has become so popular is that it complements almost any other hobby or pastime you can think of.

Look at the many activities that can be coupled with boating: Swimming, fishing, hunting, bird watching, nature study, photography, and practically every other do-it-yourself hobby there is.

It's also one of the last areas of freedom and innovation left in our over-regulated, regimented lives. Some of the questions I've been asked spell this out:

Q. We have a beautiful retreat in the north woods, but the shore is pebbly and wears out the bottom of our boat. Any suggestions?

A. Lay an old auto tire at the water's edge as a landing field. You can sink it into a depression in the stones if you like so it's firmly anchored. Big truck tires are best and you can use two or three.

Q. I'm a duck hunter. Can I train a dog that's a great retriever to work from a boat?

A. Nail one inch strips to a two-foot length of plywood (about a foot wide) to make a "staircase" that you can hang over the harness, too, so that someone on board can grab Rover and help him over the gunwale. You'll never lose a bird.

Q. I'm taking an extensive trip south this winter. I want to fish wherever I can. Is it worthwhile taking my small outboard motor?

A. If it's a light fishing motor, don't go without it. From Key West to Ensenada you can rent boats for a couple of bucks a day, but a motor can cost up to $20.

BODY HARNESS MAKES IT EASY TO RETRIEVE A RETRIEVER FROM WATER.

Q. Every picture I take from our boat shows a blur due to movement. Is there an answer?

A. First and foremost, try to take every picture as you are approaching or going away from your subject, rather than when you are passing it broadside. Use the fastest shutter speed you can with the exposure required, and try this: When you are about to snap the shutter, have someone close the throttle. As the boat slows you will feel no vibration from the engine. Brace yourself firmly. Hold your breath as you snap.

Q. Is it possible to make your own water skis?

A. Very easily. Use five-eighths inch marine grade plywood. Copy the dimensions from a pair you like. The difficult part is the bend at the front. This is done by saw cuts through all but the bottom ply. Cover the skis with fiber glass and resin. This will hold the bent shape permanently.

Q. We are taking water ski jumping. Who started it?

A. The first jump on water skis was 25 feet made in 1928 by Dick Pope, who later ran the ski shows at Cypress Gardens, Fla. His son Dick Pope, Jr. is still an aquatic performer.

Dickey Rejoins Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI)—Eldridge Dickey has decided to play for the Oakland Raiders again after a week of prayer and fasting.

Dickey, on the taxi squad since the day before the season opener, left two weeks ago, with coach John Madden's permission, to visit his sick son.

He returned after learning the illness was not as serious as first feared, but then left the squad again.

He said Tuesday that after contemplating his situation and undergoing a six-day fast, he had decided to return to the grid wars.

He said that he fasts twice a year because "it's one of my own beliefs. I'm kind of a religious person. There were many things that needed praying for."

He said these included both his boy's health and his own playing status.

"It shakes up any athlete to be put on the taxi squad," he said.

Dickey, number one draft choice from Ttennessee A&I, was a quarterback in college but was drafted as a wide receiver.

Gowdy Heads TV Team For 'Series'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Curt Gowdy, Jim McIntyre and Chuck Thompson will handle the television play-by-play of the 1970 World Series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Baltimore Orioles starting Saturday, it was announced Tuesday by the National Broadcasting Company.

Gowdy, a veteran announcer who worked NBC's Game of the Week during the regular season, will team with McIntyre, the Reds' announcer, when the teams play in Cincinnati. Thompson, the Orioles' mike-man, will join Growdy when the Series switches to Baltimore.

Television coverage will begin at 9:45 a.m., PDT with the pre-game show, World Series Report, starring Joe Garagiola, Mickey Mantle and Sandy Koufax, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Third Straight Win

The Marin Catholic High School Wildkittens won their third straight Marin County Athletic League "C" basketball game last night as they manhandled the Redwood Giants, 53-14 at Redwood. Mike Ahern led the assault with 18 points.

Castoff QB Mira Signs With Colts

MIAMI (UPI)—George Mira, castoff quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles and the San Francisco 49ers, signed Tuesday with the Baltimore Colts.

Mira, a former University of Miami star, said he turned down a "good offer" from the Minnesota Vikings and also was contacted by the Kansas City Chiefs, "but the Chiefs had not yet made a specific offer."

Mira, who met with Colts General Manager Don Klosterman here during the day and flew back to Baltimore with Klosterman Tuesday night, said he felt he would have a better chance to break into the starting lineup playing behind 37-year-old Johnny Unitas and 36-year-old Earl Morrall at Baltimore.

He pointed out that Minnesota's Gary Cuozzo "is about the same age as me" and has two young backups in Bill Cappleman and Bob Lee. Kansas City's Len Dawson also has younger men behind him in Mike Livingston and Jacky Lee.

Mira was traded to Philadelphia by San Francisco last year, then was put on waivers by the Eagles about two weeks ago.

"We feel fortunate to get Mira," Klosterman said. "He certainly has a lot of ability, he's young (28) and we feel he'll contribute a great deal to our football team."

Asked about the fact that the Eagles let Mira go, Klosterman said, "People make mistakes in football just as in every other business.

"We have a quarterback named John Unitas who was dropped by a pro team. And the Chiefs have one named Lenny Dawson who also was passed up."

Mira said he will begin practicing with Baltimore immediately. He said he called Unitas Monday night and "John said he'd give me all the help he possibly could. And I know I can learn from him."

Stanford-USC Game To Draw Full House

STANFORD (UPI)—Despite the 26-14 upset by Purdue, nobody is turning in their tickets for Stanford's upcoming battle with unbeaten USC. Ninety-thousand will show up.

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 7, the 280th day of 1970.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

On this day in history:

In 1863 William Gladstone, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, predicted the American Confederacy would remain separated from the northern states permanently.

In 1916 the most staggering defeat in football history took place when Georgia Tech trounced Cumberland University, 222-0.

In 1963 Bobby Baker resigned as Senate Democratic secretary after being charged in a $300,000 civil suit with using his influence for personal monetary gain.

A thought for today: American poet James Whitcomb Riley said, "When over the fair fame of friend or foe the shadow of disgrace shall fall, instead of words of blame, or proof of thus and so, let something good be said."

Chamber Supports Marin College Bond

Directors of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce has unanimously endorsed a bond issue and tax override for the College of Marin on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Measure B seeks a 25-cent tax override for college operations, while Measure C is a $17 million bond issue, most of which would finance construction of the college's Novato campus.

South Should Have Made This Contract Without Tossing Coin

"What this country needs is a good five-cent nickel," writes an angry correspondent. "In the old days you could toss a coin to find out which way to finesse, and you'd have at least an even chance. The modern nickel always steers you the wrong way, and the buffalo just laughs in your face."

HEART LEAD

My correspondent won the first trick with the ace of hearts, led a diamond to dummy's king and tried a finesse with the queen of spades. West took the king of spades and the jack of hearts and got out with a diamond to dummy's ace.

Declarer ruffed the jack of diamonds, led the ace of trumps and then gave up a trump, hoping that West would return a club. West unobligingly led a third heart, which was safe enough since dummy was out of trumps. South ruffed and had to guess which oppenent had the queen of clubs.

Using his favorite bridge planning device, South took out a nickel and tossed it in the air. Since the fall of the nickel told him to finesse through West, my correspondent lost the setting trick to East's queen of clubs.

IMPORTANT DECISION

Should American bridge players rise in their wrath and demand better nickels — or did South misplay the hand? Decide your yourself before you read on.

The mints can relax. South should have made the contract without having to toss a coin.

After winning the first trick with the ace of hearts South should lead the ace of spades. When nothing wonderful happens on this trick South takes the top diamonds and ruffs a diamond. Then he gives up the losing heart.

If the winner of the heart trick leads a spade, South will lose only one spade trick. If a club is returned, South will get a free finesse. If a red suit is returned, dummy can ruff while South discards a club.

Save your nickels for the real problems.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♥-6 4
♦-A K J
♣-A J 5 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

You expect to reach a game of some description, but you cannot tell at this moment whether it will be in spades, clubs or no-trump. Show your long suit and await developments.

Tiburon Supports Sewer Proposition

Directors of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce yesterday endorsed Proposition 1 on the Nov. 3 ballot providing for $250 million in state funds to help local communities build sewage treatment facilities.

The board also voted $25 to sponsor two Vietnam War veterans at a dinner to be given in their honor Nov. 11.

UCCESSFUL INVESTING

Steady Growth Put Crown Cork Ahead

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We have shares of Crown ork & Seal bought quite a hile ago. During the past ear, the stock has held up irly well. Should we buy ore for growth? N. M.

A. Yes. Crown Cork & Seal of- s above-average appreciation tential over the long term. e company holds an enviable d uninterrupted record of owth. In the past ten years, les have more than tripled; eadily uptrending earnings ve reached peak levels in ch of the ten years. Moreover, ded by aggressive expansion road and the increasing use metal cans by the beverage dustry, further substantial ins are expected in the future. eer and soft drink cans alone ontribute about 20-25 per cent sales. Despite the general uggishness of the economy, et income for the first half of 970, ended June, chalked-up a ain of 14 per cent on a 9.7 per ent increase in sales. Currently elling at around 11x 1971's arnings estimates, shares represent an extremely attractive ommitment.

Q. In 1961 I purchased Santa Fe Industries at $31 a share, now down about 40 per cent. Would you recommend holding for recovery? Do you consider the dividend rate secure? W. S.

A. Not entirely, in view of the fact that June quarter earnings of 41 cents barely covered the 40 cent dividend disbursed in that quarter. However, recent freight rate increases may help turn earnings around, which would strengthen the dividend outlook. Freight receipts continue to account for the bulk of revenues — about 90 per cent. Shares have limited investment appeal and should be sold.

Nixon Speculation Excites Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, down sharply during the morning as a result of profit taking, came bounding back in the final half hour of trading Wednesday amid widespread belief President Nixon will have a dramatic announcement when he addresses the nation on Vietnam at night. Trading was heavy.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones industrial average, the barometer of 30 selected Blue Chips, showed a gain of 0.82 to 783.27 after being off around 6 points early in the session.

Among the day's most active issues were Denny's Restaurants and Faberge, both fractionally higher. The latter said it expected to report a third quarter loss.

RADIOACTIVITY MEASURES WAX WEAR

A scientist at Johnson Wax's test laboratory in Racine, Wis., is laying radioactive tiles on a traffic test floor. Once the entire floor is waxed, the walking shoes at the right will tramp out 57 miles and when the wax begins wearing, the rea radioactivity on a geiger counter will start rising.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Ace Letter Service Acquires New Automated Equipment

There has been another expansion at Ace Letter Service, San Rafael, with the addition of new equipment allowing this firm to take on more volume and do faster duplicating work.

Owner Vernon Burns has acquired three new machines — a magnetic tape selector composer, a magnetic tape selector typewriter and a fully automatic duplicating system with electronic controls. The latter will handle up to 50 plates and can be programmed to carry out all of its operations from start to finish without intermediate supervision.

Burns has been in the business three years — originally as a partner and for the last two years as sole owner. Since last February the company has doubled its staff and now has eight full-time employees and one part-time employee.

STUART AND CAREE ROSE of Sausalito, husband and wife team of development managers of Ghirardelli Square in San Francisco, will open their own development consultant business at the end of this year. But they will continue as consultants for the square and will serve on its advisory board. They have been with the square since its opening in 1964.

They are best known in Marin for the number of houses they built and sold in Sausalito several years ago and for their development of the Village Fair in Sausalito from an abandoned concrete garage in 1956.

REAL ESTATE: Among the official delegates of the Marin County Board of Realtors to this week's California Real Estate Association convention in San Francisco are board president Bruce Shafer of Sausalito, William Bush and Robert Roumiguiere of San Rafael, Ross Tankersley of Novato, Don Beacock of Earle and Solvason, Corte Madera and Jan Volk of Pingree and Co., Corte Madera.

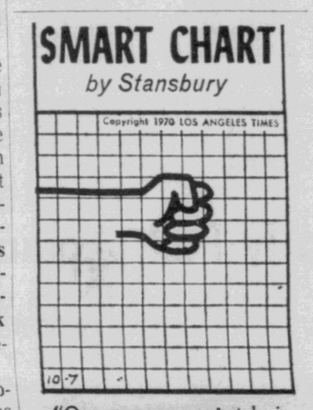
JOHN A. LUCCHESI of Tiburon has been promoted to vice president in the national division at Bank of America's San Francisco headquarters. He joined the bank at Gridley in 1962 and became manager at Tulelake in 1966. He was named assistant vice president in the national division two years ago.

Luccesi

Mrs. Wasley

BETTY WASLEY of Greenbrae has been named public relations director for William Cain, Inc., San Francisco advertising agency. For the past 18 months she has been in charge of all publications for California Blue Shield in the public relations and advertising department. Previously she was with Frank DiMarco and Associates in San Francisco and before that did free lance public relations for several years in San Francisco and Marin County.

ROBERT M. COMAN of San Rafael has been made a distributor for Ussury Industries, Inc., a national confection vending company. He has invested in the local operation and will be responsible for distribution, maintenance and service functions in this area.



"Our management style is said to be somewhat authoritarian."

Newspaper Week: Time To Look At Press Ethics

The role of the press is a favorite topic for discussion, public and private.

Guaranteed freedom under the Constitution, the press freely criticizes — and in its turn is freely criticized by others, who are similarly guaranteed freedom of speech. The press would have it no other way, for freedom of speech and of the press are inseparable.

Mostly, the press does not call much attention to itself. But once each year, during National Newspaper Week, it likes to do so.

This is National Newspaper Week, so it seems appropriate to print today the Canons of Journalism of the American Society of Newspaper Editors — the code of ethics which this newspaper, like most others in the country, attempts to follow. Here it is:

RESPONSIBILITY — The right of a newspaper to attract and hold readers is restricted by nothing but considerations of public welfare. The use a newspaper makes of the share of public attention it gains serves to determine its sense of responsibility, which it shares with every member of its staff. A journalist who uses his power for any selfish or otherwise unworthy purpose is faithless to a high trust.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS — Freedom of the press is to be guarded as a vital right of mankind. It is the unquestionable right to discuss whatever is not explicitly forbidden by law, including the wisdom of any restrictive statute.

INDEPENDENCE —Freedom from all obligations except that of fidelity to the public interest is vital.

SINCERITY, TRUTHFULNESS, ACCURACY — Good faith with the reader is the foundation of all journalism worthy of the name.

IMPARTIALITY — Sound practice makes clear distinction between news reports and expressions of opinion. News reports should be free from opinion or bias of any kind.

FAIR PLAY — A newspaper should not publish unofficial charges affecting reputation or moral character without opportunity given to the accused to be heard; right practice demands the giving of such opportunity in all cases of serious accusation outside judicial proceedings.

DECENCY —A newspaper cannot escape conviction of insincerity if while professing high moral purpose it supplies incentives to base conduct.

Like other professions and callings, that of newspapering includes among its ranks many who try hard to live up to its code of ethics and a few who regard the code lightly.

National Newspaper Week seems a good time to remind ourselves of the Canons of Journalism, and to inform the public that they exist. We regard them as important, since they embody the responsibilities that must accompany the right to a free press — just as every freedom demands responsibility if it is not to be lost.

Early Fall, Again

Have you been noticing the abundance of autumnal color? The hills around San Rafael are yellow and orange. Trees all over the county are assuming their characteristic fall colors.

This led us to muse about fall, again. We had been passing on signs and predictions of an early fall for almost a month. But exactly what did we mean by early fall?

We thought we meant the early arrival of our cold, wet weather. But, really, October is usually warm, relatively dry, and quite sunny in Marin and Sonoma.

This led us to the dictionary, where we learned, "Fall is the season when the leaves fall off the trees." If this is our basis, we are having an early fall right now.

Just for the heck of it, we looked up autumn, too. "Autumn is the season between summer and winter." Not much help there.

We thus concluded, judging from the trees and some bird migrations, that biological fall had arrived. Now, we are wondering: can meteorological

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Proposition 2, 3 And 4 Call For Unnecessary Amendment

(This is the second of a series on the 20 propositions before the electorate on Nov. 3 general election ballot.)

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Proposition 2 is a wholly unnecessary new provision of the constitution, calling for the state supreme court to determine inability of elected officials to function, and giving the governor authority to appoint someone if the elected officer is declared disabled.

The amendment was proposed after the year-long illness of the late Secy. of State Frank M. Jordan, who was unable to function because of paralysis. However, his office ran as usual through designation of his deputy to perform the functions.

Adopting a constitutional amendment to take care of a situation that might occur once in a lifetime appears to be a useless gesture ,especially when the amendment might be used to harass a public official.

Proposition 3 calls for the governor to submit the annual budget to the state legislature within the first 10 days of the legislative session, rather than the first 30 days.

Here again is a useless gesture, designed to speed up legislative processes by getting the budget in 10 days sooner, and passed by June 15, or 15 days ahead of the beginning of the new fiscal year.

While this sounds like a good idea, there seems to be little necessity for a constitutional amendment to force the legislature to do what it is supposed to do anyhow, that is to attend to the business of the state by providing a proper budget at the proper time.

Proposition 4 falls into the same category. This amendment would empower the state legislature to pass school appropriation measures prior to passage of the budget, provided it has not acted upon the budget 130 days after introduction of the budget bill.

All this would mean would be the separation of school appropriations from other appropriations, giving priority to educational financing.

School interests claim they need this measure to provide time for proper planning to enable them to spend the money appropriated for the schools.

The bad part of Proposition 4 results from the fact that it contemplates division of budgetary questions and budgetary needs. If education can run in ahead of other state functions and tie up certain amounts of money, this would appear to be inimical to other state interests.

The procedure would, in effect, disrupt the budgetary process strictly on the basis of convenience to educators and school districts.

Bennett Silent On Some Issues

As with your editorial endorsement of Governor Reagan, the I-J was so right (Oct. 2) in comparing the records of the candidates for State Board of Equalization — Ernest N. Kettenhofen and William M. Bennett. This self-styled "friend of the consumer" made a lot of noise before the State Public Utilities Commission during the summer-long hearings on the $190 million rate increase application of Pacific Telephone. He was strangely silent as to the company's $1.3 million paid last year to a San Francisco law firm; wholesale "monitoring" of calls (yours and mine); the "resigned" S.F. police chief unloaded on the company by Mayor Alioto to replace Douglas Hayden, nationally known communications "security" expert. This and more, supported by documentary evidence, I got into the PUC hearing record Aug. 13, after Mr. Bennett and other "liberals" along with Commissioner A.W. Gatov, one of two surviving Democrats on the PUC, would not even return my phone calls.

Animal Population Explosion Serious

This letter is in regard to the animal "population explosion" which, I believe — and I am sure many readers share my views — is of vital concern to all residents of our county, as well as to the entire country.

We have read, on numerous occasions, of incidents involving dog packs which run down deer in the Phoenix Lake area, of people being attacked and bitten by stray dogs, and complaints against our Humane Society for the quick disposal of unwanted animals. However, in all these instances, the blame can be placed squarely at the feet of those individuals who, through ignorance or plain thoughtlessness, fail to have their dogs and cats spayed and neutered, allowing their animals to breed indiscriminately, and then produce litters of puppies and kittens which cannot all be placed in homes. Abandonment is another result of the animal overpopulation. These poor creatures are left to shift for themselves and will frequently gather in packs and attack wildlife in order to survive. Last but not least, are the dog owners who allow their animals to wander through the neighborhood from dawn to dusk, unattended, and whose responsibility to their animals ends with a bowl of food each day.

May I suggest that readers of the Independent-Journal who are concerned with the problem of breeding surplus animals, contact the Humane Society of the United States, 1145 - 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, for copies of folders dealing with the animal "population explosion" problem and what can be done about it. . .

Pediatric Office Vitally Needed

The Southern Marin Pediatric Office in Manzanita Center, Marin City, provides free medical care to needy children. As the school nurse for Marin City, I know that the loss of this vital service would increase the hardships those youngsters face. Parents are often too exhausted to travel long distances for medical care except in dire emergencies, so children often suffer from chronic or "minor" illnesses. (In this age of dramatic heart transplants etc. it is easy to dismiss much of man's miseries as "minor". To the person suffering, its not minor!)

Since all the children of Marin are our future, I would like to urge all it's citizens to support this important facility.

Anti-Drug Center Approval Praised

The San Rafael Planning Commission is to be commended for voting to permit the Marin Open House anti-drug center permission to operate in San Rafael.

Now that the center has a home, its planned education efforts should provide invaluable assistance helping the addict overcome his habit.

Only by aiding the addict to overcome the crime he commits against himself, will the growing rash of crimes committed by addicts to support their habit be reduced and productive citizens returned to our society.

Courts Cite Sound Reason For Ban On Public Strikes

(Reprinted from Sacramento Bee)

A California Supreme Court action upholding a ban on strikes by public employes deserves careful attention during these days of increased militancy and strike threats among government workers.

The high court refused to consider an appeal from a state court of appeal ruling that those on the public payroll lack the legal right to strike unless specifically granted it by positive action of an appropriate law-making body.

The decision was reached in a case involving a threatened walkout by 800 San Diego City employes but it has important consequences everywhere in the state, including Sacramento where firemen, engaged in difficult negotiations with the city, are threatening to strike.

THE SUPREME court's refusal to hear an appeal from the lower court decision fortunately and wisely has the effect of leaving a powerful anti-strike weapon in the hands of the public agencies. They will be able to obtain injunctions against strikes, leaving individual employes and worker organizations open to punishment for disobeying court orders.

Why should public employes be treated differently from private employes? The answer is given in one sentence in the lower court's ruling which the Supreme Court refused to consider overturning. Appeal Court Justice Martin Coughlin correctly stated:

"The legitimate and compelling state interest accomplished and promoted by the law denying public employes the right to strike is not simply the need for a particular government service but the preservation of a system of government."

EFFORTS TO DISRUPT the machinery governing and protecting an increasingly complex society are dangerous.

This does not place the onus for preserving orderly government solely on the public employes. It also imposes special responsibilities on public agencies to treat their employes fairly.

In no case, however, are strikes by public employes justified, a point emphasized by the state's courts.

THE DRUMMONDS

Minnesota Voters Can't Lose With Two Top Senate Candidates

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

MINNEAPOLIS — What will Hubert Humphrey be up to in Washington if Minnesota voters return him to the U.S. Senate as they show every sign of doing?

Will he run for President again? What will be his role in the Senate and in the Democratic Party?

The answers can be given without qualifications:

HUMPHREY IS NOT now seeking a second presidential nomination.

He is not going to seek it.

He will not encourage others to seek it for him.

He is not going to enter any presidential primaries and, when he can prevent it, will not allow his name to be entered in them.

He does not expect to be nominated without going after it, and the evidence is clear he isn't going after it.

THE BEST EVIDENCE that Humphrey is putting it on the line candidly and conclusively when he says these things is this

1 — He isn't trying to pretend that he wouldn't like to run for President again or wouldn't accept the nomination if it unexpectedly came to him. He would — and says so quite openly. If he said otherwise, then there would be reason to figure he was putting you on. Of course, he'd like a second try but he isn't fooling himself or others into believing he has more than a kitten's whisker of a chance.

2 — Second, he knows very well that if he rocketed himself into a controversial and devisive contest for the presidential nomination, he not only would have small chance of winning but would simutaneously wreck all the prospects of doing what he most wants to do in the Senate.

IF THESE are the things Humphrey is wisely going to pass up, what does he really want to do if he is re-elected senator after an enforced two-year sabbatical?

He aims to work cooperatively with President Nixon in a new effort to keep defense and foreign policy out of partisan politics.

He wants to see defense costs significantly reduced but not to a level to endanger national security. He wants to see the Democrats stand as decisively as the President himself is standing against a wishful isolationism.

He believes he can utilize his intimate and wide experience with government and with the whole nation, including the cities, to develop workable programs for national-growth policies for better living.

WE SUSPECT that Humphrey will feel himself the most rewarded person in the land to become a Senator-of-Prestige, a creative legislator and a force above narrow partisanship in the country.

This is why he is running for office again — and as strenuously as we have ever seen him. The polls show him well ahead. He'll have a hard time losing.

But the Minnesota voters are well favored in this year's Senate race. However it comes out, they can hardly lose.

HUMPHREY'S OPPONENT is an able, five-term, modern-minded Republican congressman, Rep. Clark MacGregor, whose voting record and campaign show him somewhat to the left of Richard Nixon and somewhat to the right of Humphrey.

He strongly supported crucial civil rights laws in the early '60s when it was less popular to do so and did much to shape the voting-rights legislation which has done so much for Negroes. He was a major author of the Immigration Reform Act. He was an early advocate of a Council on Environmental Quality.

He is an ardent advocate of congressional reform and is ahead of the leaders of both parties. He would scrap the seniority system for choosing committee chairmen. He favors direct popular election of the President.

When he talks on campus, young people listen.

We do not deem it the role of this column to advocate anybody's election, but when two good men are running for the same office, it is a pleasure to say so. We wish it happened more often.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

'Bomb Tip' Case Involves Right Of Congress, Press

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The investigating powers of Congress are again under attack in a generally unpublicized case which is under consideration in the federal courts.

The case pits the congressional investigative power against a claim of press freedom. It also raises an old constitutional power struggle, between Congress and the courts.

The controversy arises from a Senate investigation of bombings — itself an explosive issue. There is a good chance that the case will finally end up in the Supreme Court.

THE ISSUE was joined when the Senate investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., sought to subpoena Thomas W. Sanders, business manager and an editorial board member of the now defunct publication, Black Politics, in Berkeley, Calif. Subcommittee staff members had tried unsuccessfully to question Sanders.

Among other things, the subpoena directed that Sanders provide the identity of a George Prosser who signed a series of articles for Black Politics.

In early August Sanders asked the federal district court here for a restraining order to block the subpoena. The district court refused, but it was overturned by the court of appeals on the following day and ordered to hear Sanders' case.

THE SUBCOMMITTEE'S hearing record includes testimony by staff investigator Philip Manuel which indicates that Sanders himself "uses the name of George Prosser to write articles for Black Politics."

At a hearing here before Judge Howard F. Corcoran, Sanders' attorney said Sanders would suffer "irreparable injury" if he had to reveal Prosser's identity.

Testimony at the court hearing referred to one of the Prosser articles which included instructions on how to make fire bombs. It commented that the Navy's big weapons depot at Port Chicago, Calif., a plant making napalm in Torrance, Calif., and said the West Coast power "grid" were vulnerable to such bombs.

However, the Prosser articles carried caveats stating, for example, that "we do not advise action now," and that violent steps were outlined "without advocating such a campaign."

IN THE SENATE, however, Chairman McClellan complained that the court sought to secure the subcommittee's confidential records in connection with the case, and he called that action "unprecedented."

At McClellan's suggestion, the Senate granted approval (necessary under the Constitution) for subcommittee staff members to testify in the court proceeding. But it specified they will be limited to the contents of the subcommittee's public hearings and other matters of public record.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

'Quiet Campus Year' Doesn't Start That Way

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Before the opening of schools this fall, there were reassuring pronouncements from the education world that campus violence would be curbed. Not everyone accepted them at face value, however.

President Nixon, in his Alfred M. Landon Lecture at Kansas State University on Sept. 15, declared:

"We all know that at some of the great universities small bands of destructionists have been allowed to impose their own rule of arbitrary force.

"Because of this, we today face the greatest crisis in the history of American education.

"And it is time for the responsible university and college administrators, faculty and student leaders to stand up and be counted, because we must remember, only they can save higher education in America. It cannot be saved by government."

THE PRESIDENT'S words brought a chorus of objections from educators. He was polarizing the country, some charged. The fault lay not with the schools but with the administration, said others. New rules and new arrangements would prevent campuses from being turned into battlefields again this year, many insisted.

But just a few hours after the President delivered that speech, a bomb exploded on the porch of a University of Colorado building in Boulder, blowing a hole through the roof. It was the first campus bombing since the new school year began. It was quickly followed by others.

Let's take one day as an example: Sept. 25.

THAT WAS the day the president of the American Council on Education and the chairman of its special committee on campus tensions called on the president. Their purpose, said Logan Wilson, the ACE president, was "to correct the misimpression" that college presidents have dealt indecisively with protests.

On that day, police in three states were hunting two young men and two young women for questioning in a murder, a bank robbery, and the looting of a National Guard arsenal — which, said police, were linked to revolutionary student activities. Two of the four sought were students at Brandeis University, the third a June graduate of Brandeis, the fourth a student at Northeastern University.

That was the day the New York Times carried a front-page story which began: "With the same openness that some students hurl Frisbees and do homework on the major lawn of the City College (of New York) campus, others congregate there to buy and use heroin."

ALSO ON that day, three students and two policemen were injured in a battle between police and rioting students at Dickinson High School in Jersey City, N.J., and 21 persons were arrested in a race riot at Atlantic City (N.J.) High School.

Also on Sept. 25, presidents of the student body and the Black Student Union at Syracuse University demanded firing of the head football coach and boycott of the opening game of the season, alleging racism on the football squad.

That was also the day, incidentally, when teachers at last reported for work at Sir Francis Drake Elementary School in San Francisco after a boycott which was ended only by the promise to hire a black principal.

THERE HAVE BEEN other days since that were not much different from Sept. 25.

Bombings and arso at schools and colleges have become so common that most of them do not even get reported except in newspapers near where they occur, unless someone is badly injured.

Shouting, violence-threatening demonstrations have become so common that many of them are not reported at all.

The American Council on Education, whose leaders sought to reassure President Nixon on Sept. 25, itself kept a tally of "protest incidents" on college and university campuses last year. It reported there were 9,400 such incidents, of which 230 led to physical violence, 410 resulted in property damage, and 731 were followed by arrests.

The count showed that two out of three institutions of higher education in the U.S. had such incidents.

DeGaulle's Word To JFK: Avoid Push In Indochina

PARIS (UPI) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle said in a new volume of memoirs published today he told John F. Kennedy in 1961 U.S. military intervention in Indochina would bog down the Americans in a costly and "endless" war.

De Gaulle said he told the late U.S. president his policy of unlimited involvement on the side of South Vietnam was bad.

De Gaulle said he told Kennedy, "for you, an intervention in this region will be an endless involvement. I predict to you that you will move forward bogging down more and more in a bottomless military and political quagmire, in spire of the losses and expenditure you may spend lavishly."

De Gaulle's book was the first volume of a new series of memoirs embracing the period between his return to power in 1958 and Algeria's independence in 1932. Called "Memoirs of Hope," it will be a trilogy. The first volume, put on sale today, is titled "Renewal" and is published by Plon, De Gaulle's regular publisher.

The new set of memoirs will end with De Gaulle's resignation after a referendum defeat in 1969.

In "Renewal", De Gaulle also said that during their 1961 meeting Kennedy assured him he would not hesistate to use nuclear weapons to prevent any Soviet seizure of Western Europe.

De Gaulle, who will be 80 years old Nov. 22, said he warned former Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion against attempts to extend Israel's frontiers and against exploitation of friendship with France.

Law Wanted Now To Halt Police Deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate was urged today to stop talking and start acting on stern new measures to clamp down on "radical revolutionaries" who are killing police and other public officials at record rates.

In the second day of hearings into outbreaks of violence against lawmen around the country, two senators urged Congress to move immediately to make such assaults a federal crime.

"With the lives of police and firemen at stake, there should be no excuse for inaction," said Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J. "We have heard a lot of rhetoric about 'law and order.' But, there comes a time when, if they are sincere, public officials must stop talking and start acting. That time is at hand ..."

Opening-day witnesses before the Senate internal security subcommittee Tuesday said nearly 600 policemen had died in assaults and bombings since 1960, with more than 20 killed so far this year. Within the past two years, firemen and judges have been targets as well.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., today described the assaults as "essentially politically motivated ... where they are attacked solely as symbols of the establishment." He blamed "radical revolutionaries" for the plots which he said were "conceived by the twisted minds of individuals bent on destroying law and order in our society."

"Society must declare loud and clear that we will not tolerate such madness," Schweiker aid.

At Tuesday's hearings, a top California official said attacks on police have increased so sharply that "it is patently clear that law officers have become a special target for the terrorists and anarchists in our society."

Charles A. O'Brien, California chief deputy attorney general, said that revolutionaries have become so heavily armed—often with stolen military weapons—that they present "a clear and present danger to the security of the United States."

"The quantity of these weapons and handguns in unknown private hands raises the continuing specter of a situation in which the police are literally out-gunned," O'Brien said.

O'Brien, the Democratic candidate for California attorney general, charged that the Black Panthers and the militant Weatherman "are engaged in a conspiracy" and are staging "acts of revolution" throughout California.

Strom Thurmonds Expect First Child In March

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, 67, and his ex-beauty queen wife, 23, have announced they are expecting their first child in March.

"We're very happy. I have no other statement to make. We'll be very happy with whatever the Lord brings us," the South Carolina Republican told reporters who cornered him on the Senate floor Tuesday after the news raced across Washington.

An aide said the couple knew about the pregnancy for the past three months but kept it quiet. They have already made plans to move from Thurmond's high rise apartment on the Washington waterfront to a one-floor, four-bedroom house in McLean, Va.

Thurmond, a natty dresser and physical fitness buff, maried the former Nancy Moore in 1968. She was once Miss South Carolina and worked in his office as a secretary.

"I've been asked why I married a girl that young," Thurmond once said. "In old age, I would rather smell perfume than linament."

Roos/Atkins

Introducing a revolutionary new small car.

The Super Beetle.

You've never seen this car before.
It's 3 inches longer than a Volkswagen Beetle.
Yet it has nearly twice the luggage space.
It has a more powerful engine than the Beetle of old.
It has a shorter turning radius for easier parking.
It has a new suspension system for a more comfortable ride.
It has a larger fuel tank.
The brakes have been improved for quicker stops.
The front track has been widened for better handling.
The inside of the car, quite frankly, has more class.
It's fully carpeted.
The dashboard is more dashing.
The fresh-air heating system has a grand total of 7 different outlets.
It also has a new flow-through ventilation system with a 2-speed blower.
All in all, it's 89 ways different from a Volkswagen Beetle. Which in our opinion makes it a completely different automobile.
But in one very important way it remains the same:
For in 1971, the year everyone is feverishly building their revolutionary new small cars, the name on the rear deck of this revolutionary new small car reads "VOLKSWAGEN."

Profile Of Marin Juvenile Delinquency

By MARY LEYDECKER

(First of two articles)

Along with a high cost of living, high salaries and a high educational level, Marin Couny is also b l e s s e d with a special kind of "upper middle class neglect" which produces a special type of delinquent youngster.

About half of the young p e o p l e b o o k e d into Marin County Juvenile Hall each month have not committed what are usually thought of as criminal acts but are there basically because of family problems, according to Supt. Erick F. Yarchin.

Crimes of violence, including murder, assault, rape and armed robbery, are rare among Marin juveniles, he said, and often there are no such juvenile bookings in the monthly report from this county.

Instead, Marin teen-agers, "often very unhappy and mixed up kids," are usually booked on such juvenile offenses as r u n n i n g away from home or being beyond parental control.

Yarchin, who has spent his adult life in this work but in other counties, said that Marin has the "largest number of neglected c h i l d r e n I've ever seen."

He described the kind of f a m i l y w h i c h gives youngsters cars, swimming pools and money but "no parents."

"I like to call these switchboard homes," Y a r c h i n said with a wry s m i l e, explaining he meant that the members of the family only checked in occasionally to see what messages had been left for them.

Probation officers describe a 14-year-old boy, cleancut and nondelinquent, who has been awaiting a placement in a foster home b e c a u s e his mother, just m a r r i e d for the fifth time, does not want him with her because of the new marriage.

The boy does not want to live with his father so he has been made a ward of the court and is awaiting placement in Juvenile Hall.

"We have a large striving-parent group in Marin," Yarchin said, who are spending their energies and time in business and social pursuits rather than with their families.

"The most shocking case I've seen was a mother who arrived at the hall with her 9-year-old boy one Monday morning," he said. "She wanted us to take the boy because he was beyond her control.

"I couldn't help but think to myself that my own 9-year-old boy had been beyond my control a hundred times over the weekend and it never occurred to me to turn him over to someone else."

He quickly added that he was not accusing all Marin parents of not taking responsibility for their children.

"I w a n t to emphasize that most parents whose children are brought to Juvenile Hall are concerned about the youngsters and take the responsibility for them," he said.

But what about the sad little group who are products of this special type of neglect?

"F o s t e r homes are undoubtedly the best answer in most cases," Yarchin said, "but the secret is proper matching up of foster parents and children."

(Tomorrow: How probation officers strive for this 'proper matching up' and the kinds of problems faced by foster parents.)

TOP OF THE MORNIN', KIDS!

A routine walk to school by three Novato youngsters had a bizarre interlude today. The trio — (from left) Terry Stonecipher and Cindy Georgeson, both 11, and Ricky Georgeson, 9, all students at Marion School — were s t r o l l i n g along Seventh Street when they were greeted stonily by an odd-looking lady wearing the seat of a lawn chair for a hat and pushing a rusted shopping cart. Pranksters, using some of the 60 cubic yards of rubbish (rear) collected from a weekend cleanup along Novato Creek, had meticulously created their own piece of art.

Gen. Torres Sworn In As President

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Leftist Gen. Juan Jose Torres was sworn in today as president of Bolivia, the victor in a power struggle between left and right that carried Bolivia to the brink of civil war. He told a cheering, ecstatic crowd he would end hunger in Boliva.

Torres was backed by the air force, students, leftwing laborers and a ragtag army of peasants who swarmed through the streets of La Paz as Torres drove to the presidential palace in triumphant procession, stopping from time to time to shake hands with the multitude.

WITHOUT A SHOT

Once at the palace, which was taken without a shot being fired, he was carried to a balcony on the shoulders of his followers where he pledged to end poverty in this poverty stricken nation and reminded them "I have known hunger."

Students in the throng interrupted his brief speech from time to time with shouts of "power to the workers", a demand that he turn Bolivia to the left. When he had finished speaking, the crowd sang the national anthem and gave him an ovation.

Torres, who admires but does not actively support Cuba's Fidel Castro, won out when a three-man military junta set up Tuesday collapsed in disorder and troops loyal to him took over the presidential palace which the junta abandoned.

PALACE BUZZED

Torres' victory had been assured when Gen. Fernando Sattori, chief of the air force and a member of the junta, threw his support to Torres last night. Yesterday a handful of air force World War II P51 Mustangs buzzed the palace and strafed a recalcitrant military barracks in the suburbs.

The two other members of the junta disappeared from the palace early today but turned up later at the air force base where Torres had his headquarters. Immediately afterwards Torres went on the national radio to announce triumphant-

COMMUNAL LIVING

Prevention Easier Said Than Done

Preventing communal "families" of six or more unrelated persons from occupying a house is easier said than done, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday after running into a series of legal snarls. (Other board of supervisors, stories, page 13.)

Three attorneys, two from the Marin chapter of the American Civil L i b e r t i e s Union, questioned the constitutionality of a proposed county ordinance to limit communal living in one-family homes.

The p r o p o s e d ordinance would limit the use of a one-family home to families related by blood or marriage "or a group of not more than five p e r s o n s, other than foster children or exchange students, who need not be related, living together as a single housekeeping unit."

"Under that ordinance six College of Marin s t u d e n t s couldn't live together, even if one of them owned the place," declared Richard J. Wertheimer of Kentfield, representing the ACLU. He was joined by Robert B. McCreadie of Novato.

"Is it for the board (of supervisors) to be so presumptuous as to say this is a family and others are not?" asked Wertheimer. "It is vague, arbitrary, discriminatory a n d legislates against a class of people."

McCreadie noted that the ordinance would penalize the owner of a house, whereas the owner often has no control over the number of occupants after he rents the place.

Attorney Frank Solomon Jr. of Lucas Valley, argued that the ordinance would penalize the young and the poor who lack funds for an apartment or a house and would drive them into trespassing in parks and public roadways.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. foresaw difficulty in enforcement. "Supposing you find six people sitting at dinner and tell them they are under arrest. And they say, 'Are you kidding, we're dinner guests.' How are you going to enforce it?"

Supervisor Louis H. Baar said the intent is to stop 10 and 15 unrelated people living in a one-family home, with t h e i r cars taking up all the parking spaces.

Margaret B. Azevedo said she

Israelis See U.S. Taking Hard Line

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli diplomatic sources today welcomed what one described as a "harder line" by the United States toward Egypt and the Soviet Union in the Middle East crisis. The British criticized the United States for suspending Big Four power talks on an Arab-Israeli peace settlement.

In Cairo, the National Assembly met to approve the nomination of Anwar Sadat as president to succeed Gamal Abdel Nasser, who died of a heart attack on Sept. 28.

Israeli diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said the U.S. suspension of talks by the deputies of the Big Four U.N. ambassadors in New York indicated increased skepticism by the Nixon administration of Soviet and Egyptian sincerity in the search for a peaceful solution in the Middle East.

They said that in suspending the talks until Soviet-Egyptian missile violations of the current cease-fire are "recitified," Washington clearly backed Israel's refusal to continue with U.N.-supervised peace talks until the missiles are pulled back from the Suez Canal standstill zone.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said Tuesday his government was willing to extend the current cease-fire, scheduled to expire on Nov. 5, for another 90 days but will not withdraw a single missile from the Suez front. He denied that Egypt had violated the terms of the cease-fire and said it would continue to increase the number of Soviet-built missiles along the canal if it can.

British officials in London indicated that the U.S. move came as a surprise to the government of Prime Minister Edward Heath. And they made known in a hardly-concealed criticism of Washington that the British government favored

Labor Leader Denies Role In Violence

A Marin Labor official testified today in Marin Superior Court that he was an onlooker at the violence-wracked Valentine's Day rally outside the Independent-Journal building in San Rafael. But did not see anyone throwing objects or paint at the building or setting fire to a newspaper truck.

Charles B. Weers of Novato, secretary-treasurer of the Marin Labor Council, also said neither he nor the labor council had any role in planning the demonstration in support of members of S a n Francisco Typographical Union 21, on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7.

Independent-Journal attorneys Gary T. Giacomini and Nathan R. Burke are seeking to prove that the Marin and San Francisco labor councils, ITU Local 21 and Newspaper and Periodical Drivers Local 921 and some of their officers were in contempt of a temporary injunction issued Jan. 28 by Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating.

The contempt hearing was in its second day. Judge Keating was ill yesterday and the hearing was resumed this morning.

Weers said he saw the events of the morning of Feb. 14 from a vantage point on a street next to the former San Rafael Courthouse.

He said he could see a crowd in the public parking lot behind

President Wants Ban On Ocean Dumping

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon called today for a total ban on disposal in ocean waters of poison gases and other kinds of toxic materials, and for strict controls on dumping trash and wastes at sea.

"Man does not treat the oceans well," Nixon said in a message to Congress: "He has assumed that their capacity to absorb wastes is infinite, and evidence is now accumulating on the damage that he has caused."

The President said he would recommend legislation to stop U.S. use of the seas as dumping grounds, with hopes this would be followed by international agreements along the same lines.

The President sent Congress a 44-page report by the Environmental Quality Council which detailed damage caused by ocean dumping and suggested a series of strict rules to preserve the seas.

"I endorse the Council's recommendations and will submit specific legislative proposals to implement them to the next Congress," Nixon said.

The report said ocean dumping of materials "clearly identified as harmful to the marine environment or man" must be prohibited. It said that dumping of materials which could be harmful should be phased out.

"No ocean dumping of chemical warfare materials should be permitted," the report said. "Biological warfare materials have not been disposed of at sea and should not be in the future.

"Ocean disposal of explosive munitions should be terminated as soon as possible."

The Army's dumping of a large quantity of nerve gas in the Atlantic Ocean east of Cape Kennedy, F'a., last summer created a major uproar, with

Nixon's Aides Hint Early Cease-Fire Appeal Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon tonight plans to announce broad new Indochina peace proposals which are understood to call first for an early cease-fire in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

The President will disclose his suggestions, aimed at cracking the lengthy deadlock in the Paris negotiations, on a nationwide television broadcast at 6 p.m. PDT. The proposals will be presented to the Communists at the Paris talks on Thursday.

Officials were unusually tight-lipped concerning details of Nixon's plan. They indicated, however, that in addition to the sweeping cease-fire proposal, he might announce that the U.S. combat role in Vietnam will be ended by the early part of next summer. This goal, although never publicly stated as such, is the objective of Nixon's previously announced troop reductions.

The President's proposals also are expected to call for early consideration of the release of prisoners of war.

However, the Viet Cong insist that discussion of captives and work on a political solution to the war could come only after the United States had pledged to have all its troops out of Vietnam by next June 30.

Nixon long ago proposed gradual withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces over a one-year period if the Viet Cong and Hanoi agreed that all North

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

To Reduce Booms

QUINCY, Calif. (UPI)—The Air Force has promised to reduce the sonic boom rate in this mountain community, Plumas County Grand Jury Foreman Ken Kolb reports.

Quincy, a town of 2,700 high on the banks of the Feather River in the Sierra Nevada, has been "logging 15 sonic booms a week," Kolb declared Tuesday while announcing results of a talk with an Air Force officer.

He quoted Lt. Col. Gabriel Kardong of nearby Beale Air Force Base as telling jurors the boom planes came from McClellan Air Force Base near Sacramento, where airplanes are repaired.

"The Air Force promised to move the test pattern," Kolb said.

Nike Launched

The rocket was fired at 5:47 a.m. and the cloud reached a peak altitude of 167 statute miles. It was visible along much of the East Coast before daylight.

A similas launch last week produced pastel-shaded lights that were seen from Portland, Me., to Greenville, S.C., and as far west as Minneapolis.

Social Dilemma

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—President Nixon created a social delimma Tuesday with his announcement of a White House state dinner Oct. 24 for heads of state attending the 25th anniversary session of the U.N. General Assembly.

A U.N. spokesman said Secretary General Thant had not been informed of Nixon's plan to hold the dinner. The dinner conflicts with a scheduled social event for the U.N.'s delegation heads.

'Lame Duck' Round

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has decided officially it will meet again after the November elections, the first such "lame duck" session since 1950.

The "lame duck" tag is put on such meetings because some of the lawmakers who will return to their desks will have been defeated —and will be conducting the public business even though their mandate from the voters has been withdrawn.

Under the schedule announced Tuesday, Congress will recess Oct. 14 so those lawmakers up for reelection can go hunting for votes. They will come back Nov. 16 in a session that could last until Dec. 1 or later.

Plane Grounded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The plane which carried part of the Wichita State University football team safely to Logan, Utah, last week has been ordered grounded by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The airworthiness certificate of the twin-engine Martin 404, whose sister ship carrying the rest of the team crashed in the Colorado mountains killing 30 persons Friday, was ordered withdrawn Tuesday after the FAA found at least 16 safety violations.

The FAA cited "engines saturated with oil which created a fire hazard, excessive oil consumption in both engines and an arcing battery cable."

No Blast Clues

SALISBURY, N.C. (UPI)—Sheriff's deputies said today an all-night search by a posse of law enforcement officers failed to turn up any clues in a mysterious explosion which rocked homes and shattered windows over a 20-mile area.

Some witnesses reported seeing a flash in the sky at the time of the blast about 9:30 Tuesday night, but aviation authorities said there were no scheduled civilian or military planes in the area at the time.

The Rowan County sheriff's ofifce said a search had failed to turn up any sign of wreckage and "we don't know any more than we did when the first call came in."

AGNEW PROTEST — Pittsburgh police arrested a demonstrator after an unruly crowd of protesters gathered outside the Hilton Hotel where Vice President Agnew addressed a fund-raising dinner last night. Thirty-nine persons were arrested. (UPI Telephoto)

Police Break Up Agnew Protest; Vice President Slaps Goodell

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Police arrested 39 demonstrators in three clashes outside a downtown hotel in the worst outbreak of dissent directed against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew since his current campaign swing began.

In his speech in the hotel Tuesday night, Agnew softened his criticism of maverick elements in the Republican party, but kept up his fire on Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R.-N.Y. Agnew did not mention the demonstrators.

In the two hours before Agnew spoke, police broke up a flag-burning demonstration and two sidewalk sit-ins. Those arrested included two men charged with burning the American flag, eight juveniles, several women, and two men in a small car accused of trying to run down a policeman.

Policemen broke the windows of the car with billy clubs to get at the driver and a passenger. Both were beaten when they offered resistance.

Using half a dozen police dogs and swinging clubs, police dispersed a crowd that refused to move off sidewalks, saw it reform a few blocks away, and waded in again. Police and nearby hospitals reported no injuries. Most of those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct and obstructing traffic.

Agnew praised "unity in diversity" and declared: "A clique that cleaves only to one view is not a political party at all in our American tradition; it can be no more than a cult incapable and unsuited to lead the nation."

But he charged that Goodell had used President Nixon as his "private punching bag" and had deliberately alienated himself from the Republican Party.

Agnew chose the occasion of a GOP fund raising-dinner for Sen. Hugh Scott—who has himself been at odds with Nixon on a number of major issues—to tone down his previous hardline criticism of dissident party members. Agnew said Scott's differences differed from those of "radical-liberals" like Goodell because on the major issues like international affairs, national defense, and key domestic issues "he has repeatedly stood by the President—often in the face of intense political pressures from within his own state."

Goodell, on the other hand, "has sought flamboyantly and ceaselessly to openly divorce himself" from the President, and thereby forfeited a right to administration support in his current bid for re-election.

Goodell Says Agnew Turns Clock Back

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Charles E. Goodell accused Vice President Spiro T. Agnew of "divisive rhetoric" Tuesday night while Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller asked the White House to keep out of New York politics.

Agnew has called Goodell, a Republican running for a full term, a member of an "awful liberal-radical coalition" who has left his party. Agnew has supported Conservative party candidate James L. Buckley to the extent of appearing at a fund-raising luncheon on his behalf.

QUESTION FOR VOTERS

"Such an attack—which by implication casts doubt on my very patriotism and fitness to hold office—raises some questions for the voters of New York," Goodell said at a New York State Liberal party dinner.

He said, "The toughest question facing New Yorkers in this election is whether they are still free to vote their own minds for a candidate whom they feel will best serve their intersts—or whether their vote is to be dictated from powerful interests outside the state.

"These powerful interests—represented most dramatically by the vice president's divisive rhetoric—seek to turn back the clock on all the great progressive changes made in this state over the past several decades," Goodell said.

WHITE HOUSE CALLS

Rockefeller, campaigning in Buffalo for re-election, said he had asked the White House to "let us handle our own political problems."

He said he telephoned presidential aides to attempt to keep Agnew from further involvement in the Senate race in New York and that he would discuss the matter with President Nixon.

"The people of New York State don't need outside help to tell them how to vote," the governor declared.

Abortion Exception

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Catholic Archdiocese of Philadelphia, a month late in its endorsement of the United Fund, has urged Catholics to stipulate in writing that their contributions must not be given to hospitals performing abortions.

Nausea Gas Used By Reds In Attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist troops used nausea gas for the first time today in the six months old Cambodian war to attack rear-guard position of a stalled government offensive. Front dispatches said they also dragged civilians out of hiding and shot them.

The attack hit the village of Prakham, 48 miles north of Phnom Penh and four miles behind the operational front line, UPI correspondent Kate Webb reported from the scene. She said the attack started at midnight behind a barrage of mortars, rockets and heavy weapons fire.

Miss Webb said one of six dead civilians was a young girl, killed when her flimsy palm thatch house received a direct hit from a B40 rocket. A senior field officer said the other civilians were dragged by the hair out of trenches where they were hiding and shot in the head.

When the fighting ended at dawn three Cambodian soldiers and six civilians were found dead. More than 20 Cambodian soldiers were wounded but it was not known how many civilians were wounded. The North Vietnamese attack force, estimated at 200 men, left 12 bodies behind.

"I think the North Vietnamese wanted to warn the civilians not to cooperate with us," one senior field officer said. "They are also trying to cut our supply lines—but some of the civilians were assassinated...' '

Late this morning hundreds of civilian refugees streamed from the village southward down Route 6, taking with them their household belongings, cows and water buffaloes. It was a scene reminiscent of the attacks on villages in the war in South Vietnam.

Miss webb said she saw two Vietnamese bodies of young men wearing North Vietnamese khaki regular uniforms. She said the Cambodian troops had stripped two medallions from the bodies reading "Be a hero—kill the Americans" and "Don't be a nothing—be a hero."

Senior officers said the nausea gas, fired in the warheads of mortars, had made the Cambodians' eyes smart and then made them sick. They said they took a cannister to the main operational control post where it was identified as nausea gas.

Col. Littaye Soun Aime, commander of the rearguard troops between the operational front line at Tang Kauk, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh, and Skoun, 35 miles northeast of the capital, said the situation behind the front line was not good.

Aime declined to speculate on the number of North Vietnamese operating behind the frontlines of the stalled Cambodian drive toward Kompong Chom but said "they don't give me much sleep." He said they shelled Skoun during the night, killing one Cambodian soldier.

Romanian Leader Hurt In Car Wreck

VIENNA (UPI) — The Romanian news agency Agerpres disclosed Tuesday night that Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer, 68, suffered a serious shock in an automobile accident Monday. It said his condition was improving.

Maurer, No. 2 man in the Romanian government, is under close medical supervision to prevent complications resulting from multiple injuries which brought on shock, an official said.

ly: "The opposition has given up."

The unknown factor was still Gen. Regelio Miranda, the rightwing leader who led the coup against Ovando. He was believed to be in Miraflores military base along with officers loyal to him. It was he who named the junta.

Crowds of Torres supporters swarmed through the streets of La Paz today and began sacking the homes of the three junta members. Groups of workers raced through the city calling on the workers to support the general strike which helped bring Torres to power.

"My peoples, my armed forces, I swear to complete your mandate, placing myself at your exclusive and total service."

He said his government was a popular one because it emanated from the people. He said he had been raised in the humblest of surroundings "and I have known hunger." He said "I want to eradicate poverty, I want work for all so that there will be more bread."

In a speech Tuesday night Torres explained why he acted: "The extreme rightists of the army high command have succeeded during the past three months to impose their judgments and criteria on the acts of the government, turning it towards the right. Now we propose to exercise absolute vigilance over the revolutionary mandate."

Although an avowed leftist, Torres was commander of the army during the campaign against the guerrillas in 1967 when U.S.-trained Bolivian rangers tracked down and killed guerrilla leader Ernesto "Che" Guevara.

The long festering political chaos in Bolivia came to a head on Sunday when Gen. Regelio Miranda, the conservative army chief of staff, began the process of ousting President Alfredo Ovando Condia. The President resigned Tuesday to avert civil war and the junta was formed.

Torres, who was ousted as commander of the armed forces two months ago because of his leftist leanings, immediately announced he was the new president. Labor organizations called a general strike to back his claims and were joined by students and professional men.

Outside the city a force of peasants began marching on La Paz armed with ancient Mauser rifles they had used years ago in a war with Paraguay. Their forces were estimated from 2,000 to 7,000.

Inside the city army cadets guarding the government palace fled and handed the keys over to Sgt. Juan Chuvi. When troops loyal to Torres marched up to seize control Chuvi merely handed them the keys and there was no bloodshed.

COMMUNE

is concerned about the mixing of physical zoning laws with regulation of social behavior. "We don't measure density by numbers. We certainly don't talk about relationships — whether they are related by blood. I think this would get us into a lot of trouble."

Peter Brekhus, a Greenbrae attorney, came out flatly for the ordinance. "It is quite clear this type of legislation is proper and constitutional. I don't think communes are desirable. I'd urge you to go ahead.

"You need three votes to approve this and I'm not about to vote for it," snapped Supervisor Michael Wornum. (Chairman John F. McInnis is on vacation, and William A. Gnoss had left a few moments before to keep a luncheon commitment).

Wornum said low cost housing is a problem in Marin, and voters last June did not help any by turning down 600 more low cost housing for the county.

He said low income families and those on welfare are being forced to double up or live on the roadsides. Wornum added he has some experience as a landlord and sees enforcement problems. "If the landlord himself cannot control it, I dont' see how the county can do it."

Acting chairman Baar announced he would put the matter over to either Oct. 27 or Nov. 3 when a full board will be present. He said he would ask citizens who requested the ordinance to attend that meeting.

A proposed companion ordinance, which would ban habitation in campers or panel trucks on any street or roadway was also put over for future discussion.

"The United Kingdom believes it is important that the conference of the Four Powers' machinery of conciliation should continue to function and should be seen to do so," the officials said.

"The purpose of a Four Power discussion has been to give assistance to U.N. mediator Dr. Gunnar V. Jarring. We believe it is still necessary to work towards this end."

With the situation in Egypt apparently headed towards normalization, diplomatic attention once again focused on the cease-fire along the Suez Canal. indications were the 90-day truce which began Aug. 7 would be extended at least for another three months by Israel, Egypt and Jordan.

In Jordan, Palestinian guerrillas began pulling out of their northern strongholds, leaving the way for the government of King Hussein to take control. Their withdrawal, which started Tuesday and is expected to take three days, was provided for in the truce negotiated by the Arab League.

Meanwhile, Lebanon got a new government. Premier designate Saeb Salam formed a new 12-man cabinet in Beirut early today. Salam replaced outgoing Premier Rashid Karami.

Vietnamese troops also would leave during that period.

Some diplomats speculated that Nixon would, in effect, turn the latest Viet Cong plan around to make withdrawals and discussion of a political solution contingent upon a cease-fire and prior discussion of the release of prisoners of war.

Nixon, who had withdrawn 115,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam by mid-April, announced at the end of that month that another 150,000 would be brought out by next spring. U.S. officials said the date he had in mind was May 1.

Burglary Case To Higher Court

Steven Gregory Samochim, 33, of San Rafael, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of attempting to burglarize a San Rafael doctor's office on Sept. 7.

He is to be arraigned Oct. 19.

Samochim was arrested after a doctor who was working in his office on Labor Day said he recognized Samochim who, he said, was trying to break a glass door.

Burglary Case Goes To Superior Court

David Mathew Sliney, 18, of Terra Linda, yesterday was bound over the Marin Superior Court on a charge of burglarizing an office building in Northgate on Aug. 3. He is to be arraigned Oct. 19.

Sliney was arrested after he reportedly tried to pawn a stolen typewriter in San Francisco.

Brindel's Wife Asks Dissolution

The wife of Paul F. Brindel of Novato, writer for Roman Cathoic publications and a former subdivider and builder, filed for dissolution of their 26-year marriage yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

Mabel Marie Brindel asked support and a share of community property. She also asked that the court grant either a dissolution or a legal separation, citing irreconcilable differences.

According to the petition, the Brindels, who have no children, were married in San Rafael in 1945. Brindel, 75, retired from the Hearst newspapers in 1945 and after that, built homes in Novato and wrote for several magazines. He is reportedly now in Jordan as a correspondent.

Driver Injured In San Rafael Crash

A 22-year-old San Rafael woman said she would see her own doctor for minor injuries suffered in a two-car collision at Second and D streets, San Rafael, at 7:30 a.m. today.

Police said Cheri A. Roller of 304 D Street, Apt. 10, was hurt when her car collided with one driven by Richard William Harder, 37, of 872 Las Pavadas Avenue, San Rafael.

Union Aide Denies Role In Violence

the I-J singing and milling around. He said they became excited and had their arms in the air, but he could see nothing being thrown.

Weers, however, said he could hear the sound of breaking glass and could see smoke rising from the parked newspaper truck although he did not see it being set afire.

Weers testified that shortly after Jan. 28 he was served a copy of Judge Keating's injunction and that he forwarded it to the labor council's attorney. He said no general notice of the injunction terms was sent to the 8,000 members of the labor council's participating unions.

Weers also said he had no idea how his name came to be included on a flier calling for support to the Feb. 14 rally, nor did he or the labor council have any role in planning the event.

He said the labor council did play an active part in announcing an earlier rally, on Jan. 17, with resulted in less strife.

On Jan. 28, Judge Keating's temporary injunction limited the number of pickets to two per entrance at the I-J plant and ordered the unions to obey 14 other conditions. These included prohibitions against blocking the entrances or sidewalks, any violence or threats of violence to I-J employees or firms doing business with the I-J, use of loud obscene or boisterous language and other restrictions.

The terms of the preliminary injunction were worked out in conference between union and I-J attorneys.

On. Feb. 16, following the Valentine's Day uproar, the I-J filed declarations charging the unions, their leaders and the labor councils with contempt of the injunction, as a result of the Feb. 14 happenings.

After a series of court hearings and technical amendments of the declarations, the action resulted in this week's hearing.

A total of 17 persons were injured in the Valentine's day demonstration. Six of the victims required hospital treatment.

Sausalito police oficer William Palmini suffered a pierced hand when a roofing nail was fired at him; San Rafael Patrolman John Rosentangle was treated for face cuts and a bruised head after being hit by a picket sign and clawed by a demonstrator, and San Rafael Reserve Patrolman Daniel Dufficy was treated for a bruised right leg after being struck with a club.

Union supporters treated at hospitals included Alvis Dean Bailey and James Starkey Broke, both of San Francisco, for head and scalp bruises and cuts, and John Clancy of San Francisco, who suffered a fractured left leg.

Valentine's Day was marked by two high tides of trouble. After several hundred union members and sympathizers rallied at 7:30 a.m. in the city parking lot on A Street behind the I-J building, a march commenced around the newspaper plant. As the marchers chanted, nearly every window on the ground floor was smashed, and rocks, machine bolts, crude stench bombs and other objects were hurled through windows on the upper floors by hand and with large slingshots. paint was splashed on the walls.

At the same time an I-J delivery truck near the paper's Julia Street loading platform was battered and set afire.

San Rafael police quickly led 100 officers in forming a thin line completely about the building. Officers stood five yards apart, their backs to the shattered windows, facing demonstrators who continued marching around the block. After police warnings that their assembly was illegal, most of the marchers withdrew to the A Street parking lot.

Relative quiet prevailed until about 1 p.m., when an unidentified motorist tried to drive away the auto he had parked near the I-J on Julia Street. Surging demonstrators blocked the car's exit; picket signs swung and rocks flew as police cleared a path for the car.

Police again and again ordered the crowd to disperse, and warned reinforcements were arriving. Missiles continued to fly, and finally police formed a line to clear Julia Street and the parking lot.

After learning the I-J did not intend to try to distribute an edition that day, union leaders persuaded most of their members and many sympathizers to leave the area.

Preliminary Set In Marijuana Case

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Oct. 20 for Michael Brown Bick, 19, no known address, who is charged with possessing marijuana when arrested Sept. 28 on Shoreline Highway.

Sheriff's deputies said they were called to the area because Bick had reportedly been bothering residents. They said he threw a plastic bag of suspected pot into a ditch but that it was retrieved.

San Rafael Woman Hurt In Car Wreck

A 23-year-old San Rafael woman was treated for a cut face at Marin General Hospital at 10:25 p.m. yesterday following a two-car collision at Third and D Streets, San Rafael.

Police said Christine L. Gibson of 103 Golden Hinde Boulevard was hurt when her car collided with one driven by Robert George Benz, 28, of 23 Scenic Avenue.

Man Is Treated For Cut Wrists

Clark Fullerton of 35 Tamalpais Avenue, San Anselmo, was treated Monday at Marin General Hospital for apparently self-inflicted cuts on his wrists, according to San Anselmo police.

The hospital, which referred the incident to police, yesterday withheld comment on Fullerton's condition.

OBITUARIES

MABEL HARTMAN

Mabel Hartman of Novato died today at the age of 81 at a local hospital, 15 months after suffering irreversible brain damage from carbon monoxide inhalation.

Mrs. Hartman, a widow, formerly lived at 710 Bradley street, but had been hospitalized since found May 1, 1969 unconscious in a garaged car, a hose leading inside from the exhaust pipe.

The Marin County coroner's office tentatively attributed death to the brain damage suffered. Mrs. Hartman's request, in a note found beside her that day, that her eyes be donated to the Dawn Society eye bank in San Francisco, could not be fullfilled because of the required autopsy, according to the coroner's office.

She was born in Alameda County and had lived in Novato 45 years. She and her husband, William Hartman, formerly owned the Happy Day Farm on Novato Boulevard just west of the O'Hair property being considered for a city park. Her husband died in 1962.

She was a member of the Novato Garden Club an many bridge clubs.

She leaves no immediate relatives.

HAROLD WILKINSON

The body of Harold Stanley Wilkinson was found in a bedroom by his son, David Wilkinson of San Francisco.

Wilkinson, 72, was a native of England.

The Marin County Coroner's office said cause of death was unknown pending an autopsy.

WILLIAM SAVAGE

Funeral for William T. Savage, brother of Jack Savage of Greenbrae, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Christ Church in Portola Valley, San Mateo County.

Savage, 43, died Monday in Woodside. He was a native of Great Falls, Mont.

He also is survived by his wife, Jean, and son and daughter, Ann and Kirk Savage of the home in Woodside; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Savage of Great Falls and a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Campbell of Anaheim.

LILLY LEHMAN

Lilly Mae Lehman, 78, of Bloomfield, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

A native of Fayetteville, Ark. she had moved to California in 1947 and had lived at 11545 Sutton Road, Bloomfield, for nine years.

She is survived by six daughters, Flora Lehman of Bloomfield, Frances Smith of Monrovia, Los Angeles County, Minnie Hicks of Fayetteville, Ark., Hattie Heavner of Howe, Okla., Bobbie Lehman of Sonoma and Ollie Flox Fowler of Heavner, Okla., and two sons, George Lehman of Sonoma and Albert Lehman of Fayetteville, Ark.

OCEAN

some marine experts contending that as the gas escaped it would result in a major kill of sea life.

The Environmental Council's report said present policy prohibits ocean dumping of wastes with a high level of radioactivity and said ocean dumping of most other radioactive materials should be prohibited unless there was "no alternative offering less harm to man or the environment."

The council urged a termination as quickly as possible of ocean dumping of industrial wastes and of undigested sewage sludge, the solid by-product of municipal waste water treatment processes.

In his message Nixon cited a section of the council report concluding that "the current level of ocean dumping is creating serious environmental damage in some areas and the volume of wastes dumped in the ocean is increasing rapidly."

The President expressed concern that some cities and industries were turning increasingly "to the ocean as a convenient sink for their wastes."

Pleads Guilty To Forgery Charge

Terry Sue Schieman, 21, of Larkspur, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of trying to use a forged prescription to obtain drugs at a Corte Madera pharmacy on Aug. 13.

She had originally been charged with a felony count of the same offense.

Judge Peter Allen Smith set sentencing for Oct. 30.

Four Arrests In Explosives Scheme

ROBERT SKINNER
Among four suspects

DANVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Undercover Treasury agents posing as extremists with a scheme to blow up Chicago's Federal Building and railroad yards have arrested four Danville youths in connection with the seizure of 700 pounds of stolen explosives.

Agents said the youths, members of a downstate Illinois gang, contacted them about trading the explosives for money and weapons.

Agent Joseph Scott said Tuesday two undercover agents, whom he refused to identify, arrested Michael McMahon, 20, Monday night near a pickup truck parked on a country road south of Danville where the exchange was to take place.

The truck was loaded with ammonium nitrate, primers and blasting caps, agents said.

The three other youths, Robert Skinner and William Moore, both 18, and a 16-year-old juvenile were arrested Tuesday.

McMahon and Skinner were arraigned on charges of conspiring to possess and transfer destructive devices. They were held on $5,000 bond in the Vermilion County jail.

Charges were to be filed today against Moore and the juvenile, a police spokesman said. They were held in the same jail.

The stolen explosives were believed to be the same kind used in the Aug. 24 bombing of a University of Wisconsin research building which left one researcher dead and caused up to $6 million damage.

"Ordinance men tell us there's enough of that stuff to blow up three city blocks," Scott said.

Authorities said the confiscated explosives, first taken to Camp Atterbury, Ind., to be detonated, were sent back to Illinois to be returned to the firms from which they were stolen.

Scott said the ammonium nitrate was taken from the Material Service Corp. stone quarry and the blasting caps from the Deep Valley coal mine, both near Danville, earlier this month.

Scott said the scheme to apprehend the youths began more than a month ago after one of the gang members contacted an agent posing as a revolutionary bent on bombing sections of downtown Chicago.

"I told them I was connected with a left-wing organization and that we wanted to blow up the federal building in Chicago and railroad yards and anything else we could find," one of the Treasury agents said.

After the initial contact, the youths promised to call the agents when they had the explosives. Scott said that call came a few days ago.

Inverness Pair Reported Lost Aboard Canoe

Two Inverness men aboard a red-sailed outrigger canoe were listed as missing today somewhere between that community and San Francisco, the Coast Guard reported.

The two men, Richard E. Horton, 31, and Michael Needham, 25, left Inverness yesterday at 5:30 a.m. en route to the St. Francis yacht harbor in San Francisco, the Coast Guard said.

At 4:25 p.m., when the two men had not notified their families of arrival in San Francisco, Horton's family phoned the Coast Guard seeking assistance.

Janice Yates Wins Tam Freshman Post

In a runoff election this week at Terra Linda High School, Janice Yates was chosen freshman class president by the margin of two votes.

According to a spokesman at the school, Miss Yates defeated her opposition, Steve Listug, by a vote of 126 to 124.

On Thursday, during the original election, Alix Downs defeated Gayle Zielgar for secretary and Dave MacNamara was elected treasurer while running unopposed.

About 250 of the 550 freshmen turned out to cast their ballots on Thursday, and besides electing class officers, elected seven class representatives. They are Jeff Hudson, Betsy Eastlund, Suzy Ellsburg, Holly Barker, Debbie Franzblar, Janice Sangester and Bart Bright. The seven were running to fill eight positions.

Other vote totals were not released by the school to avoid embarrassing the losers.

Behr Coffee

A coffee for Peter H. Behr of Mill Valley, Republican nominee for state Senate, will be held at 8 p.m. on Oct. 17 at the Novato home of Dr. Richard A. Gaebel, 205 Grandview Avenue.

Condition Good From Car Fall

A 20-year-old man was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with bruises suffered when he fell out of a car on Shoreline Highway at 8:30 p.m.

The California Highway Patrol reported Noah Richards, of Chatsworth, Los Angeles County, was riding in a van driven by Peter K. Wohltmann, 20, also of Chatsworth, when he began to feel sick and opened the front door.

Officers said he apparently lost his balance and fell out as the van slowed to a stop.

Weathermen Claim Credit For Bombing

NEW YORK (UPI)—A letter assertedly written by three prominent members of the Weathermen claims credit for a bombing Monday in Chicago and promises attacks against "the enemy" next week around the country.

The letter, postmarked Monday in Chicago, was signed by Bernardine Dohrn, Jeff Jones and Bill Ayers, sought as fugitives since their indictment for conspiracy and violation of the federal antiriot act. It was received Tuesday by the Youth International Party (Yippies) here.

The letter referred to the explosion early Monday that destroyed the statue of a policeman in Chicago's Haymarket Square for the second time in a year:

"A year ago we blew away the Haymarket pig statue at the start of a youth riot in Chicago. Last night we destroyed the pig again. This time it begins a fall offensive of youth resistance that will spread from Santa Barbara to Boston, back to Kent and Kansas.

"Next week," the Weathermen statement said, "families and tribes will attack the enemy around the country." There were no specifics given.

The letter predicted victory in a revolution against "America."

"We are building a culture and society that can resist genocide. It is a culture of total resistance to mind-controlling maniacs, a culture of high-energy sisters getting it on, of hippie acid-smiles and communes and freedom to be the frahest out people we can be...

"We are not just 'attacking targets' — we are bringing a pitiful helpless giant to its knees."

The Yippies, who released the letter and recordings with the same message, are the group which includes Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman, the members of the Chicago Seven.

Judge Rejects Newton Bid For Bail Reduction

OAKLAND (UPI) —A judge, who declared Huey Newton actually was asking for a reduction in bail, refused Tuesday to substitute $50,000 worth of state water bonds for the cash the Black Panther Party leader had posted.

In turning down the proposal, Judge Harold B. Hove noted in Alameda County Superior Court that the five bonds offered would now sell for around $26,000 and would not be paid until 2015.

Newton goes on trial Jan. 11 charged with voluntary manslaughter in the death of an Oakland policeman. His earlier conviction in the shooting was overturned by the State Supreme Court which found judicial technical errors.

McGovern To Speak In Marin

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., a possible candidate for President in 1972, will address a fund-raising dinner for Assemblyman Jess Unruh, Democratic nominee for governor, on Oct. 20 in Sausalito.

The $25-a-ticket fund-raiser, at the Alta Mira Hotel, will start with cocktails at 7 p.m., followed by dinner at 8 p.m. Unruh will attend.

McGovern, who made a brief, unsuccessful presidential bid in 1968 following the assasination of Robert F. Kennedy, recently said he was "going to reserve any judgement about a candidacy for 1972."

Seashore Future Will Be Discussed

Conservation groups concerned with the future of Point Reyes National Seashore have called a meeting for 9 p.m. tomorrow in the Inverness Coffee Shop.

Jerry Friedman of Inverness said the meeting will be held to discuss hopes that the National Park Service will restrict vehicular traffic to some regions of the seashore, particularly the Mount Vision area, to avoid disturbing rare wildlife.

$15,000 Warrant In Pot, LSD Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $15,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Jimmy Lee Clemons, 21, of no known address, when he failed to appear for a preliminary hearing.

He is accused of possessing marijuana and having LSD for sale when he was arrested in Larkspur on a traffic warrant in October 1969.

Anti-Credit Card System Spreading Around World

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mike M. Yamano, 33, is the head of an anti-credit card ring and it's spreading fast.

From its Los Angeles base, his United International Club Inc., has galloped from Okinawa to New York operating on a simple premise—cash.

The key to the operation is a green and gold plastic card that looks deceptively like the ones credit card companies give away.

But with Yamano's card, the customer is entitled to discounts of from 10 to 40 per cent on merchandise when paying by cash at participating businesses, more than 70 in Los Angeles alone.

"Businesses are willing to take $90 for a $100 suit if they can get cash," says Yamano, who in a little more than a year has attracted 22,000 customers.

"They avoid the expense and worry of billing or discounting the charge out to a credit card company, or adding carrying charges and interest for long-term collection."

"There is no trick," he says. "The merchant can't mark up the price and then offer a discount, because he doesn't know he has one of the cardholders until it comes time for him to close the sale."

The so-called reverse credit card comes at a time when the credit card has come under national scrutiny for its possible effects on inflation and consequences for customers who lose such cards.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader recently told a congressional subcommittee that the credit card has become so powerful, some businesses will not accept cash anymore—just credit cards.

It may seem odd that one of the lone dissenters to the credit card bugaboo is a man from Japan whose family owns and operates the largest chain of beauty salons in that country.

Yamano came to the United States 15 years ago with the aim of creating a similar chain of salons but was waylaid with the idea of reverse credit.

Through his cash incentive company, Yamano hopes to push good will world-wide by promoting discounts to enable customers to save money for travel and at the same time save money on merchandise in foreign countries.

In order to display the UNIC decal, businesses pay $25 a year and a list of all participating companies, specifying the size of the discount each offers, is sent to all cardholders.

"Why, we even have dentists who will take $500 today for a children's job that they would bill $1,000 for under pre-UNIC conditions," Yamano said.

Services offered under the unique reverse credit card scheme include hotels from Los Angeles to Hawaii, car rental agencies, paint store, restaurants, barber shops, theaters, furniture-appliance stores and travel tour agencies.

UNIC advertised one discount of 40 per cent for a round-trip fare from Los Angeles to Tokyo

Henry Fischer, owner of La Salle Carpets, gives a 33⅓ per cent discount on his goods. "It is a very good idea, it has attracted a great amount of business," Fischer says.

The emergence of Yamano's cash incentive plan, coupling with several others offered by banks and savings and loan companies, is perhaps a David in a world of Golaith's where about 400 million credit cards are reported in circulation. But the credit card has a built-in risk.

There are about 100 million credit cards holders in the U.S. and each year some 1.2 million cards are lost and 300,000 stolen.

There are more than 16,000 cases a year reported by major oil companies alone, and one experienced an 80 pe CENT INCRease in card frauds during 1968.

Milton Lipson, director of security for American Express, said misplaced cards are often kept by dishonest waiters or bartenders and sold to organized crime rings at prices ranging from $50 and $250.

He said the cards are then given to agents who purchase airlines tickets and other merchandise which is then sold to an innocent third party.

A POPULAR PLACE

Marin Hopefuls Finding No Nursing Shortages

Take the case of registered nurses who want to live in Marin but find more of themselves than there are jobs.

This is despite the widespread public conception that all phases of the health profession are suffering a manpower shortage.

The reason for the nurse surplus is that "Marin seems to be a very popular place to live," according to Ann Walsh, registrar for the Marin Nurses' Association. Officials of Marin County's four major hospitals agree that there appears to be a large backlog of nurses, contrary to most other parts of the United States.

In her job-finding role, Mrs. Walsh talks with the California Nurses Association and other counties' registries. Compared with the rest of Northern California, Mrs. Walsh — a registered nurse herself — finds "at this period we are overstaffed."

"Since April, the demand here for nurses has fallen off terrifically," she said.

One registered nurse in her 50s, estranged from her husband and supporting a child, said she was nonplussed to find no place to work in Marin. Trained at a Midwestern clinic and most recently a public health nurse in a private girls' school, she said every advertised opening "has 30 to 40 applicants."

At the same time, she reported, families are being told by hospitals that private duty nurses are in short supply. "It's very confusing," she said.

Charles Womer, administrator of Ross General Hospital, was the only one who held out much hope for a registered nurse seeking a full-time job in a hospital. Although his facility has no openings now, he said that "there's never a good nurse, a well-qualified nurse, who cannot find a job." Such a person probably could find a spot on his hospital's staff within two or three weeks after applying, Womer said.

He explained that Marin is home for many nurses who want to work part-time — their husbands either work in San Francisco or are in military service at Hamilton Air Force Base or in San Francisco.

"But the real backbone of nursing care" in his hospital is the full-time nurse "who supplies the continuity of care," Womer said. He noted that his institution also is seeking licensed vocational nurses.

Private duty nurses — who stay with one patient continuously for days, weeks or even months, often without a day off — are hard to find, said Womer and Mrs. Walsh. Most of Marin's married nurses do not want to take such jobs. Few families can afford to hire such nurses at $40 per eight-hour shift for 'round-the-clock care, Womer pointed out.

Mrs. Walsh noted that many Marin nurses seeking full-time jobs first find work in Vallejo, Sonoma County or elsewhere, then shift to Marin as openings occur.

Guilty Plea To Dope

Thomas Roy Taggart, 30, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing a device for smoking marijuana.

Taggart, who had originally been charged with felony count of possessing marijuana, was placed on probation for one year and fined $100 by Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Taggart was arrested Aug. 1 after Sausalito police stopped his car because it had no tail lights and discovered he had outstanding traffic warrants. A search of his jacket revealed a hand-rolled cigarette.

U.C. Student Is Sentenced

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A University of California student from Greenbrae has been sentenced to Alameda County Jail for his role in May 5 disturbances on and near the campus.

Michale A. Conroy, 20, of 7 Corte Cayuga, was among 44 persons arrested in the troubles. He pleaded guilty in Berkeley-Albany Municipal Court Monday, to a charge of assault on a police officer.

Conroy was sentenced to 91 days in county jail, with one day suspended, and ordered to start serving his term on Oct. 26.

JUDGE TRIES TO COVER THE SUBJECT

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Randy Simon, 20, his bid to overturn a college rule against long hair frustrated by the ingenuity of a federal judge, went shopping for a short-hair wig.

Judge Wallace Gourley suggested a compromise: a wig during classes, natural hair by night.

Simon said he would wear the wig at least to registration.

Sewer Panel Objects To MMWD Role

Directors of Richardson Bay Sanitary District don't oppose formation of a combined Southern Marin sewage district, but they don't want the Marin Municipal Water District to operate it.

This is the gist of a resolution adopted by directors at a special meeting Monday, reported president Douglas de la Fontaine.

"We don't want out of the combined district," de la Fontaine said, "but we don't want it forced on us, either."

He said the board desires eventual dissolution of all Southern Marin sanitary districts, including its own, and the formation of a combined agency with directors elected at-large.

This proposal differs from one advanced by the water district, in which the district would be governed by a board not elected from the area which it serves, de la Fontaine said.

"Our business is sewage, and we know our business," he said. "The water board doesn't know how to run a sanitary district."

Complaints On Movers Sought

Consumer complaints on intrastate household moving are being solicited by the Sausalito-based Association of California Consumers.

The association is seeking the complaints as evidence for rules changes to be heard by the California Public Utilities Commission later this month.

Sylvia M. Siegel, executive director of the association, said it particularly wanted documented xases on estimates that were exceeded hy 10 per cent, losses that were not paid for by insurance, and delivery date promises that were not honored.

The association's office is at 3030 Bridgeway. The hearings, beginning at 10 a.m., will be held on Oct. 14, 15, 16, 28, 29 and 30 in the State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

Discussion On School Format

The San Anselmo Shool District board tonight will consider development of a new planning format for education.

Meeting at 7:30 o'clock at Brookside School, the board will consider using the new format now as opposed to when it may be made manditory by the state in 1973.

It involves outlining education goals, means of achieving them and measuring success.

The board will also consider readvertising for the principal's position at Hidden Valley School, discuss the educationally handicapped program and hear a report on proposed use of district recreation funds, among other items.

BRIDGEWAY'S PARKING BAN IS EXTENDED

The Sausalito City Council lastnight extended the test parking ban on Bridgeway another 30 days and set a special meeing for Nov. 5 to discuss the test's merits.

The council's action came after a decision that a full night was needed to assess the successes and failures if the parking ban on the city's busiest street. The council will meet at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Sausalito Zone Panel Is Sought

Seeking to streamline lengthy city council meetings, Sausalito City Mgr. Albert R. St. Cyr last night recommended the formation of a three-member zoning commission to hear most of the zoning requests which now go before the full city council.

Although the council merely referred the suggestion to the planning commission for study, councilmen individually seemed to favor the idea.

St. Cyr recommended that such routine matters as variance requests, conditional use permits, plan approvals and zoning change requests go initially before the proposed commission.

He said he felt the city's planning director should be one member of the commission.

St. Cyr made the recommendation after a study showed that the lengthiest items on the city council agendas were usually those related to zoning.

Councilman Stephen A. Fraser said he felt that persons who having their zoning requests denied by the commission on a split vote be allowed to appeal to the city council but those whose denials are unanimous not have the appeal opportunity.

This suggestion ran into some opposition from both Robin Sweepy and Mayor Alexander R. Imaly, each of whom said they felt the right of appeal "should not be tinkered with."

Zoning matters now go first to the planning commission for a recommendation and then to the city council for action.

The Sausalito City Council also:

VARIANCE — By a 4-0 vote — with Fraser abstaining — the council denied as a possible traffic hazard a variance request from Alexander Anolik to allow him to install a unique parking device in his garage at 911 Bridgeway which would allow parking four cars in a two-car garage. Lifts would have held two cars in the air above those parked on ground level.

MARINSHIP STUDY — Voted 5-0 to ask the planning commission to make a detailed study of the Marinship area's section of the city general plan.

RECLASSIFICATION — Held over until a future meeting a request from Edith R. Ritchie for rezoning of her property at 76 Cazneau from single family residential to zoning which would allow a duplex.

TAXI — Held over until next meeting a decision to grant an exclusive franchise to one taxi cab operation or allow competition within the city.

ZONING VIOLATION — Ordered David Suckle to confer with the city's building department on alleged zoning violations at his home at 193 San Carlos Avenue. The city complains that Suckle has constructed two illegal rooms in his garage area.

BOND SUPPORT — By a 5-0 vote, council endorsed voter passage of Propositions B and C on the November ballot. The two bond issues, if passed, would allow Marin Community College District to begin construction on the north campus and stop deficit spending in operation of the Kentfield campus.

AFRICA TRIP — By a 5-0 vote, endorsed an education trip to West Africa by two Tamalpais High School students, who will be accompanied by James T. Toliver, Jr.

Misplaced Line Garbles Meaning

A misplaced line of type garbled the meaning of a portion of a story in yesterday's Independent-Journal about Monday's meeting of the San Rafael City Council.

The garbled points were that architectural approval of a self-service gas station's signs was technically the only subject before the council and that councilmen could find nothing in city laws prohibiting self-service gas stations in San Rafael.

The council refused approval of the signs.

A Patient Wait On Street Paving?

A somewhat surprised city council learned last night that it was going to have to pave a portion of Cazneau Avenue . . . a job that should have been completed at least 24 years ago according to city records.

A somewhat sheepish Wyman Hicks, head of the council's finance committee, told the council that certain residents on Cazneau Avenue had ponied up extra tax funds from 1922 to 1946 to pay for paving the street.

It was never done, Hicks reported, and the city has apparently been sitting on — and drawing interest on — the approximately $5,000 the residents kicked in.

Hicks said the oversight came to light when Chris Wilkinson, of 89 Cazneau discovered some very old receipts he had received from the city many years ago.

The city council last night referred the problem to its city attorney for study.

It costs 20 cents in wear and tear for a 20-ton truck to stop and return to speed, says the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Behr Endorses Prop. 18 Calling For Transit Funds

Peter H. Behr, of Mill Valley, Republican nominee for state Senate, yesterday endorsed Proposition 18 on the November ballot.

The statewide proposition would allow diversion of up to 25 per cent of a county's gas tax revenue to transit upon approval by a majority of its voters.

Behr, speaking at a San Rafael Improvement Club lunch, said that at least $400,000 of Marin's gas tax funds would be available annually for public transportation if the proposition passed. (The author of the proposition, Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego, last month estimated that Marin would get $873,000 a year for transit under the proposition.)

Behr noted that the proposition also would allow such diverted funds to be used for air pollution control research. The proposition, he said, would help Marin "from being destroyed by pollution."

Guard Rejects Weapon Advice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— State Adjutant General S. T. Del Corso, in direct defiance of the recommendations of the Presidential Commission on Campus Unres , says the Ohio National Guard will continue to carry loaded rifles when called to campuses.

"You can't protect the public with empty guns," Del Corso said.

"Loaded weapons are a defensive weapon," Del Corso said. "Police carry loaded weapons and they don't do that with plans to kill people."

The presidential commission on campus unrest Sunday, in its report on the slaying of four students and the wounding of nine others at Kent State University May 4, said the tragedy "must surely mark the last time loaded weapons are issued to guardsmen confronting students as a matter of course."

No Charge Filed

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Bernadette C. Gelvan, 20, of Sausalito, who was arrested Saturday in Mill Valley on suspicion of driving while under the influence of narcotics.

Board Moves To Buy Two Water Companies

The North Marin County Water District board, which wants to purchase and improve two West Marin water companies, formally offered to buy the utilities last night and voted a $50,000 down payment.

The board also asked the state Public Utilities Commission to appraise the Inverness Park and Point Reyes Station water companies, owned by James Downey. Both moves came on 4-0 votes, Commissioner George A. Amaroli, an employee of the PUC, asbtaining.

The board has scheduled a $250,000 bond issue Nov. 3 in an assessment district which it created and which would be served by the two companies. Purpose of the issue would be to purchase and improve the two utilities.

If Downey agrees to the sale and the bond issue passes, the water district would take over by March 1.

Under the proposed agreement with Downey, if the PUC values the two companies at more than $50,000, the water district would pay anything above that figure at 7 per cent interest. If the appraisal were less than $50,000, Downey would be required to refund the difference.

In other action, the board awarded a $61,162 contract to Pacific Excavators of Albany, lowest of 13 bidders, to prepare a tank site at Atherton Avenue and Bugeia Lane, and awarded a $31,330 contract to the Redwood Painting Co. of Pittsburg, lowest of eight bidders, to paint the tank.

It rejected all five bids for construction of the tank because they did not meet specifications. No date was set for receiving new bids.

The board approved in principle an agreement to deliver surplus water from its Russian River aqueduct to the Marin Municipal Water District. Details of the agreement are to be worked out by the staffs of the two districts.

Water District To Appeal On Salaries' Publication

The North Marin County Water District Board voted unamiously last night to appeal the Marin Superior Court decision requiring the district to furnish the Independent-Journal with names, jobs and salaries of its employees.

Included in the motion made by Commissioner George A. Amaroli was the stipulation that the appeal would not be financed with the taxpayers' money, but that commissioners wouldshare the expense of taking the case to the appellate court.

An earlier motion by Frank Baccaglio and seconded by Franklin Gustafson to abide by the decision of the court was defeated 3-2, with Arnold Heise, Emil Renati and Amaroli in the majority.

On July 21 the board voted 3-0, with Renati and Baccaglio abstaining, not to furnish the Independent-Journal with the names of employees, only the positions and salaries.

On Sept. 28, Judge Thomas F. Keating of superior court, ordered the district to furnish the names of employees, job classifications and salaries.

Judge Keating ruled that the law concerning the right of the public to have access to such records overrides the district's objection that such publication would be invasion of privacy of the individual employees.

Byran R. McCarthy, attorney for the I-J, had argued in court that if public agencies could withhold the names of employees, their jobs and pay, the public would have no way of knowing whether a payroll were padded.

In making the motion to comply with the court order, Baccaglio said he felt the board should accept the judge's decision. Gustafson said he felt that way also because all other local agencies were furnishing this information.

Bold asked for the closed meeting to discuss litigation on the case, and the decision to appeal followed.

Board president Heise said no other newspaper to his knowledge printed such lists, but common sense indicated that it was a report on use of taxpayers' money.

"It's an insult to our employees," said Amaroli. He said he was opposed to spending any more taxpayers' money and was willing to pay from his own pocket his share of taking the matter to a higher court.

Bold estimated the cost of printing the court transcript and his time at $700 for the appeal.

Renati suggested that if the employees did not like publication of the list, they could join together to take the action, but this did not get any favorable reacion from other board members, and it was agreed the directors would share the cost equally.

Baptise To Lead Sewer Bond Panel

The Novato Sanitary District board has named Arnold Baptise, Marin County supervisor-elect, as chairman of the citizens committee for its $5.5 million bond election Dec. 8.

The bond issue would finance improvements to the Novato and Ignacio treatment plants and an 8,500 outfall line into San Pablo Bay to satisfy requirements by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

In other business Monday night, the board approved spending $3,500 for aerial mapping in cooperation with the City of Novato and North Marin County Water District, which will pay $4,800 each.

Vandalism At Loma Verde School Drops

Vandalism at Loma Verde School has virtually ceased since parents were inflormed of the problem, principal John Laycock told the Loma Verde Homeowners Association lastnight.

The school had been reported vandalized in the past and last night's meeting of the homeowners was to see what could be done about it, according to association publicist Lillian Tindell.

Laycock, new principal of the school, earlier this year sent letters about the vandalism to parents and asked their help in correcting it, Mrs. Tindell reported. It has dropped almost to zero since, she said.

Lt. Harvey Teague, chief of the juvenile division of the sheriff's department, told the group that it was the parents' responsibility to help curb vandalism but that California laws were lax on fixing parental responsibility, he reported.

Pleads Guilty To A Reduced Charge

A headline in Saturday's Independent-Journal incorrectly stated that Merrill Brandon Fields, 41, had pleaded guilty to murder.

Fields pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter stemming from a bloody melee in his apartment last March in which a man died.

Development's Map Gets Tentative Nod

The tentative map for a planned unit development was approved last night by the Petaluma Planning Commission, but a reappraisal of the ordinance to bring greater clarity was ordered.

Sunco Development Corp. received approval on a tentative map for a 100-unit cluster development at Ely Boulevard North and East Washington Street to be known as Sun Terrace Park.

Planning Director William C. McGivern said the present planned unit development ordinance specifies an average lot size requirement, but ignores setting a minimum lot size.

He noted that other applications for planned unit developments will be presented and that a new ordinance clearly spelling out requirements must be prepared.

Taylor and Mazza Inc., which had filed an application to prezone an area for single and multiple family residences said they instead would file a request for the planned development. The area, not yet annexed to the city, is located on Old Lakeville Highway between Casa Grande and Frates roads.

The Petaluma Planning Commission Also:

MOBILE PARK — Denied with little discussion the application of McDowell Investment Co. to rezone 28 acres on North McDowell Boulevard from agricultural to mobile home park. The recently annexed land is adjacent to the Candlewood Mobile Home Park.

PREZONING — Approved the prezoning from agricultural to mobile home park zone on parcels bounded by Casa Grande Road, Old Lakeville Highway and Lakeville Highway. The Detero Corp. plans to build the Larwin Mobile Home Park.

SUBDIVISION — Approved tentative maps for Monarch Manor subdivision units no. 8, 9 and 10.

EXTENSION — Granted a one year extension on approval of the tentative map for Sonoma Vista unit no. 3 to be located on South McDowell Boulevard.

The number of factories in Hong Kong rose from 5,599 in 1960 to 14,754 in 1969.

Lessons Set On Beginning Bridge

Basic fundamentals and principles of bridge will be the subject of eight lessons beginning tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Tiburon Peninsula Club, 1600 Mar West Street.

The lessons will be taught by Cleon Meyers of San Rafael.

Candidates Will Appear In Novato

Candidates for the state Senate and Assembly will present their views at the Novato branch of American Association of University Women's public meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Sinaloa Junior High school Library in Novato.

Appearing on the program will be Senate candidates Peter H. Behr, Republican and Michael R. Peevey, Democrat, and Assembly candidate, Joseph A. Forest, democrat. Incumbent Assemblyman William T. Bagley is unable to attend.

American Independent Party candidates, Anne Smart, running for the Senate and Glenn A. Bernd, Assembly candidate, were not invited to the meeting, according to Callita Moore, AAUW Novato branch president.

Also on the program will be Dale Fleming, planning director at College of Marin and college trustee Harry Moore, who will explain the measures on the November ballot relating to the college.

Williams Steps Down From Chairmanship

Harry M. Williams, mortician and civic leader, stepped down last night as chairman of the San Rafael Fire Commission after six years in the post.

Williams said today he left the office because of business pressures and a need to "slow down."

He will continue as a member of the commission, which he has served more than two decades.

Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy was named as interim chairman with a permanent one to be named at the next commission meeting.

In other matters, the commission was told by Chief Vance Trivett that delivery of the fire department's new $70,000 snorkel truck was expected today. The truck is expected to be housed at Station 4 while being outfitted.

Pedestrian Hurt At Lincoln Intersection

A 39-year-old San Rafael woman was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple bruises received when hit by a car on Lincoln Avenue at Linden Lane at 12:04 p.m. yesterday.

San Rafael police said Tamra car on Lincoln Avenue at Linden Lane at 12:04 p.m. yesterday.

San Rafael police said Tamra Pierson of 1431 Lincoln Avenue was injured when hit by a car driven by Jose D. Rodrigues, 26, of 3 Hacienda Court.

Approval Given To Design For Mobile Homes

Site design approval was given to the Petaluma Estates Mobile Home Park at 901 North McDowell Boulevard. The development was formerly known as the Youngstown Mobile Home Park.

The board also approved the design of a 184-unit apartment building to be known as Baywood Arms and located on the east side of the future Baywood Drive between St. Francis Drive and Perry Lane. The apartments will be built by the Atlantic and Pacific Building Corp.

The board also granted the request of Douglas S. Oliver to do photography work at his home at 54 Jess Avenue and the request of Matias E. Coloma Jr. to sell detergent from his home at 175 Payran Street.

Tito In Belgium

BRUSSELS (UPI)—President Tito of Yugoslavia toured Belgian provinces today after telling the big powers they are responsible for the situation and should take measures to keep it from deteriorating.

"The situation in the Mediterranean area is very serious and I think no efforts should be spared to prevent any aggravation of the situation in that part of Europe," Tito told an interviewer on the Belgian Radio Tuesday night.

Townhouse Grading Action Is Delayed

The Mill Valley Architectural C[illegible]ee last night postponed action on a grading plan for a 188-unit townhouse development because members did not approve of the developer's dirt disposal scheme.

Zoning Administrator Howard W. McGill said the applicant, Warner Odenthal, was told to return Oct. 20 with a revised plan.

Odenthal proposed dumping the dirt from the grading operation on an open hillside and then building a recreational area there.

McGill said the committee instructed the developer to provide more information on access to the area. Members said they would like to see the fill broken up instead of deposited in one location.

The committee also approved: Otto H. Schreier's landscaping plans for three apartments at 469 Miller Avenue; the concept of a townhouse development planned by Trans-Marin Properties at Sycamore Avenue and La Goma Street, and Lyman Emerson's plans to convert his house at 230 Miller Avenue into three apartments and add on to another apartment on the property.

Domino Tourney Slated Oct. 19

The second Marin Open Domino Championship will be held at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 19 at the Corinthian Yacht Club, Tiburon.

Proceeds of the tournament will benefit the Marin City Boys Club.

A choice between $500 or four roundtrip cruises to Los Angeles will be offered the winning team, with the other going to the second place team.

Entry information is available from Karl Treffinger of 283 Bay View Avenue, Belvedere.

Computer Music Is 'Humanized'

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) —A Stanford University music professor has come up with a method of "humanizing" music that is produced by a computer.

Leland Smith notes music which is played in perfect rhythm, such as a computer can play, is much less pleasing to the ear than music with human variations.

By using a pair of telegraph keys instead of a baton to "conductor" the music, Smith is able to produce those human variations which make a computer's music sound less machine-like.

QUIET SHORE — Gentle waves lap at sandy beach, almost deserted in the early morning, as two girls walk along enjoying the natural beauty of Drake's Bay on the Point Reyes Peninsula. The hills beyond appear as they did to Sir Francis Drake when he sailed into the bay centuries ago, with the cliffs bearing a resemblance to the white cliffs of Dover in his native England.

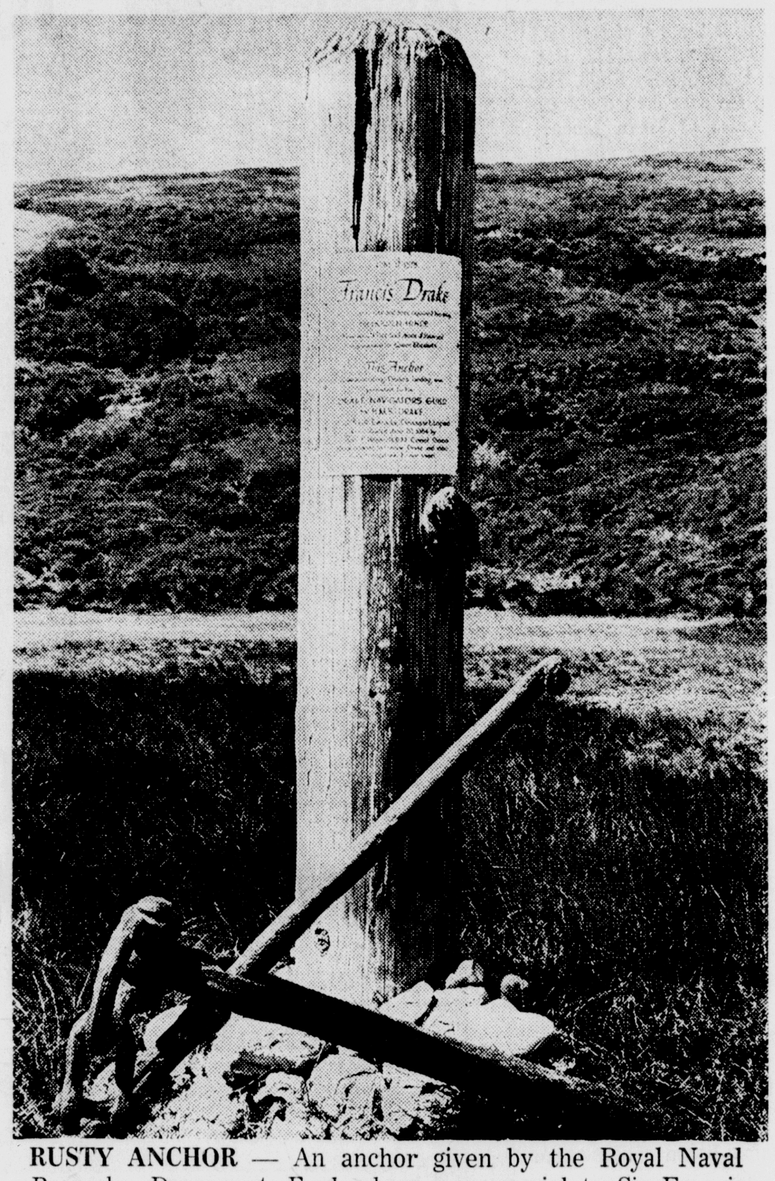
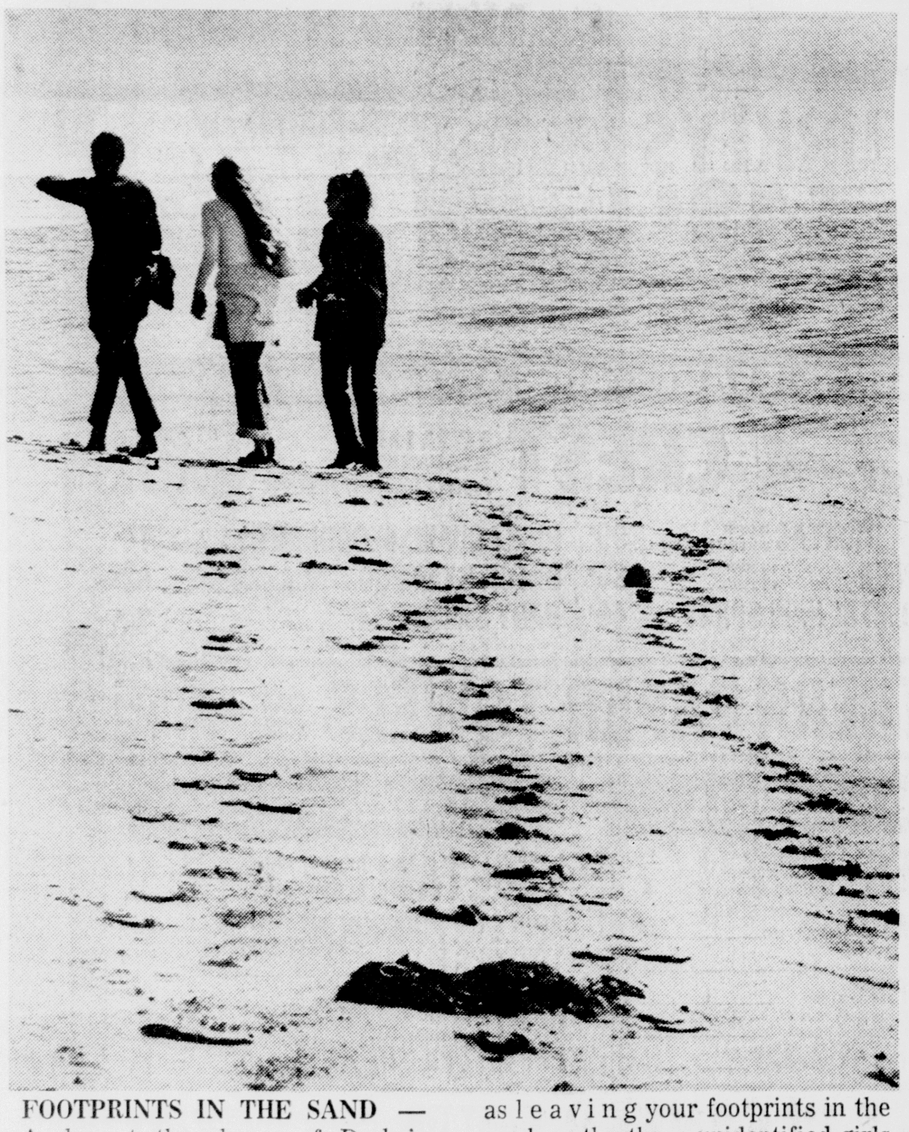
SEA CREATURES — Lying at the water's edge is a starfish and atop the starfish is a dead crab, forming a pattern among the rocks and giving passersby a scene to ponder.

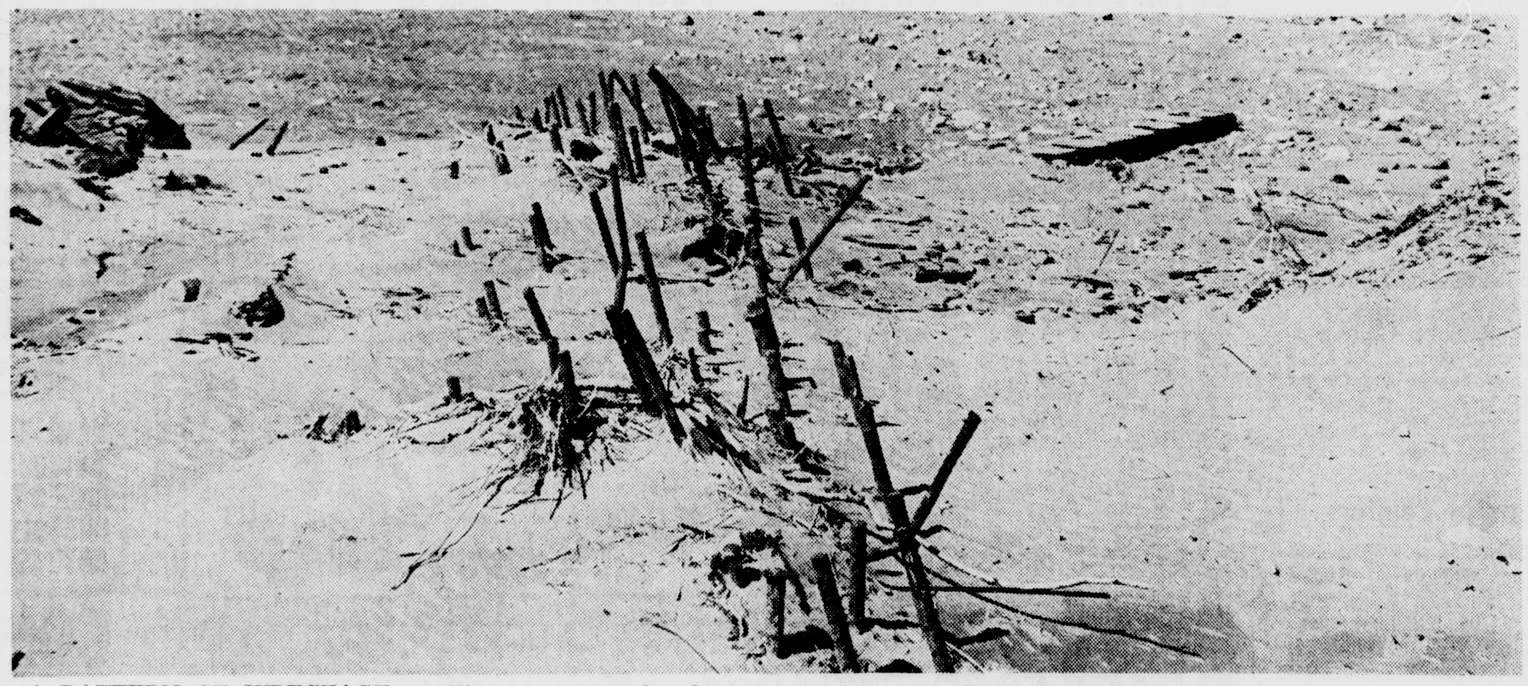
STRUGGLE FOR SURVIVAL — Plant life along the shores of the bay buffeted by sea winds face a struggle to survive, but flowers, clustered around a post, apparently are winning their fight for life.



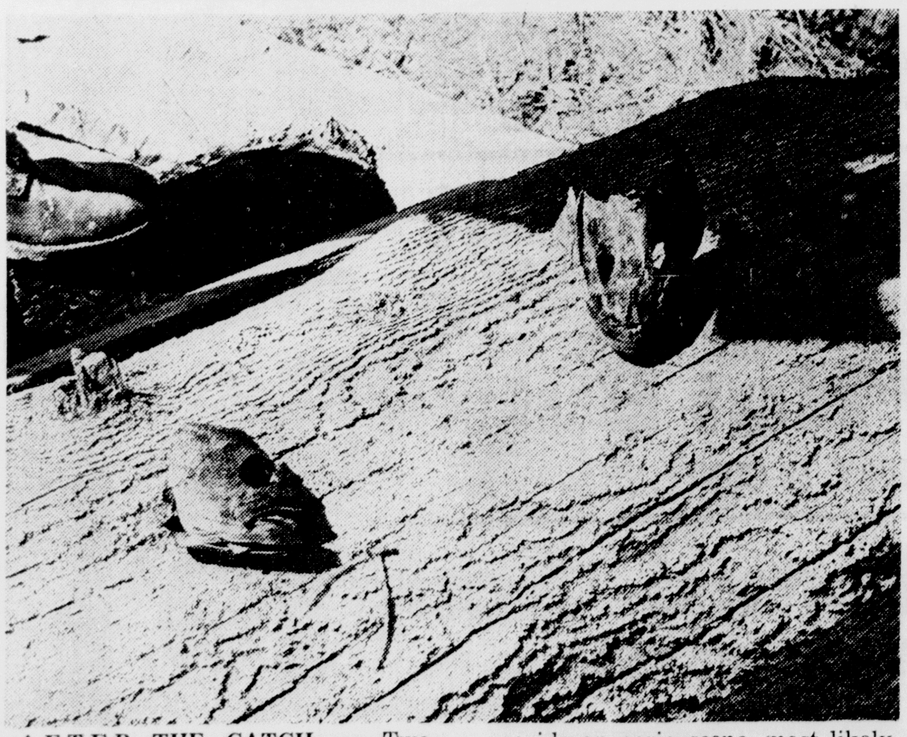
RUSTY ANCHOR — An anchor given by the Royal Naval Barracks, Devonport, England, as a memorial to Sir Francis Drake and other early navigators to the California coast, lies rusting beside a post bearing the commemoration plaque, at the cove where Drake landed in 1579.



FOOTPRINTS IN THE SAND — A day at the shores of Drake's Bay provides simple pleasures such as leaving your footprints in the sand, as the three unidentified girls did, and feeling the sea air.



A PATTERN OF WRECKAGE — The remnants of a boat poke through the drifting sand, a reminder of the treachery of the sea, and the power of nature.



AFTER THE CATCH — Two fish heads laying on a sun-baked log provide an eerie scene, most likely the remnants of a catch by a fisherman.

REMINICENT OF A DESERT — A bent, dead bush in a sand-blown stretch of the beach present a desolate scene, but nearby there is the contrasting horizon of sea, stretching out of sight. (Independent-Journal Photos by Alfred M. Arn and W. Kep Brown)

Bay Houseboat Owners Get Word

Thirteen houseboat owners in Richardson Bay got the word yesterday from the Marin County Board of Supervisors to shape up or ship out within 45 days. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

If the houseboats are not brought up to the county's houseboat code requirements or moved out of the county in 45 days, the county will have them abated as public nuisances.

Of 17 houseboat owners scheduled for a hearing yesterday, two have already complied with requirements, marine inspector Richard L. Larson reported. Supervisors held up action on two others because one, Don Bailey, promised to tow his boat to Los Angeles, and the other, Frank Kenneth Wood, was described by Inspector Larson as "working like a beaver to bring it up to code."

Larson reported that the houseboats are scattered in various parts of Richardson Bay near Waldo Point, with many of them in no condition for human habitation, and some of them changing ownership so that the real owner is sometimes difficult to pin down.

With Louis H. Baar as acting chairman in the absence of vacationing John F. McInnis, the four-man board of supervisors ticked off abatement orders in rapid-fire order against the following 13:

Peter Bailey, who reportedly sold his boat just recently to a Carol Lee Peterson; Russell Baker, whose uncompleted houseboat is at Miriam Tellis's harbor at Gate 6; Randal Colombo, who has a boat described as a dilapidated pile of junk off George Kappas's Harbor; Scott Diamond, who has a large pontoon type boat off the Strawberry Peninsula; Jim Griffin, who owns a small cruiser type boat; Marjorie Kirkland, who notified the marine inspector she no longer owns the boat; David Mitchell, who has a small 15-foot craft in Kappas's Harbor at Gate 6½ but claimed the owner lives in India.

Also Jim O'Keefe, who has a partially completed houseboat on a lifeboat hull; Rick de Olazarra, who owns a little trailer house type of boat; Karl Schaupp III, whose converted lifeboat hull is tied up at Kappas's Harbor at Gate 6; Mike Scott, who is building a houseboat on a log raft float off Gate 5; Susan Winship, who has a small substandard houseboat tied up at Gate 5, and Mike Young, or a Mike Taylor, who has a large floating home partially sunk off Gate 5.

UN Day Is Fine, But Not $10 Fee

Marin County United Nations Day celebration at the Civic Center is fine, but the county should not set a precedent by contributing $10 as a sponsoring agency, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

The UN Day celebration will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Friday Oct. 23, in the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center, with Dianne Feinstein, president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors as main speaker.

Mrs. Eric W. Eiserich of San Rafael, UN Day chairman for Marin, announced that sponsoring organizations are asked to contribute $10 or more and suggested that the county chip in.

"I certainly have nothing against the UN but a contribution would set a precedent," said Supervisor Michael Wornum.

On a motion by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., the supervisors rejected any monetary contribution.

Mrs. Eiserich announced that Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson will be honorary chairman for the UN Day observance.

Consultant Voted For Bel Aire Plan

Bel Aire Flood Control Zone should have an outside consultant review a master drainage plan drawn up by the Marin County Department of Public Works, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

On a motion by Michael Wornum, supervisors unanimously approved a $2,300 contract with the San Francisco Engineering firm of McCreary-Koretsky to see if the drainage improvement plan prepared by the county department of public works is feasible.

The decision for the $2,300 review was a reversal of the Aug. 31 decision of the Bel Aire Flood Control Zone Advisory Board which voted 3-2 to accept the master plan drawn up by the county department. That plan calls for $560,000 in drainage improvements in the 600-acre Bel Aire watershed to stop the annual flooding.

"The people in Bel Aire do not believe what the county says," declared Wornum. "The Bel Aire Homeowners group wants a review by the outside consultants." Wornum said he believes the homeowners group, rather than the flood control advisory board, more nearly represents the views of the Bel Aire residents.

If the $560,000 drainage improvement plan proves feasible, a bond issue is the only practical way to raise the funds, said Wornum. "I know that a bond issue won't go through unless we get this review."

The $2,300 for the engineering review will come from the Bel Aire Flood Control Zone.

Pompidou Has Russian Round

MOSCOW (UPI) — President Georges Pompidou of France today completed nearly three hours of talks with the Soviet troika on the political and economic future of Europe, a French spokesman said.

The spokesman, Jean Belierd, said Pompidou sat opposite all three of the Soviet Union's top officials and "exchanged views on only one subject."

The one subject, Belierd said, "was Europe — Europe as a political subject, and Europe as an economic subject."

Belierd provided no other details.

County Votes $10,000 For Bon Air Bridge

Bon Air Bridge, its underpinnings weakened by the dredging of Corte Madera Creek, was assured of a $100,000 repair job yesterday.

Marin County Board of Supervisors voted 4-0 (John F. McInnis is on vacation) to chip in $10,000 as the county's share of the cost.

Louis H. Baar, acting chairman, proposed the county contribution to round out a cost sharing proposal including federal, state, and city of Larkspur funds. The Army Corps of Engineers will put up $50,000, the state department of Water Resources will contribute $30,000, and the City of Larkspur will chip in $10,000.

Baar said the bridge underpinnings have been failing since the Army Corps of Engineers dredged the creek for the Corte Madera Flood Control project.

The Marin Board Of Supervisors Also:

COMMENDATION — Approved a resolution honoring Florence Fast for 25 years of service with the Marin County Department of Public Social Services. She will retire as social services supervisor on Nov. 1.

AERIAL ADS — Declined to support a plea by Dr. George Sugarman, president of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, for banning of aerial advertising in Bay Area skies, but asked the county administrator to check with the Federal Aviation Agency for information on control of such advertising.

LAND DIVISION — Relaxed one of the conditions imposed on Frank W. Joyner to split his property into three lots at 568 Wilson Avenue, Novato. He must dedicate a 30-foot strip along Wilson for future road widening but may build with a septic tank until a sewer system is available in the area. Two of Joyner's three lots already have homes, with septic tanks.

BICYCLE REGISTRATION — Accepted an offer by the Peter Pan Chapter of Children's Home Society to serve as a clearing house for all bicycle registrations in the county, and asked the county administrator to contact various cities for approval and see if that information can be included with county tax bills that will go out in a week or two.

WELFARE EXTRA HIRE — Approved a $3,300 outlay from the county reserve fund to pay for extra hire help needed in the Department of Public Social Services for the remaining three months of the year.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY — Approved an agreement to pay $1,900 for one year to the Marin County Historical Society in exchange for services to be provided, including advising the county parks and recreation department on historical monuments and operating the museum at Boyd Park in San Rafael.

Bathing Woman Taken To Center

A woman reclining fully-clothed under a sprinkler on the lawn of the old courthouse in San Rafael Monday was returned to the Marin Community Mental Health Center after asking police officers to join her in "paradise."

Declining the invitation police took a drenched Janet E. Manerud of 1005 Irwin Street, Apt. A, to the mental health facility at 12:15 p.m. after she told them her name was Eve Adam.

Police had received a call that a woman was washing her hair in the sprinklers and frolicking about the lawn. She had been on leave as an outpatient from the mental health center, police said.

Search Ordered For Santa Rosan

A bench warrant with bail set at $3,500 was issued in Marin Superior Court for John Edward Brown, 20, of Santa Rosa, when he failed to appear Monday in court to face a jail sentence.

Last May Brown was given a one-year sentence for two burglary counts but Judge E. Warren McGuire said he would stay execution of the sentence if Brown would enter the armed forces.

In the meantime, Brown, still a civilian, has been arrested on suspicion of holding up a hitchhiker.

He was freed on bail last week on that charge.

Rules Agreed Upon For Naming Director

Ground rules for selecting a new executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority were agreed on last night after a heated exchange with a Marin City woman.

Authority members agreed to accept nominations from three professional urban planners, due Friday, and then subject the candidates to interviews by representatives from several Marin City organizations before making the final selection in cooperation with the county redevelopment agency.

Thelma McKinney of 30 Pacheco Street interrupted housing authority chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., crying, "The process should be reversed. We get all these so-called experts coming in here who don't even live here. Let's let the people here decide who they want to interview."

Wallace K. Shepherd has been acting executive director since mid-July, when former director Donald O. Stutsman resigned. Shepherd was an administrative assistant under Stutsman.

Ehrlich explained that the selection process has been discussed at four previous meetings and the directors had agreed to turn over initial screening to professionals in the field. Then representatives from Marin City's tenant association, homeowners and other groups would interview the candidates, he said.

"This homeowner stuff has got to go," shouted Mrs. McKinney. "Are they really a legitimate group?" she asked.

"The homeowners are probably the most legitimate," replied director Arthur Miller Jr.

"How?" demanded Mrs. McKinney.

"They pay the bills," Mill replied.

A chorus of groans from the audience drowned out several attempts by audience members to speak. Finally Mrs. McKinney regained the floor.

"We all pay the bills," she said. "And we all support this community."

After several similar flare-ups the directors decided to stick by their original plan to let the screening for a new executive director begin with interviews by the panel of three professional urban planners.

The authority board also discussed briefly a report by James Montgomery or the Marin Urban Development Association on that organization's plan to take over development of Marin City. Money for a revised master plan is still needed from the county redevelopment agency, Montgomery reported.

Campaign Ammo: Long-Hair Image

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Fair Campaign Practices Committee says it has received complaints of attempts at "guilt by association" from candidates whose opponents have pictured them with long-haired students.

"The committee has received complaints of attempts to pose a phony picture of a candidate with long-haired students and reports of distribution of a candidate's picture with long-haired students, identifying them as helpers, when in fact they were merely members of the audience," it said.

The committee, established in 1954 as a private, nonpartisan group to investigate and expose unfair campaign practices, warned voters to watch out for such attacks.

Road Work Funds Is Awarded

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Federal Highway Administration has awarded $64,833 to the California Division of Highways to complete repairs on last winter's storm damage in two Marin County areas.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., said yesterday the money is earmarked for work on Highway 101 south of San Rafael and on Shoreline Highway near Marshall.

In San Francisco, Alan S. Hart, district engineer, said the federal funds will hire contractors to complete repairs on a slide near the top of California Park Hill on Highway 101, and on high water damage to Shoreline Highway. He said plans are all prepared, and bids will be called immediately for the work.

Appeals Court Refuses To Halt Picketing Order

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California's Court of Appeal refused Tuesday to halt enforcement of a Monterey County Superior Court prohibition against picketing by Ceasar Chavez' farm union.

The lower court had ruled that picketing by the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee was illegal because the growers involved had valid contracts with the Teamsters Union.

Chavez' union and the Teamsters are in a jurisdictional dispute over which shall represent field hands in the fertile Salinas Valley lettuce fields.

As picketing decreased, Chavez has called for a national boycott of all lettuce which does not carry the label of his union.

Leary Brief Claims Caged Eagle Plight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Fugitive Timothy Leary, an LSD exponent, compares himself to an American eagle which "cannot live caged" in a legal brief addressed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Leary's "Eagle Brief," copyrighted in his own name, has been published in pamphlet form and is being sold at a local bookshop, it was revealed Tuesday.

Poet-publisher Lawrence Ferlinghetti said any royalties from sale of the pamphlet will be held for Leary if he ever shows up. He escaped from the California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo Sept. 13, the day after he gave the brief to his lawyer.

The "Eagle Brief" is in blank verse and presents Leary's arguments in support of having the Supreme Court free him on bail while he appeals a six month to 10-year term for possessing marijuana.

"Wild creatures cannot live caged," he wrote. "Eagle must fly high and cry freedom to the winds at sunrise. Be patient, soon you will be freed . . ."

Turning to prose, the former Harvard faculty member said: "We have demonstrated that the principles of the First and Eighth amendments and the sanctity of our tribal traditions, indeed, the spiritual survival of our people, require release of souls who are held captive because of their freedom."

He said his "unlawful imprisonment" signaled a grave danger to the spiritual and political welfare of the United States.

Rifle Smuggling Charge Denied

A San Quentin guard charged with smuggling a rifle into the prison on Sept. 12 has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

Mitchell was arrested after prison officials found a sawed-off .22 caliber rifle in his car along with 20 rounds of ammunition.

He had not appeared for work the day before but was searched when he returned the next day.

Sonoma Youth Held As Suspect In Auto Theft

A Sonoma youth arrested in Belvedere Monday on suspicion of car theft has been referred to the Marin Probation Department for a check on his age.

Dennis Earl Ewadinger, who gave his name as Dennis Soule and his age as 18 when arrested, said yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that he is only 17.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. released him Monday on his own recognizance and told him to return to court Oct. 19 to see if he will be tried as an adult or juvenile.

Ewadinger and another youth, who was not charged, were arrested about 1:10 a.m. after a police check showed the car they were driving had been stolen earlier that night in Sonoma.

Beautification Committee Presses Work On Trees

The Novato Beautification Committee is working to keep a jump ahead of the contractors and get trees growing along Novato Boulevard before the thoroughfare is widened next year.

Dr. Gregory J. Graham, chairman of the beautification committee, said most existing curbside trees will be removed for the widening. The committee is offering to plant redwoods inside the future curbs if property owners will water them for a year. Several clumps of trees already have been planted, Graham said.

At its meeting Monday night, the beautification committee also discussed plans for landscaping the Scottsdale subdivision pumping station, and still incomplete plans for a footbridge connecting the new Novato library to the Downtown Shopping Center across Novato Creek.

The committee asked the city council to petition the Legislature to regulate use of nonreturnable bottles.

Camera Is Stolen From Reading Clinic

A camera valued at $106 was taken from the DeWitt Reading Clinic between Sept. 26 and Sept. 28, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The Polaroid was left at the 1513 Fifth Street clinic by Michael Wedge of 350 Scholl Road, Novato, police said.

KNEADING THE dough for the whole wheat bread to be served at the Toyon Unit of Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa luncheon is Mrs. A. L. West of San Anselmo. Mrs. West supplied the recipe for the bread that will be served with a gelatin salad mold and chicken at the three bridge buffet luncheons next Wednesday.

Toyon Cooks Share Recipes For Buffet

At three simultaneous lunches next Wednesday, sponsored by the Toyon Unit of Marin Foundation Friends of Arequipa, a buffet of whole wheat bread, bing cherry salad mold and chicken Toyon will be served.

Recipes for the buffet have been named Toyon Favorites because they are the favorite recipes of members Mmes. A. L. West of San Anselmo and Donald Deane and Philip McNamara, both of Greenbrae.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD
(Mrs. A. L. West)

2 packages yeast - cakes
1 teaspoon sugar
½ cup tepid water
⅔ cup shortening
1 lb. dark brown sugar
3½ teaspoons salt
1 quart milk, scalded
4 cups whole wheat flour
9 cups sifted white flour

Dissolve yeast and sugar in tepid water. Combine shortening, brown sugar and salt. Add milk, stirring until shortening is melted. Place whole wheat flour in large bowl. Add milk mixture. Beat until smooth. Add dissolved yeast and blend. Add white flour, one cup at a time. Beat until dough is formed and knead on floured surface until smooth.

Place in greased bowl and brush with shortening. Cover. Let rise in warm place until double its size, about 1½ hours.

Shape dough into four loaves. Place in four greased loaf pans. Brush with melted shortening. Let rise until double its size again, about 45 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 55 minutes.

BING CHERRY SALAD MOLD With Pineapple Cream Cheese Filling
(Mrs. Donald Deane)

1 large can pitted bing cherries
2 packages black cherry gelatin
1 cup boiling water plus juice from cherries (to equal 2 cups)
2 cups port wine

Dissolve gelatin in boiling liquid; cool. Add wine and cherries. Pour in ring mold and refrigerate.

Filling

1 large package cream cheese
No. 2 can crushed pineapple, including juice

Mix well. Fill center of unmolded salad ring. Serves 10.

CHICKEN TOYON
(Mrs. Philip McNamara)

1 large stewing hen (6 to 8 pounds)
3 packages broccoli, cooked
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon thyme
½ cup dry white wine
Parmesan cheese

Cook chicken until tender. Bone and skin after it has cooled. Cut into large bite size pieces. Blend remaining ingredients except broccoli in large bowl. Use two large, flat casseroles. Line bottom with broccoli and add chicken. Pour sauce over chicken and sprinkle on a generous amount of parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for one half hour.

PUTTING THE bread into the oven, Mrs. Cecil Davidson of Greenbrae is assisted by Mrs. Wilbur Walter, also of Greenbrae. The bread will be frozen before it is served at the luncheons next Wednesday at the homes of Mmes. Davidson, Walter and Don Mozley in Kentfield.

Egg Sauce Tops Corned Beef Slice Sandwiches

CORNED BEEF GOLDENROD

1½ pounds sliced cooked corned beef
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk
3 hard-cooked eggs
2 to 3 tablespoons prepared horseradish, drained
1 teaspoon lemon juice
6 English muffins
¼ cup softened butter or margarine
2 tablespoons prepared mustard

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Separate egg whites and yolks, chop whites and put egg yolks through a sieve and reserve.

Add horseradish, chopped egg whites and lemon juice to cream sauce. Combine ¼ cup butter or margarine with mustard. Split and toast English muffins. Spread with mustard butter. Dividing corned beef equally, arrange on 12 muffin halves. Top each with 2 tablespoons of sauce and sprinkle each with 1 to 2 teaspoons of sieved egg yolk. 6 servings.

Get The Message

The plain sweat shirt's going the way of all those things you used to be able to buy for five cents. What's in? The sweat shirt with a message or a decoration. The "peanuts" shirts might have started the trend. However it started, it's here. Sweat shirts with peace symbols, caricatures and huge numerals abound. Maybe the sweat shirt's taking the place of the protest sign?

Skewered Stew Gives It New Look And New Taste

"Different approach" is a common term these days, and no wonder. It's fun to have a change. That's true for cooks and diners, too.

Even a dish as traditional as stew can be altered for a new look and taste. Try putting the beef cubes on skewers for a novel and satisfying entree.

ZIPPY BEEF CUBES

1½ pounds boneless beef, cut in 1-inch cubes
24 one-inch green pepper squares
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cut water
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 garlic clove, minced
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Thread 3 beef cubes and 2 green pepper squares, alternately, on each of 12 5-inch wooden skewers, beginning each with a beef cube. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper.

Cover tightly and cook slowly on range top or in oven (325° F.) 1 hour. Combine water, tomato sauce, green pepper, brown sugar, worcestershire sauce, mustard, remaining teaspoons salt, garlic and lemon juice.

Pour sauce over meat. Cover tightly and continue cooking 1 hour or until meat is tender. Serve kabobs with zippy sauce on rice. 6 servings.

Potholder Problems

NEW YORK (UPI) —The potholder can result in serious injury under certain conditions, says the Greater New York Safety Council. For example, the use of a wet potholder or even one that is slightly damp can cause the strongest hot dish to break and spill its contents upon the housewife or on those seated at the dining table.

Hot Grapefruit For Dessert

1 grapefruit (for each two servings)
Nutmeg
Strawberries or Maraschino Cherries
Honey
Hawaiian rum

To prepare, cut grapefruit in half crosswise, and remove seeds. Remove core and loosen each portion from membrane. Fill the center with rum, topped with a little honey, and a sprinkling of nutmeg. Wrap each section in double thickness of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Lay fruit, cut side up on grill over medium heat for about 20 minutes. Unwrap and serve hot. Garnish each grapefruit half with a fresh strawberry or maraschino cherry in center.

Cleaning Shelves

Rubbing a light coat of wax on your shelves makes cleaning easier, and prevents shelf paper from sticking to the shelf.

THE STUDENTS in Isabelle Merlin's class at Oakview School in San Rafael show Welcome Wagon members how they use their new ear phones to listen to a phonograph record. The headsets were purchased with money donated by Welcome Wagon, and are helpful learning tools for the trainable mentally retarded children, according to the teacher, because they capture the children's attention and also allow other activities to go on at the same time without distraction. Demonstrating the equipment are, from left, Billy Zita (in striped shirt,) Curtis Gill, Jill Goodall, Cissy Meyers, Caroline Glass, Jose Camilo Mora, Brian Burke and David Reck. Observing the students are, Welcome Wagon members Mrs. Russell Sellentin of Greenbrae, left, and Mrs. James O'Brien of San Rafael, right, and Miss Merlin in polka dot dress.

Women Provide 'Extras'

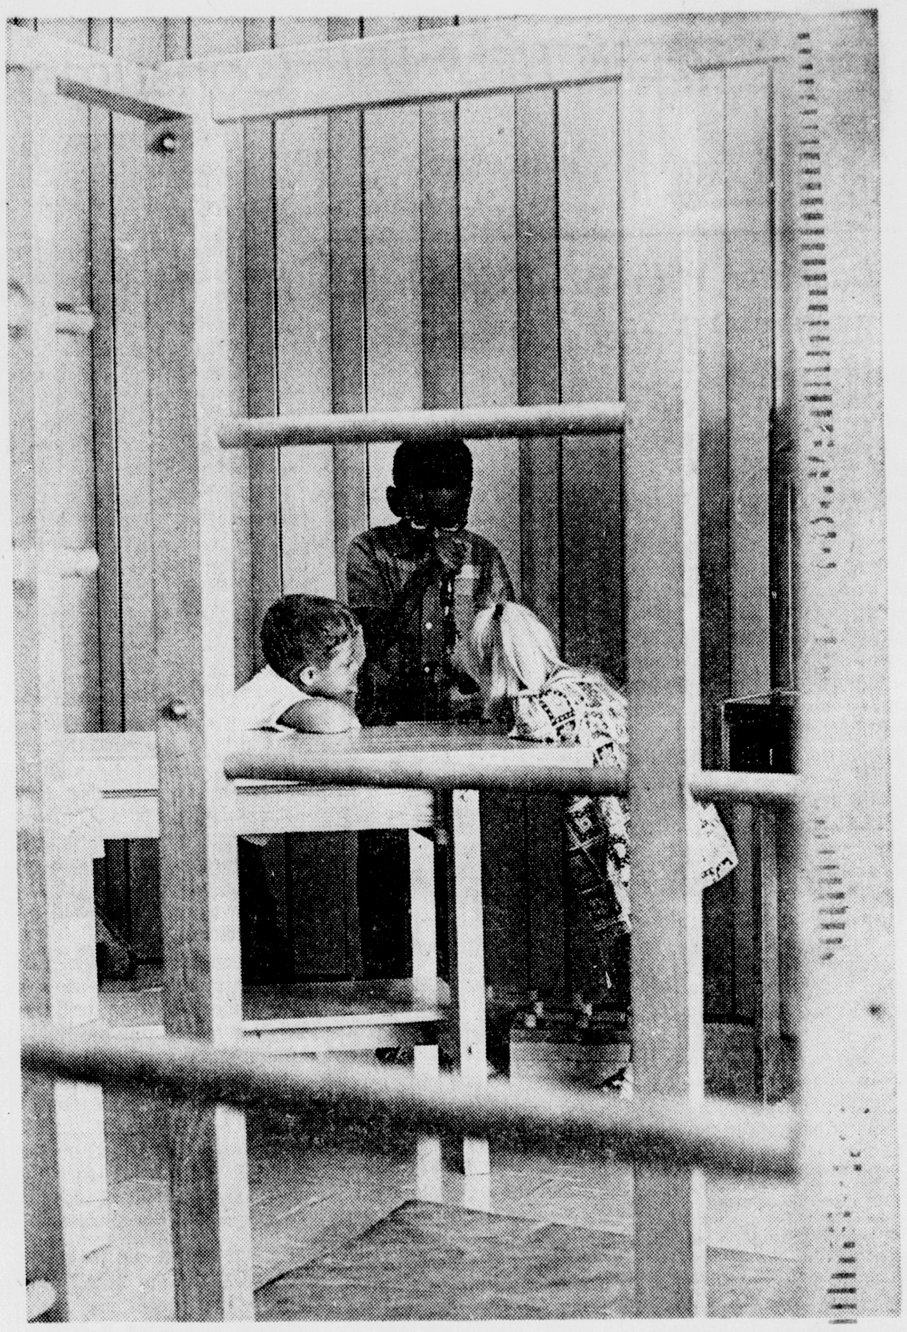
A mother of a student in Isabelle Merlin's class for trainable mentally retarded children remarked to a friend, "my daughter's school doesn't have anything."

That was four years ago when Miss Merlin's class was held in an older house in Santa Venetia, and the mother's friend was the president of Marin Welcome Wagon Club.

Today Miss Merlin's class for 5½ to 10½-year-olds is held at the modern Oakview School and equipped with many extras bought with funds donated by Welcome Wagon.

The club has "adopted" Miss Merlin's class as its philanthropic endeavor. Money raised through luncheons, auctions and days at the races have been given to the teacher who has bought a tool chest, a work bench, a tape recorder, a film strip phonograph combination, an indoor jungle gym, a set of large wooden blocks and headsets for the classroom.

"I am so grateful for these gifts," said the teacher. "If you took away all the things that were purchased with money Welcome Wagon has donated, the classroom would look pretty empty."



CURTIS GILL shows Jose Camilo Mora and Kim Hammermann how to work a drill. The drill, the work bench and the jungle gym in the foreground are among the items purchased for the classroom with funds donated by Welcome Wagon. (I-J photos by Alfred Arn)

Marin Women

From T.V. To T.B. For Marin Christmas Seal Drive Chairman

Television newscaster Wanda Ramey has shifted her concerns — from T.V. to T.B. She has accepted the 1970 Christmas Seal chairmanship for the Marin Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

"Actually", she says, "I'm really returning to my first love. A Christmas Seal show was my very first voluntary activity. I won't tell you how long ago that was, but the clue is that words like 'emphysema' were unknown and air pollution was something that happened only in Los Angeles and Pittsburgh on a smoggy day."

Then she turned serious. "Yes, there is still T.B. in Marin, but this year the Christmas Seal campaign is also turning its attention to emphysema, other respiratory diseases and air pollution — two sides of the same coin, as it is now generally conceded that air pollution is a major factor in respiratory disease.

WANDA RAMEY

MISS RAMEY, who is Mrs. Richard Queirolo of Mill Valley in private life, is no longer active in a daily television show. She did the KPIX noon news for 10 years. However, she is certainly not retired. One of the exciting projects both she and her husband, a film maker, are involved in is the San Quentin Prison's Inmates Film Workshop, where she is chairman of the board.

"That makes me an honorary inmate," she says. It is no idle title, nor is the workshop merely a rehabilitation palliative.

"We have made several documentaries out there and Dick is, at present, overseeing and directing an inmate-made film on burglaries." Miss Ramey is also doing free-lance television assignments.

Another of her current activities is president of the Parents' Group of the Marin Country Day School, where her daughter, Kristi, is enrolled. Speaking of children, Miss Ramey says she has still another reason for her interest in the curren Christmas Seal drive.

"My niece, my own daughter's age, is an asthmatic. So was I as a child. I have only to remember her, or myself for that matter, propped up in bed, wheezing, gasping for breath to be grateful for the Marin Association's having instigated and operated for three years an out-patient respiratory disease clinic where respirators were on loan to those patients who needed them.

MISS RAMEY, who has won awards from the Associated Press, the Freedom Foundation and the San Francisco Examiner, speaks warmly about a career of interviewing the world's famous as well as some of the world's infamous. It is a career that took her from work as a women's radio commentator to KPIX Noon News, to West Coast correspondent for Public Broadcasting Laboratories and more recently to KGO's Newsbeat show.

Her greatest thrill? She thinks a moment and, as the expert interviewer she is (one eye always on the studio clock) doesn't think much of the economy of that question. But she answers it, as there is plenty of time. It was, she thinks, the hours she spent with the late Eleanor Roosevelt, picking her up at her hotel, driving her to the studio, interviewing her and being utterly cap ivated.

She says she can more easily remember those interviews that didn't go so well. Or when she wasn't captivated.

"I guess I'm inclined to be a bit on the square side and, in today's jargon, I'm apt to be uptight when I feel I'm being put on. That has happened once or twice," she says.

This reminded the interviewer of a statement once made by a Ramey show producer. He said that, as an interviewer, Wanda Ramey was not only skillful but eminently fair, and never used the microphone as a weapon against those who could not fight back.

PERHAPS THAT is why she remembers so vividly when the tables were reversed.

Wanda considers herself a small-town girl having been born and reared in Terra Haute, Ind., where her father was a local railway express official, a responsible post but not an especially lucrative one. The family tells the story about how broken or damaged goods that had to be written off often wound up patched and mended under the family Christmas tree. Thus when father, as a special treat, brought home a brand new small ceramic Christmas tree, young Wanda walked around it, scrutinized it carefully before asking:

"Where is it broken?"

Like most other people in the country today, clean air is becoming a concern to the Queirolo family. So, each weekend it's off to the Napa Valley where the family has a piece of ground and a small house.

The fight fo clean air is just another reason why Miss Ramey will in the forthcoming months, be urging Marinites to support their 1970 Christmas Seal campaign.

Royal Clerk In A Tokyo Store

TOKYO (UPI)—The former Princess Suga, the independent-minded daughter of Emperor Hirohito, started working in a Tokyo department store today. The Emperor's daughter, who startled the Japanese public 10 years ago when she chose a commoner husband, began work in an exclusive branch of the Seibu department store. She showed up for her first day wearing a black and white midi dress.

"I really don't know what exactly Il'l be doing here, but I think it will be advising customers on their purchases," she said. The former princess, whose married name is Mrs. Hisanaga Shimazu, refused to disclose how much she would be paid.

Mrs. Shimazu, 31, has been the maverick in the imperial family. When the royal household agency started looking for a suitable husband for her, she set two conditions: he must be taller than her and intelligent enough to carry on a conversation.

Marin Brides Living In Europe

By MOLLY MARIN

Anne Christine Teller of Ross, who will be wed to Massimo Ornani of Florence, Italy, on Saturday, was honored at a luncheon Saturday given by Mrs. Leo Schwab of Greenbrae and her daughter Mrs. James H. Farren Jr. of Mill Valley at Mrs. Schwab's home.

Mrs. Farren, who will be a bridesmaid at the wedding, and Carol Foresti, also a bridesmaid, honored Anne at a shower Thursday evening at Miss Foresti's Tiburon home. The shower was attended by 12 close friends and family members, including future bride's mother, Mrs. Frederic de Peyster Teller of Ross; her sister, Mrs. Joseph P. Stone of Kentfield, who will be matron of honor; and her aunt, Mrs. Jack Sims of San Rafael.

Anne met Massimo when she lived in Rome for one year, where she worked as a secretary. She returned to Marin in June, and the couple's engagement was announced when he arrived in September to spend a month.

RECENTLY RETURNED from the Netherlands, where their daughter was married, are Mr. and Mrs. Wilson H. Madden of Corte Madera. The Maddens' daughter, Patricia, became the bride of Dutch Opera singer Marco Bakker in a ceremony performed by the mayor in Beverwijk at the city hall.

The couple met in Munich two years ago where each attended an international singing competition. Then Patricia returned to Europe to study music in Holland. Mr. Bakker is a leading baritone with the Netherlands Opera Company and has appeared in concert, opera and oratorio in West Germany, Belgium and South America, and he has his own television show in Holland. He is also under contract to a recording corporation and making recordings in Molland.

Patricia attended Stephens College and toured the United States with singing groups and did light opera engagements. She lived in Corte Madera before she left for Holland last year.

The couple will live in Beverwijk and plan to sing together on television and for concerts.

A RECEPTION for opera artists was given Sunday in Hillsborough and attended by several Marinites. The reception was sponsored by the board of directors of Opera Action and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico Economic Development Administration and was held at the home of Mrs. Berenice Grant. Marin guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Graves Jr., and Mmes. Carl G. Brimmekamp, chairman of the Marin Opera Action group; Edmond C. Ward, a director of the San Francisco Opera Association; B. G. Falk, J. C. Davila and John Littel.

MRS. MAYNARD Norris of Mill Valley will be the guest of honor at a baby shower on Saturday afternoon. The party will be given in the San Francisco apartment of her sister, Charlene Torley.

AMONG MARIN sponsors who plan to attend the annual antiques show of the League for Service at the St. Matthew Episcopal Church in San Mateo next week are Mmes. Theodore Martin of San Rafael, John Hoefer of Belvedere, H. E. Gamlen of Tiburon and Floyd Gilman and James Reese of Ross.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Daughter With Two Children Now After Step-Father's Attention

DEAR HELEN:

I knew when I got kind hearted, I'd be sorry.

My oldest daughter has two children, no husband, but when she asked to move in with me and her step-father, I thought maybe she had changed for the better. (She is self-supporting, but had just broken up with her boy friend.)

Instead, she has taken over my house — which I could stand — and also, I'm afraid, my husband. I don't want to suspect foul play, but how can I help it when he no longer treats me as a wife, and cozies up to her constantly? He pays no attention to his own children (we have two, ages seven and eight), but his step-grandchildren can do no wrong.

I am still in my 30s, attractive, loving, and terribly hurt. My daughter had her first illegitimate child when she was 17, the same age I was when she was born — but I was married.

We never got along. She always seemed to hate me. Now she takes great pleasure in luring my husband away from me. If I show jealousy, he acts hurt and surprised — he's just being fatherly, he says.

What can I do? — T.K.M.

DEAR T:

Whether this is a real triangle or an illusion caused by long-standing jealousy, the best thing you can do is, remove your daughter from the house. Two grown women competing for one man is pure dynamite not only for the three principals but also for the children. Find her an apartment on the other side of town —even if you have to pay part of the rent for a while. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Several times I've read in your column that the past should remain buried, for women as well as men, unless there was a child or a former marriage or some kind of legal hassle involved. In other words, affairs are strictly private, provided you weren't a prostitute or close to it.

Does this also go for an abortion? And how about VD, if it is entirely cured? These will more and more be the problems of the future. In fact, the first is now my problem. When I was 16, I had an unfortunate affair, and my parents took me to Mexico, with no one the wiser. Must I tell my fiance now? He has never asked about my past, and I'm quite sure he knows I am not a virgin. He doesn't seem to care, not being a prude, though he expects me to be true to him alone from now on —as I will be. — WOMAN WITH A PAST

DEAR WOMAN:

I'll stand on this: If your future partner isn't interested in your past — and it won't interfere with your future — why bring it up? Confession usually hurts more than it helps.

If he (or she) does want detailed information, be forewarned: There's trouble ahead from a jealous mate. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

When our little girl was born we picked out a name we liked. If we had wanted her called something else, we'd have chosen it. So why do relatives insist on shortening her name? I've told them repeatedly we like Nicole, not Nikki. No luck. Must I put a sign around her neck? — MAD

DEAR MAD:

Wouldn't help. Relatives being relatives, will call babies what they please — and be glad it isn't "Sweetums pie." — H.

Competent, Well Informed Consumer Can Save $50,000

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—An estimated half a million dollars in lifetime earnings will pass through the hands of the typical young couple getting married in the 1970s. Don't let the hands be a sieve.

Save something for our labor. Skilled buying and management could save 10 per cent of that half million, helping to buy more security and an improved standard of living.

Today's consumer sits in the driver's seat as never before, on one hand, with new federal and state laws on the books to protect the buyer from waste of money resulting from lack of information or outright deception.

ON THE OTHER hand, today's consumer faces new delimmas in buying complicated new household equipment, what to choose in the cleansing field alone with the infinite variety of detergents and cleansers, new hazards to safety from say the color television set, all the new convenience foods and the food additives.

The purchaser doing a good job wears three hats, says a new publication, "The Responsible Consumer," from the Public Affairs Committee, a nonprofit organization headquarted in New York. The publication is written by Sidney Margolius, author, who has served on the National Commission on Product Safety and the president's Consumer Advisory Council.

THREE HATS ARE: knowledge of the laws to protect you, participation in consumer organizations, and being a competent consumer yourself.

To get the most for that half million, or whatever your life earnings, Margolius outlines a nine-pont program:

—Compare prices of items in different stores before buying.

—Time your buying to take advantage of annual sales Promotional sales occur at any time, but some sales are regulars—children's and women's clothing in April, August, November and December, for instance, men's and boy's suits in April, August and December.

—Buy according to intended use. When buying food, for example, select Grade A products if appearance is important, but choose lower cost B and C grades for cooked dishes.

—Buy according to grade and specification. Brand names and higher prices do not necessarily mean significantly higher quality. For example, if a number of brands of frozen orange juice concentrate are all labeled U. S. Grade A, a consumer "can be assured of getting the same basic quality regardless of price."

—Buy on the basis of nutritional value. These days especially this means checking the ingredients listed on the package. Buy basic foods rather than processed ones—"sometimes each addiitonal step in processing increases the cost, sometimes moderately but often sharply."

—Buy in bulk to take advantage of the lower costs of large sizes of groceries, some meat products, soaps and toiletries. (Bess Myerson Grant, director of consumer affairs for New York City often reminds, though, that the larger size is not always the best buy. Read the label and compare contents with smaller for a price gauge.)

—Seek basic quality rather than deluxe features.

—Pool your buying with others. Margolius says this can be as informal as several families sharing a large purchase of garden supplies or of canned goods or more peramanent arrangements such as buying associations or the cooperatives.

—Finance family needs at the lowest cost. Margolius says that credit costs are higher than most people realized until enactment of the so-called truth-in-lending law.

Peanut Butter Makers Tie Up Court Over A Labeling Dispute

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Supreme Court, accustomed to tackling the major issues of the day, soon will have a look at the Great Peanut Butter Case.

In a nutshell, the main question is whether the Food and Drug Administration is justified in demanding that jars labeled "Peanut Butter" hold a food containing at least 90 per cent peanuts.

The plaintiffs say no —87 per cent peanuts is sufficient. They feel so strongly about this 3 per cent difference that they're willing to pay high-priced lawyers to argue the case before the Supreme Court.

THE PLAINTIFFS are just a couple of struggling companies — Corn Products, Inc., manufacturer of Skippy Peanut Butter, and Derby Foods, the Swift and Company subsidiary which makes Peter Pan peanut Butter. Skippy and Peter Pan are the largest-selling brands of peanut butter in the United States.

The way things stand, Peter Pan contains only 87 per cent peanuts. The rest is mostly sugar syrup — 9.6 per cent dextrose, plus 1.7 per cent seasoning and 1.7 per cent chemical stabilizer.

That's the way the customers like it, and that's the way it should remain, attorneys argued when they asked the Supreme Court to hear the case.

Taking up the Supreme Court's time over a difference of 3 per cent may sound pretty nutty, but actually this case is more than a tempest in a jelly jar. It is an example of how large, wealthy companies can tie up a matter in the legal system for years . . . to the detriment of the consumer.

THE CASE has been going on for 11 years. When the FDA first got involved in 1959, it found that some brands contained 75 per cent peanuts, others 95 per cent, but that there was no way to tell which was which from the labels.

The FDA tried to get a standard. Industry resisted. Public hearings in 1965 and 1966 generated a spate of peanut-butter jokes and led the FDA to declare a 90-per cent standard. Corn Products and Derby lost their fight to the FDA, lost a court appeal last May and now are at the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, there still is no standard. Nor will there be until the Supreme Court acts —and maybe not even then, if the plaintiffs can think up some new delaying tactic.

Peanut butter symbolizes the sticky problem of setting food standards so buyers can have some assurance that they are getting similar products under similar names.

The case also shows how far large corporations will go in fighting such standards if they think they might cut into their sales to any degree.

Pity the Supreme Court. With civilization awaiting advice on how to preserve humanity, it must learn how peanut butter is preserved.

ON THE AGENDA

'Reflections' Is Theme For 9th Annual Mannequin League Ball

Their 9th annual ball will be held by the Mannequin League of Marin on Saturday night at the Meadow Club. With "Reflections" as its theme the ball will begin with cocktails at 7:30 p.m., followed by dinner and dancing. The ball is a benefit this year for the Marin Community Workshop in San Rafael, a work-training program that enables handicapped persons to become self-employed.

Mrs. Kenneth Fuller of Greenbrae is chairman for the ball and radio personality Jack Carney of Ross will be the master of ceremonies.

ANOTHER SERIES of Friday Forenoons is underway at the Jose Moya del Pino Library, Octagon House, at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross. The series continues this Friday at 11 a.m. with a talk by Paul Romer on the "Story of Moya Painting." Other programs scheduled are Oct. 16, Friedel Klussmann, "Marin Treasures;" Oct. 23, Dr. William Morris, "Oriental Art;" and Oct. 30, Albert W. Gatov, "California Maritime Museum." Proceeds from the series go to the Moya library of the arts at the center.

Mrs. Russell Smith of Ross is chairman for the series.

MARIN CHARITABLE Foundation is sponsoring a dinner dance aboard the Harbor Emperor on Friday night. The boat will leave the Tiburon dock at 7:15 p.m. Mrs. Russell C. Johnson is chairman of the committee, which includes Mmes. William Schoenfeld, Hugh Carruthers, Harry Johnson III and Warren Lawrence.

Tickets are available from Marin Charitable Foundation, Box 759, Ross. Proceeds go to various programs benefitting the youth of Marin.

THE ANNUAL chapter chairmen luncheon of the Dominican College Alumnae Association will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at Caleruega on the college's San Rafael campus.

Mrs. Hazel Kalthof of San Leandro, director of chapters, will conduct a workshop at 10:30 a.m. at Pennafort Hall for chairmen of the 15 alumnae chapters.

Past presidents of the association will be honored along with the chairmen at the luncheon. The event will begin with a noon social hour on the Caleruega terrace .

Association president Mrs. Frank J. Ortman Jr. of Orinda will introduce three new council members at the general meeting following lunch. They are Mrs. Charles Sweeney of Atherton, parliamentarian; Mrs. Richard I. Pera of San Rafael, coordinator of events, and Mrs. Joe E. Petterle of Novato, social chairman. Mrs. Petterle is also Saturday's luncheon chairman.

Sister M. Samuel, O.P., president of Dominican College, will address the group.

THE MARIN Symphony Guild, opening its 19th annual membership drive, has elected officers. Newly elected board members who will serve two years together with 23 existing members are Jesse L. Birnbaum of Sausalito, J. Galen Foster and Mrs. Wilber F. Mathewson of San Rafael, Mrs. Malcolm Manson of Ross, and Mrs. Edward M. Zeller of Kentfield.

Continuing as president of the Guild is Mrs. Robert L. Schultz.

Also re-elected were Mrs. John A. Clements, administrative vice president; Mrs. James B. Stapler Jr., membership vice president; Leonard C. Asiano, treasurer; and Peter H. Behr, legal counsel.

Newly elected were Mrs. Joyce C. Conklin, youth program vice president; J. Galen Foster as business vice president; and Barry W. Boland, corporate secretary.

Other chairmen for the year are Mrs. Edward M. Zeller, president of the Marin Symphony Auxiliary; Mrs. Wilber F. Mathewson, chairman of the Marin Youth Orchestra; Mrs. Leno Franzini, chairman of the Workshop for Strings, and Mrs. Joyce N. Conklin, chairman of Music for Minors.

Marin Symphony Guild has a new office, staffed daily from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Ross Valley Savings and Loan in San Anselmo.

THE ANNUAL legislative dinner meeting will be held Friday by the Novato Business and Professional Women's Club beginning with a social hour at 7 p.m. at the Sportsman's Lodge in Novato.

Presented on a legislative panel will be Ruth Church Gupta, San Francisco attorney and state Business and Professional Women's legislative advocate; Peter Behr, Republican candidate for state senator, and Michael Peevey, Democratic candidate for state senator.

All businesswomen, their friends, associates and husbands are invited.

MARIN STAR Theta Rho Girls Club 121 of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, will hold a bake sale in front of Long's Drugs in Novato beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Proceeds will be used to pay for the club's installation of officers.

Julie Beauregard, president of Theta Rho Assembly of California, will pay a social visit to Marin Star Theta Rho Girls Club at 8 p. m., Friday. The meeting will be held at the Oddfellows Temple in San Rafael.

THE ANNUAL SCHOOL carnival of Bernard E. Eldredge Parents Club will be given Saturday at the school grounds in Petaluma. Game booths and food concessions will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and a spaghetti dinner will be served from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. At 7 o'clock an auction will be held.

Washing Cars

To remove road tar, bug splatters or bird marks from the car windshield, chrome or body, wipe with a damp sponge sprinkled with dry baking soda. The soda can't scratch, yet it has enough scour power to do the job. Rinse with fresh water.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organization interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

ART REVIEW

All Tastes Satisfied At Marin '70 Show

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Group shows have a way of displeasing everyone. To experienced gallery-goers, their all-too frequent jumble of mundane talents are a bore, while others will resent the usual alternative.

That alternative is the stylized presentation where all the work is in one take-it-or-leave-it vein, often on such an esoteric taste level that many are denied the chance to appreciate, much less understand it.

As a group show, the Marin Society of Artists' Annual, through Nov. 1 at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, is different. For a very special reason this is one show that should please just about everyone from the most sophisticated to the person who enjoys his art out front where he can recognize and identify with it.

A sampling of the winners indicates why. The show has humor. Carol Herschleb's giant stoneware dentures with their enormous overbite and other assorted problems, are irresistible.

Then there are other moods as described in Sydney Herschleb's cool green oil of "Ward's Garden Center," or Orene Neal's surreal painting "Alice's Standard Time" in which a frog perches on a backwards clock while fugitives from a deck of cards pour water on a bush.

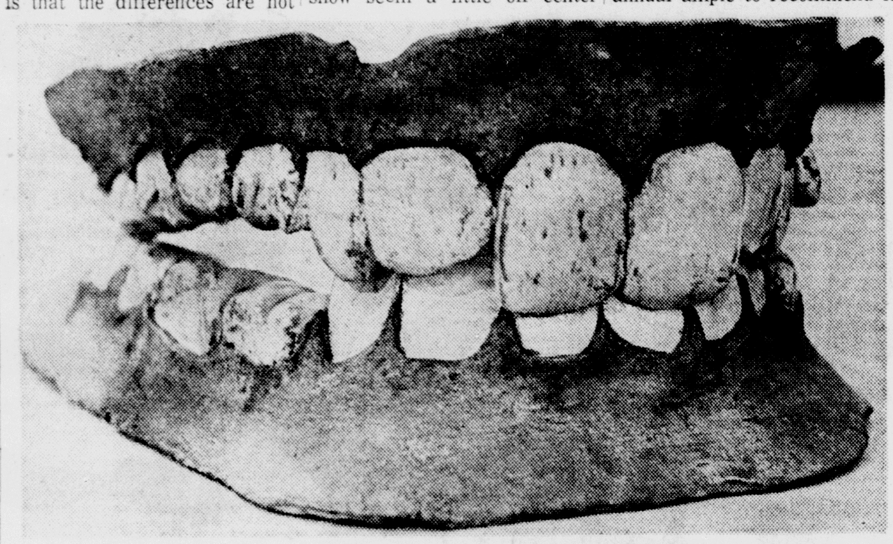
There's an equally strange graphic of a delicate nude by Heidi Endemann, Chris Wagener's scarred and rock-like raku pot, plus Miss Endemann's neat little oil of three tintype gentlemen sitting in brown splendor in a landscape layered in symbolic green balls and ripples of tan, yellow, orange and blue.

In addition, there are Miss Wagener's ceramic tool box, Ruth Bruce's twice woven nylon rug and Clarice Blum's hunky gold, sapphire and pearl ring plus honorable mention winners Vic York's reaching abstract wood forms, Maggie Hazell-Rosen's charcoal drawing, Ann Carroll's dirt plain landscape, June Lederman's tall hills with hyphenated cattle and Brent Bushnell's hard, mirrored sculpture.

All are obviously sharply different. But that's only half the point. The whole point, and also the real reason the society's annual can have such wide appeal is that the differences are not just from work to work but are innate in each work individually. If a painting is a simple realistic landscape the realism is not the usual postcard interpretation but rather one that seems pushed through that particular artist's stream of consciousness where it is affected by his particular vision and experience.

It makes everything in the show seem a little off center from the expected. With few exceptions, each work belongs solely to the individual who created it and it seems valid to employ that currently dog-earned word "honest" to describe it. So, while little in the show is over anyone's head, those jaded souls who feel they have seen everything will find exceptions. All of which gives the society's annual ample to recommend it.

PERSONAL VIEWPOINT — Artist Heidi Endemann's prize winning oil painting is but one of many individual ideas and approaches to art which mark the Marin Society of Artists' annual exhibition in Ross.



DENTURES — The prize Carol Herschleb won for this gigantic set of dentures was obviously awarded only for its fitting place in art, but as such it provides one of several humorous touches in the Marin Society of Artists' current annual exhibition in Ross.

Bomber Sentenced To Prison Term

MARTINEZ (UPI)—Anthony R. Tankersley was sentenced to one to five years in prison Tuesday for possessing explosives.

Judge Richard A. Arneson who pronounced sentence in Contra Costa County Superior Court said the term would run concurrently with a previous sentence for bombing a Pacific Gas & Electric Co. utility pole in the San Francisco East Bay Area.

Tankersley, 29, pleaded guilty after returning from Canada, where he had fled.

4 Concerts Scheduled By Symphony

Four concerts — one more than last year — will be presented in the second annual Marin series on the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, under the musical direction of the orchestra's new conductor, Seiji Ozawa.

The Saturday evening concerts are set for Jan. 16, Feb. 6, March 27 and May 22 in the gymnasium of Terra Linda High School, with Ozawa at the podium for three of them.

The series experienced staging difficulties last year, but this season a raised platform is promised to bring the orchestra in full view of the audience.

Pianist John Browning will join Maestro Ozawa on Jan. 16 for Prokofieff's Piano Concerto No. 1. Haydn's Symphony No. 1 and Brahms's Symphony No. 1 will complete the program.

On Feb. 6 assistant conductor Niklaus Wyss will conduct the overture to Beethoven's "Prometheus," Mozart's Symphony No. 40, Wolf's Italian Serenade and Stravinsky's Suite from "Petrouchka."

On March 27 Ozawa will conduct the overture to Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra; Berlioz's "Harold in Italy," featuring the orchestra's principal violist, Rolf Persinger of Tiburon, as soloist, and Tschaikowsky's Piano Concerto No. 1, featuring young pianist Andre Watts.

"Four Views of Romeo and Juliet" is the theme of the series' final concert. Included will be love music from Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," the overture-fantasy from Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" music from Prokofieff's "Romeo and Juliet" and sympohonic dances from Bernstein's "West Side Story.

Nixon To UN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will address the United Nations on Oct. 23, the 25th anniversary of the organization.

Marin Symphony Guild Opens 1970-71 Membership Drive

The Marin Symphony Guild has opened its membership drive for the 1970-71 season under the theme "Your Marin Symphony."

Guild president Mrs. Robert L. Schultz of Mill Valley said $30,000 is this year's goal. Proceeds will support the Marin Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Sandor Salgo; The Marin Youth Orchestra and Music for Minors, conducted by Hugo Rinaldi, and Workshop for Strings under Robert L. Jacobson.

Membership fees in the guild cover admission to the three Marin Symphony concerts to be given on Nov. 22, Feb. 14 and April 18 at the College of Marin Gymnasium. Members will have first choice of reserved season tickets for the first year of the symphony in the veteran's memorial auditorium at the civic center next fall.

Guild members are invited to symphony previews, dress rehearsals, held the Saturday before each concert and the annual symphony ball.

POW Group Plans To Press For Releases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 300 men and women gathered on the steps of the Capitol Monday before visiting members of congress to press for release of American prisoners of war in Vietnam.

Mrs. Carole North of Wellfleet, Mass., newly elected chairman of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, told newsmen "We are far from satisfied that everything that could be done is being done..."

(Among those who made the trip was Julie Butler of San Rafael whose husband, Air Force Capt. W. Butler, was captured in 1967.)

Mrs. North's organization, which helped to organize the recently held joint session of congress to call attention to the plight of American POWs, completed its four-day convention here today. Members planned to meet with congressmen throughout the day to obtain their signatures on cards pledging support for a greater U. S. effort to win freedom for POWs.

Mrs. North declared the organization had "...no intention of letting up the pressure even for one minute until all of our men are identified and, ultimately, set free." Her own husband was shot down over North Vietnam in an Air Force jet Aug. 1, 1966.

While she conceded the "government is doing everything it can," she emphasized more could be done through a massive letter-writing campaign to the leaders of North Vietnam. "I want my husband home and I want him healthy," she said.

Texas millionaire H. Ross Perot addressed the organization Saturday at a closed-door session to brief the wives on what was being done to secure the release of POWs. Mrs. North declined to discuss what Perot, who has been concerned with the prisoner issue, said.

Report Sees The Political System Scarcely 'Fail-Safe'

BERKELEY (UPI) — Right wing extremists movements in the United States do not spring out of bigotry but rather than a "backlash against change," according to a prize-winning analysis published today.

Prejudice—regional, national, religious or racial—is then revitalized and becomes a symbolic base for such movements, said Seymour Lipset and Earl Raab.

Their analysis, published as "The Politics of Unreason," was produced as part of the University of California Survey Research Center's "Patterns of American Prejudice" series under a $500,000 grant from the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. The book received the $10,000 Gunnar Myrdal Prize for works on human behavior prior to publication.

Lipset, a professor of government and social relations at Harvard, and Raab, executive director of the San Francisco Jewish Community Relations Council, traced right-wing extremism from foundation of the nation until the present.

They warn that the American population is "highly vulnerable to political extremism" and that "the American political system is less vulnerable but scarcely fail-safe." The authors credit the two-party system and the cross-pressures within each party with providing the "chief practical bulwark" against a right wing takeover.

Lipset and Raab said rightest movements "have been more indigenous to America and have left more of a mark" than the leftist ones, usually by affecting public policy through the major political parties.

They said extreme right wing movements have primarily developed as a reaction against social and economic changes which displace some population groups from former positions of dominance.

Such movements are basically made up of ordinary people caught in stress. The bigotry and "conspiracy theory" which usually accompany them are not the source of extremism but developments which follow it, the authors contended.

For example, Lipset and Raab said, inherent racism may be enforced by the white blue-collar worker's concern about what may happen to him in the course of Negro progress. But the cause of the backlash is "new areas, new industries, new migrant groups, new ethnic groups" encroaching upon the old, they said.

Lipset and Raab, using opinion surveys made by the University Center, warned the American public lacks "a firm and comprehensive commitment" which would make it reject an extremist program containing undemocratic elements.

The surveys said massive numbers of Americans have a "ritual attachment" to free speech, religious freedom and due process, but would throw them out in the case of hard-core dissenters, atheists running for public office, and sex offenders.

Recreation Use Up More Than Costs

Use of recreational programs in Novato has risen 10 times in the past seven years while their cost has risen 7.5 times, it was reported last night in the annual report to the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission.

In fiscal 1962-63, the department had a budget of $20,645 and 33,100 people used the programs. In fiscal 1969-70 it had a budget of $151,885 and 366,733 people used the recreational programs.

To finance this, the tax rate has gone up 2.5 times or from 10 cents to 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The department had 15 part time empolyees seven years ago and now has 75.

Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, reported that there was a decrease of 4,745 using city recreational programs in August, but an increase of 9,604 in September of this year.

The commission postponed consideration of a plan for the Tank Site Park on Vallejo Avenue and Seventh Street until 8 p.m., Oct. 19.

GMC Sole Transit Line Bus Bidder

General Motors Corp. was the sole bidder yesterday, at $71,827, to provide two transit buses to the Golden Gate Bridge District for its Sausalito ferry feeder service.

The bid will be presented to district directors for acceptance at 10 a.m. Friday in toll plaza offices.

Transit Mgr. Donald White said the 51-passenger, air-conditioned diesel coaches would be in service by Nov. 15 if the bid is accepted. They first must be painted and have minor modifications to comply with California laws, he said.

With sales tax, the two buses would cost $75,777. White had estimated the cost at $76,000.

As is common in the business, White said, the bid specifications do not include tires. Each bus would need seven tires at about $155 each, for a total of some $2,170.

White noted that the district was able to get the bids on short notice because the customer who had ordered the buses was willing to wait for a later delivery. The customer reportedly was the City of Las Vegas, and was short of immediate cash for the buses.

The district has been leasing two buses from Greyhound Lines at a monthly cost of about $4,500 since starting the ferry service in August, White said.

Door Flies Open On Maddox' Plane

MACON, Ga. (UPI)—The door on a private plane carrying Gov. Lester Maddox blew open in flight Tuesday and Maddox had to lunge across a seat and hold the door closed until the craft landed safely.

"It was nerve wracking and a strain," Maddox said later.

The twin-engine plane had just taken off from the Fulton County Airport in Atlanta when the door flew open. Maddox lay stretched across a seat for several minutes, holding onto the door, until the pilot could land the plane. Maddox switched planes and continued his flight to the Georgia Democratic Party Convention in Macon.

Peace Symbol Up For Trademark, Like Luv

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Patent Office has tentatively decided to register the peace symbol as a commercial trademark. It says the competition is between a shoemaker and a clothing firm which already has trademarked "Luv."

"If this were the accepted symbol of the Quakers, or any organized religious sect which is absolutely pacifistic, we would not register it," C. M. Wendt, director of the Patent Office's trademark examining office, told UPI.

"But it's a far cry from that used by the hippie movement Those who flaunt all the conventions of organized society," he added.

Spokesmen for two peace organizations disagreed.

"I think that's crazy," said Mrs. Dorothy B. Jones, Beverly Hills, Calif., cochairman of Another Mother For Peace. "It isn't just used by hippie groups. All over the world, it has become a symbol of peace."

"They're trying to make money on something that should be beyond commercialization," said Vincent F. McGee Jr., executive secretary of Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace.

The peace symbol is an inverted Y in a circle, with the bar of the Y extending through. It was first popularized by the "ban the bomb" movement of the 1950's, and is widely used by various opponents of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The Sept. 6 issue of the Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office listed two trademark applications for the symbol.

One was from Intercontinent Shoe Corp., New York, which said it puts the symbol in metal or leather on shoes, boots, and sandals. The other was filed by Harold Koenig, president of Luv, Inc., Miami Fla. Koenig said his firm makes "boutique type high fashion clothing for the junior customer." Wendt said the listing threw the two firms into competition for the trademark. The trade mark trial and appeal board will pick the winner, he said, based mostly on which firm used the emblem first. Four other applicants, also clothing firms, have been rejected.

UPI learned of the listing from John Coombe, 24, a George Washington University law student who peruses the Gazette as a clerk for a trademark law firm. Coombe said he and other law students may oppose any commercial registration of the peace symbol.

Wendt said anyone could object, but probably would get nowhere unless they demonstrate an economic interest in the outcome.

Cigarette Ads Tied To Pot Use

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Cigarette commercials are contributing to the use of marijuana in this country, a San Francisco psychiatrist and drug expert claims.

"By teaching people the acceptability of smoking tobacco, we are indirectly teaching them the smoking of marijuana," Dr. Joel Fort told the annual convention of the American Osteopathic Association Tuesday.

Fort, author of "The Pleasure Seekers: The Drug Crisis, Youth and Society," said cigarette ads play on the theme of escaping to a better world through smoking. It's only a short jump from tobacco to marijuana, he said.

RENOVATED STATION — The renovated main Sausalito Fire Station contains nearly double the 2,700 square feet of floor space in the original building. The portion of the building beyond the divider between the two plastic equipment doors was added in the project. (Independent-Journal photos)

RENEWAL IN SAUSALITO

Fire Department Quarters Larger

By C.P. McCARTHY

Despite the fact it can't aford a vacuum cleaner, the Sausaltio Fire Department is adjusting smoothly to its enlarged and renovated main fire station at 20 Caledonia Avenue.

The renewal project, financed primarily by an $85,000 bond issue approved last year, has nearly doubled the floor space at the station, bringing the total to approximately 5,400 square feet, much of it covered with easily maintained indoor-outdoor carpeting.

The total cost of the project is approaching $107,000, but Fire Chief Charles E. Masten said the renovated station is better than getting a new one. The original station was built in 1940.

The station now provides training, storage and working facilities which were previously unavailable, as well as a fringe benefit — additional privacy for firemen, Masten said.

The vacuum cleaner problem — caused by a shortage of petty cash — so far has been beaten by "sampling" four different salesmen's demonstration models, although Masten admitted he did not know how much longer the department could continue with this system.

In a departure from fire station tradition, Sausalito architect Donald K. Olsen has eliminated red lights in front of the station. The three equipment entrances — one facing on Caledonia and two on Johnson Street — have clear plastic doors. High intensity lights inside illuminate the fire equipment and the theory is that the need for the red lights — to discourage parking in front of the station's driveway — is eliminated because persons can see the equipment inside.

Much of the interior of the building was designed with an eye toward maintenance. The carpet, for instance, can be vacuumed in a few minutes, as opposed to the hours it would take to mop and wax tile floors.

The quick and easy maintenance, Masten said, releases men for more training and free time.

Much of that free time is spent either in the new dayroom or in the classroom.

The classroom is a new addition. Masten said about 75 per cent of the men attended school, and they now have a quiet place to study. The room is also used for training sessions, and Masten said it probably could be used to teach public first aid courses and for city commission meetings.

The dayrcom, which in the original building was on the first floor in public view, is now on the second floor, allowing the men to relax out of uniform.

A new tower also provides a hose-drying and training facility.

A few problems remain, but they are apparently temporary ones.

One is drapes. Masten said he plans to install drapes in some of the rooms and wooden roller-type blinds in others. In the meantime, most of the windows remain unshaded, and the dormitory windows are shaded by blankets nailed over them.

NO BLINDS — Blankets nailed over windows provide shades in the station's second-floor dormitory. Eventually, wooden roller-type blinds will replace the blankets. The room, and gleaming fire pole in the foreground, are in the new section of the building.

Man Bound Over On Pot Charge

Thomas Maurice Purbaugh, 21, of San Quentin Village, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a charge of possessing marijuana. He is to be arraigned Tuesday.

Purbaugh was arrested Aug. 31 after officers stopped his car because it didn't have front license plate and said they found what appeared to be several packets of haishish.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1970 23

Members Meet New Boss, Set Election

Marin County Employees Association members last night met their new manager, Francis J. O'Connell of Fairfax, and began preparing for the annual election of officers Nov. 9.

Eleven employees were nominated to five of directorships.

A nominating committee headed by Floyd Hovland chose as candidates: Ida Cullen of the tax collector's office; Doris Richmond, assessor's office; Francis Bahl, coroner's office; Paul J. Brusseau, sealer of weights and measures; Robert Nelson, agricultural commissioner's office; Al Brown, sheriff's department; and Betty Thompson, public works department.

President Newl G. Weaver said ballots will be mailed to all members during the last week of October. Results will be announced at the annual meeting Nov. 9. The top five will join the six carryover members to form the 11-man board.

Carryover members are Weaver; Leona Meysembourg, health department; Robert Testa, fire department; Wade R. Powell, sheriff's department; Frank Martin, public works, and Arthur Madsen, public health department.

Man To Appear On Pot Charge

A 24-year-old San Francisco man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana after he was arrested on the Waldo Grade by the California Highway Patrol.

Gary Lee Yoder posted $750 bail and will appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Officers said he was stopped on Highway 101 near Spencer Avenue because his truck lacked an outside mirror. A metal film can containing suspected marijuana was found on the floor.

California's first commercial productive oil well was brought in 1876.

Interim Plan On Housing Issue Asked

The Tiburon Planning Commission has recommended the city council adopt an urgency interim ordinance to require design review for certain single-family dwellings.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said the ordinance, if adopted, would require submission of plans to the city's design review board of proposed single-family or duplex dwellings which exceed two stories or 30 feet in height.

Action by the board would be limited to consideration of the preservation of views from adjacent residences.

Moody said the urgency ordinance would remain in effect only until the city's zoning ordinance can be revised in regard to defining and controlling maximum height.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

TRAILS — Recommended to the city council adoption of phase two of the Tiburon trails plan which calls for the establishment of a pedestrian trail along Tiburon Ridge from the downtown Tiburon area to the Corte Madera city limits.

HEARINGS — Set public hearings Nov. 2 on revisions in the planning department fee schedule; Oct. 29 for a Joint City Council - Planning Commission meeting regarding a housing element provision in the city's general plan, and Nov. 2 on use permits in planned development zones.

LIGHTS — Authorized Moody to hire a design consultant for new light standards on Tiburon Boulevard.

PALE FACES MUST CHANGE THE SCRIPT

Instead, the Columbus Day script has been delicately rewritten so that this year's pageant depicts Columbus, played for the 12th straight year by Joseph Cervetto of San Rafael, returning triumphantly to Spain.

Reason for the change in script, according to a pageant spokesman, is that the Inidans who have taken part in the play each year have refused to continue. Without Indians there can be no landing, the spokesman said.

The Indians claim they are tired of being "discovered" in their own land and the general lack of hospitality toward them by the pageant sponsors.

HAZEL

"We've got ourselves a critic."

A Vote Of Confidence For Planner Chairman

Paul Stanley, who was accused of misconduct at the Petaluma City Council meeting Monday, was reelected last night as chairman of the city planning commission in a show of confidence.

Attorney Leroy J. Lounibous, representing land owners protesting an apartment development, said Stanley had threatened two of his clients and that a grand jury investigation would be requested.

Mayor Helen Putnam and the city council made no response to the accusations at the meeting, but Stanley was called to the city hall yesterday afternoon to meet with Mrs. Putnam, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer and City Atty. Edouard E. Robert.

Stanley would not comment on the content of the meeting, but said the mayor was highly upset by the accusation.

His position as chairman of the planning commission was questioned at the meeting. Stanley said it would have been logical for him to step down since he had served two consecutive one-year terms, but that his intended successor, Robert Koenitzer, said he could not take the chair because he may be leaving the commission as a result of a change in employment.

Stanley said that Commissioner Mervin Waters, also a possible candidate for chairman, refused to take the post under pressure and was named vice chairman instead.

Stanley said he had little comment to make at the impromptu city hall meeting because he had not been present to hear the accusations and had not yet heard a tape recording of the proceedings.

"To me it's very distasteful," Stanley said. "But I'm not scared. I'd love to get before the grand jury and clear the air. I have nothing to hide."

Hub Trustees Agree To A Citizens' Goals Panel

The San Anselmo School District board last night agreed to set up a committee of residents to establish district-wide education goals to be achieved by the teaching staff.

Supt. William Kenneth Lowry said today that once the goals are determined, the district's staff will determine means of reaching them.

Lowry said that a student with a special interest now may not be receiving necessary encouragement for developing that interest.

Such a student, he said, shoull be encouraged to pursue his interests in class and should receive the same acknowledgement as students excelling in more academic subjects.

Through such a program, he said, the student will be given a basic competancy and skill.

Until now, Lowry said, education planning has been done on a basis of "rapidly changing emergencies."

Formation of the goals committee will be at the Oct. 20 meeting, he said, adding he expected the committee to spend about three months developing them.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

HIRING — Approved the hiring of psychologist William Emerson for testing and evaluating educationally handicapped students. He will be paid $4,000 for his part-time service.

TRANSFER — Approved the transfer of one educationally handicapped class instructor from that position to remedial reading instruction.

CLOSED SESSION — Entered closed session at the request of trustee Basil H. Scalabrini to discuss hiring and firing of certified personnel.

Council Finds Roof Repairs Cost More

A special meeting of the San Anselmo City Council has been set for tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss changing the contract price for roof repairs on the mansion in Robson-Harrington Park.

Mayor James F. Reed said the Osborn Construction Co. of San Rafael has asked for an addition of $975 to its original $5,340 contract. The sum would be for a skylight the city thought was included in the original bid, Reed said.

Driver Nabbed As Suspect In Hit-Run Case

An 18-year-old Sebastopol girl was arrested last night on suspicion of felony hit-run driving at a Petaluma service station.

Candace D. Billings was arrested at 7:15 p.m. yesterday at her home by Sebastopol police. She was booked into the Petaluma jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Michael Statfield of Santa Rosa, an attendant at the Standard station, 4999 Petaluma Boulevard North, told police he was filling the gas tank of a car at 1:45 p.m. and washing the rear window when the car pulled away from the pumps and sped off.

Statfield was thrown against the gas pumps and suffered bruised ribs on the left side, according to police. The gas nozzle was broken causing damage estimated at $28.

To Describe Roles

Independent-Journal photographers Jim Kean and Roger Bockrath will describe their role in covering the shootout Aug. 7 at Marin Civic Center at a dinner meeting tomorrow of Sigma Delta Chi's Northern California chapter at the San Francisco Press Club.

Sacramento Firemen Strike, Block Buses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — City firemen, demanding higher pay, walked off the job today and set up picket lines at the Sacramento Transit Authority to cripple bus service for the capital.

The 450 striking members of Fire Fighters Local 522, AFL-CIO, were replaced by 140 firemen from the California Division of Forestry at 11 of the city's 21 firehouses. The strike began at the change of shifts at 8 a.m.

The union members ignored a Superior Court order barring a work stoppage until Oct. 15, and the city administration said copies of the decree would be served on picketers.

Hundreds of persons appeared at bus stops unaware of the strike situation. They had to resort to other means of transportation when they realized bus service was at a standstill.

The walkout was the first public safety strike in the city's history.

Members of Local 522 picketed the state Capitol the past two days to protest Gov. Ronald Reagan's authorization of the use of CDF firemen to replace strikers.

A CDF spokesman said the 140 men sent here were "handpicked" and would not be affected by the picket lines.

Loren V. Smith, general manager of the California State Employees Association, said Monday that the state firemen would serve in the city "with reluctance and bitterness."

Last week the San Mateo Ranger Unit of the CDF asked the CSEA for statewide strike sanction in an effort to get higher pay.

Bargaining in an effort to head off the city walkout ended in an impasse Tuesday night. There was no word when talks would be resumed.

During negotiations Tuesday, the firemen demanded their salaries be raised from $900 a month to $991 on Feb. 1. The city offered an immediate raise to $950 a month and an increase to $1,010 a month on July 1. Previously, the union had requested an immediate raise to $1,002 while the city offered $950.

Statisticians predict Texas' population will reach 18 million by 1990, up 7 million from now.

Antiplano Rich In Pre-Colombian Lore

By KARL GAHWYLER

Of Neue Zurcher Zeitung (Zurich)

(Via Toronto News Service)

The Altiplano is one of the most remarkable regions on earth.

The world's longest and highest populated plain, at an altitude ranging between 10,000 and 17,000 feet, it stretches along the west coast of South America on the shoulder of the Andes from Chili through Bolivia, Peru and Ecuador to Colombia.

In its most beautiful and renowned region, around Lake Titicaca, the snow-capped peaks of the Cordilleras loom above the high plateau to a height of over 22,000 feet. The human eye can see for hundreds of miles through the thin, glass-clear air.

At sunrise and sunset a veil of rapidly shifting pastel tones is drawn over the broad expanse of the plains. During the day, particularly in winter, the scene is dominated by blue and brown; the blue of the high-vaulting heavens and the brown of the treeless, barren earth. Despite the altitude, snow is rare, with the proximity of the equator confining it to the highest peaks.

It is not only the landscape here which makes an indelible impression, but also the tangible presence of pre-Columbian times. It was in these barren reaches, at this great altitude, that the Incas and their ancestors established their amazing culture. Tiahuanacu, Sacsayhuaman, Pisac, Machu Pichu, to name only the most famous, are megalithic citadels, temples and cities the archaic power of which is hardly paralielled anywhere in the world.

It is not only these mighty witnesses of a great past which keep the spirit of the Inca empire alive, however, but also such lesser vestiges as an old Inca roadway, an irrigation canal, an ancient grave, a shrine, or the Andes terraces. Particularly the latter accompany a visitor on every hand; step-like cuts in the steep mountain flanks, made in order to gain a bit of cultivable soil, rising hundreds of stories high up incredibly steep slopes, make one aware that in pre-Columbian times the Altiplano must have been a blossoming region.

Today, that is no longer the case. The Altiplano has become one of the greatest regions of misery in the world. Its people have managed to salvage an extraordinary legacy of customs and traditions, thus enabling a visitor to experience through their language, music, costumes and ancient religious piety, something of the great era of the past.

But that mighty past itself, the product of an active and rich life, has disappeared completely. The descendants of the highly-developed Incas are now themselves urgently in need of development.

The causes of this decay are manifold. One of them is certainly the fact that the people were not capable of guiding their own destinies.

They were always strongly led, and with the downfall of the Inca leaders the people lost their self-assuredness and slipped into dull passivity. Another factor was the harsh environment, with temperature fluctuations as great as 50 degrees between day and night, sparse soil, poor growth, lack of rain, no trees.

Additional elements were the feudal conditions of land ownership introduced by the Spaniards and a tenacious clinging to outmoded agricultural methods.

All of these resulted in a situation which was described as follows by U.N. expert Luis Saenz, himself a Peruvian: "There are few segments of the world's population whose food situation is as grave as that of the inhabitants of the Altiplano, except for regions beset by war, famine or epidemics." The alarming food problem in this area is accompanied by the classic symptoms of underdevelopment: Extremely high infant mortality, very low average life expectancy and a frighteningly high level of illiteracy.

In April, 1967, in Chuquibambilla, some 100 miles from Puno on Lake Titicaca, work was begun on a Swiss development project which holds great promise for the improvement of the agrarian situation on the Altiplano and thus for a general improvement of living standards there.

With financial assistance from the Service for Technical Co-operation, an agency under the supervision of the Swiss Federal Government in Berne, the undertaking was founded by the Association for Swiss-Peruvian Co-operation (ASEP).

Additional financial support was provided by a leading association of Swiss retail food merchants. In September, 1969, the Swiss Caritas organization replaced ASEP as sponsor of the project.

Known as the Agricultural and Trades Development Center, the project received a grant from the Peruvian government in the form of a hacienda more than 4,000 acres in extent.

The Swiss team of specialists includes a veterinarian, an agronomist, a secretary, a mechanic and a nurse, with 20 to 30 Indian helpers. They are operating according to a 10-year plan in the course of which they are to be gradually replaced by Peruvians. In 1976 the Peruvian government will take over management of the project.

At present, the undertaking is in its second phase, in which its model farm is being completed and an agricultural school is about to begin operations.

The primary aims of the model farm are to provide practical demonstration of new agricultural methods and to improve cattle breeding. It has already achieved several notable successes. The main problems facing cattle breeding on the Altiplano are a chronic lack of fodder and the inadequacies of the available breeds of animal.

The fodder problem has already been largely solved through construction of silos. Oats are planted and cut while still green, to be stored in large pits in the earth. Treated in this way, the fodder retains its full value for two years. This method can be easily adapted by the Indian farmers.

Under normal grazing conditions one hectar of land feeds 1.2 sheep per year, while with the silo system the same amount of soil can feed 3.5 sheep. Through the use of prime breeding rams, and by means of artificial insemination, it has been possible to develop a herd of 3,500 sheep bearing superior meat and wool.

Such progress is particularly important for the "comunidades" numerous in this region; they are cooperatives consisting of groups of families who, for countless centuries, have owned and worked their land jointly. Cattle breeding is also moving ahead.

The pure-blooded Swiss bull donated to the project by the Service for Technical Co-operations is being used to improve the local Criolla breed (only about half of the newly imported Swiss cows have survived the extreme altitude). The improved fodder has increased by one third the milk given by the Indians' cows.

Simple methods taken as a matter of course by Swiss farmers, but unknown on the Altiplano, have also yielded excellent results. This is particularly true of the building of barns and vegetable farming. Since the Indians have considerable experience in building their own houses out of adobe, they were easily taught to also build barns. These are very useful since they protect the cattle against loss of body-heat, make possible better feeding and facilitate the collection of dung which provides valuable fertilizer for the sparse soil.

As to vegetables, practically everything can be grown with the exception of tomatoes. The plants are protected against consant night frost by large, high-walled beds made of adobe. Previously completely unknown in the area, vegetable cultivation will help to improve the monotonous, unhealthy fare of the Altiplano Indians.

To combat the acute protein shortage in the area, the center instituted experiments with "canihua," a local plant known to the Incas, the seeds of which contain 24 per cent protein.

The flour thus obtained is mixed with conventional white flour and baked into a tasty, nourishing bread in the traditional Indian oven — in keeping with the principle that only techniques which can be adopted by the local people hold out any promise for real progress.

The model farm already enjoys an excellent reputation in the Puno district and is frequently visited by peasants hungry for knowledge or eager for advice. But the farm alone cannot sufficiently spread the urgently-needed new knowledge. To better serve this end the development center will soon open an agricultural school.

The housing for its students, built in the local style, has already been completed. For psychological and pedagogical reasons the school will begin by giving instruction to 20 young married couples.

ORDINANCE NO. 1790
AN ORDINANCE OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN AMENDING CHAPTER 11.20 OF THE MARIN COUNTY CODE PROVIDING FOR THE DIRECTOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS TO ISSUE OCCUPANCY PERMITS FOR MOORED VESSELS

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I. Section 11.20.010 of the Marin County Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11.20.010. Definitions. For the purposes of this chapter the following phrases, words and their derivations shall have the meaning given herein. When not inconsistent with the context, words in the present tense include the future, words in the plural number include the singular number, and words in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is always mandatory and not merely directory.

"Vessel" means any watercraft of any type or size, including but not limited to barges, ferry boats, arks, yachts, houseboats, floating homes and rafts.

"Moor" means the fixing of a vessel in one location, temporarily or permanently by mooring, anchoring, grounding or any other means.

"Transient vessel" means any vessel temporarily moored in the County of Marin which is occupied for a period of less than four consecutive days or ten days in any calendar month.

"Waterway" means any water, waterway, lake, river, creek, canal, lagoon, bay, inlet, slough, tributary, or arm of the sea situated within or bounding the County of Marin.

"Director" means the duly authorized and acting director of the Public Works Department of the County of Marin.

"Person" includes any person, firm, association, corporation, or any members, agents or employees of any of the foregoing.

"Garbage" includes any or all of the following: Garbage, swill, refuse, cans, bottles, papers, vegetable matter, carcasses of dead animals, offal, trash, rubbish and radioactive waste material.

"Sewage" means any and all waste substance, liquid or solid associated with human habitation, or which contains or may be contaminated with human or animal excreta or excrement, offal, or any feculent matter.

SECTION II. 11.20.020 of the Marin County Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11.20.020. Prohibited acts and activities. It shall be unlawful for any person to do any of the following:

(a) Discharge untreated sewage into a waterway;

(b) Dump or throw garbage into a waterway;

(c) Occupy, or cause, or permit another person to occupy any moored vessel as living quarters, other than a transient vessel, without first securing a valid occupancy permit as hereinafter provided.

(d) Rent or lease berthing space to any vessel other than a transient vessel, for which as occupancy permit has not been secured;

(e) Cause or allow a vessel located on or moored to his property to be occupied in contravention of this chapter for a period in excess of thirty days after receipt of a written notice from the Director, specifying the vessel involved and the location thereof;

(f) Furnish or supply electrical service, natural gas or fresh water, or provide a sewer connection, to any vessel, other than transient vessels, for which an occupancy permit has not been secured.

SECTION III. Section 11.20.030 of the Marin County Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

11.20.030. Permits.

A. FORM-FEE. All applications for occupancy permits shall be in writing on a form supplied by the Marin County Department of Public Works, and shall be accompanied by a fee in the amount of twenty-five dollars.

B. CONTENTS OF APPLICATIONS. All applications shall, as nearly as is possible, contain the following information:

(1) The size, type and location of the vessel for which the permit is sought;

(2) The number of people to be accommodated on board;

(3) All provision that has been made for disposal of sewage by connection to an approved shoreside sewage disposal system;

(4) All provision that has been made for connection of shoreside utilities;

(5) Such other information as the Director may deem necessary to effectuate the provisions of this chapter.

C. ISSUANCE. If the Director, after investigation, determines that suitable provision has been made for the disposal of sewage and connection of shoreside utilities, and that occupancy of the vessel for which the permit is requested will not create a hazard to the health, welfare or safety of the occupants thereof or the community in general, he shall issue the permit. All permits may be made subject to such conditions as the Director deems appropriate to insure compliance with the provisions of this chapter.

D. POSTING. Permits shall be permanently posted and maintained upon the vessel in a conspicuous location.

The registration number of the occupancy permit shall be affixed to the vessel in letters and numbers four inches in height and clearly visible in the vicinity of the main entrance.

E. TERM-RENEWAL. All permits issued hereunder shall be effective for a period of one year, provided, however, that any material change in the conditions shown upon the application or any change in ownership or location of the vessel shall revoke the permit. Permits may be renewed by resubmission of an appropriate application and payment of a fee in the amount of one dollar.

F. INSPECTIONS - REVOCATION. The Director shall have authority to board and/or inspect any vessel when he has reasonable cause to believe that the vessel is occupied in violation of the provisions hereof. The Director shall have the right to revoke any permit granted hereunder in the event that he ascertains that the permittee, or any occupancy of the vessel, is acting in contravention of any of the provisions hereof.

G. APPEAL. In the event that any applicant or permittee is for any reason dissatisfied with the actions of the Director by reason of failure to grant a permit, revocation of a permit, or imposition of any conditions relating to the permit, the applicant or permittee shall have the right to appeal to the board of supervisors, in writing, within ten days after notification of the action of the Director. Upon receipt of an appeal the board of supervisors shall call a hearing within fifteen days from receipt of the appeal and give the applicant notice thereof by registered or certified mail addressed to the appellant at the address shown on the application or permit. At the conclusion of the hearing, the board of supervisors shall render a decision, which decision shall be final.

SECTION 4. Section 11.20.031 of the Marin County Code is hereby repealed.

SECTION 5. This ordinance shall be and is hereby declared to be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after its passage, and shall be published once before the expiration of fifteen (15) days after its passage with the names of the Supervisors voting for and against the same in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the County of Marin.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, held on the 29th day of September, 1970, by the following vote:

AYES: SUPERVISORS: William A. Gnoss, Louis H. Baar, Peter R. Arrigoni, Michael Wornum.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

Salaries For Special Districts

Salaries of public employees have been the subject of strong debate this year in budget sessions throughout Marin, at meetings of the board of supervisors, at meetings of city councils and of school district and special district boards.

Employees and their representatives, pleading for large pay increases, cited the rising cost of living and often argued that more money was paid in other counties, cities or districts for similar work.

Few employees got as much as they requested. Most local agencies granted more than they were willing at the outset.

The 1970-71 payrolls of all local agencies in Marin as of the start of the new fiscal year, July 1, are being published by the Independent-Journal during the next few weeks as a complete accounting of what is now paid public employees and as a basis of comparison from agency to agency.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Starting To Drink Heavily At 60 May Be Slow Form Of Suicide

Van Dellen

E. C. G. writes: "If a 60-year-old man drinks a pint of whisky and at least one quart of beer every night before and after supper, with the intake just about doubled on weekends, would he be considered an abuser of alcohol? And wouldn't all this booze eventually have a harmful effect upon him? In addition, he is a heavy smoker but says he is "too old" to change. These habits are supposed to be forms of relaxation and have been going on for some time but they have me worried. As far as I know, he has no other problem."

OBVIOUSLY this man is drinking and smoking too much. At 60, the booze is more harmful than the tobacco. And, if he is not now an alcoholic, he soon will be. Unfortunately, many with this history do not live long because the heavy drinking does irreparable damage to the heart muscle, brain and liver.

Telling him to stop does very little good because the decision to go on the wagon must be made by him. He will not do so unless he develops an illness or has an accident that is related to his drinking. Perhaps only a good scare will motivate him to stop.

WHY DO SO many people turn to alcohol after 60? Drinking may be a slow form of suicide for those who reach this age and realize that their dreams and ambitions have not materialized. Perhaps they were not promoted, forced to take an early retirement or had a business reversal. Some are depressed and obtain relief from alcohol.

OTHERS ARE BORED or unhappy. They never cultivate a hobby, a desire to read, or pursued outdoor activities. Or perhaps the individual neglected to acquire friends or to strengthen his contact with relatives or married children. These are some of the reasons many retirees find solace in a bottle.

A new lease on life may help this man more than criticism or admonitions. Evening studies, religion, travel or politics may be the answer. It is well to remember that man is through when he no longer contributes to the world in which he lives.

ADVANCING PARALYSIS

L. F. J. writes: Please be kind enough to tell me whatever you know about Gilligans-Beret. It seems to be a nervous condition which seriously interferes with walking.

REPLY

It is. In Guillain-Barre, there is a severe, rapidly advancing muscular weakness, pain and numbness that begins in the feet and legs. Within a few days, it ascends to the trunk, arms and face. This self-limited disease lasts from a few weeks to several months. The cause is unknown.

RECTAL BLEEDING

A reader writes: What could possibly cause a heavy discharge of blood with a bowel movement? This has happened to me three times in the last two weeks.

REPLY

A ruptured blood vessel is the most likely cause but you need an examination to determine the exact bleeding point. The bleeding may be from a hemorrhoid, fissure, polyp, or a malignancy.

ULCER AT 13

L. M. wirtes: I'm 13 and I think I have an ulcer from the emotional strain put on me by my two sisters. Is it possible for someone my age to develop an ulcer?

REPLY

Yes. Ulcer also occurs in infants and very young children but not so often as occurs in adulthood. An X-ray will answer your question in a jiffy.

Meeting Postponed

Last night's scheduled meeting of the Homestead Valley Community Association was postponed until Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Brown's Hall. Directors will discuss the sale of the hall to two San Rafael cinematographers.

Freitas Park Is Hit By Vandals

Freitas Park, an Oriental-style park under construction by the City of San Rafael near Kaiser Foundation Hospital, was hit by vandals during the night, park officials said today.

Officials said roof shingles were ripped from a building containing rest rooms and a storage area, causing about $50 damage. The trimly landscaped park is located on Montecillo Road.

TELEVISION REVIEW

'FBI' Makes The 10 Most Wanted List

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Marcus Welby, M.D.," the ABC-TV medical fiction series that climbed to the top of the ratings last season, continues to be television's most popular show despite the recent onslaught of new programs.

With Robert Young portraying the title role of Welby, the series is the across-the-board winner in the new season's three-network ratings competition for both the major markets and the national audience. The period covered was from Sept. 21-27.

Flip Wilson's new NBC-TV variety series, meanwhile, was the only freshman entry to crack the top 10 shows in the ratings that usually carry the most weight: The National Nielsens. He ranked fifth.

Curiously, despite being an urban-oriented black comedian, he finished lower in the major city ratings (14th) than he did in the national rankings, which give more weight to the provinces. What this means, obviously, is that he is a very popular guy all over.

Of interest, also, was the fact that ABC-TV's new Monday night, prime time pro football games had little or no ratings impact on CBS-TV's powerhouse competing lineup of "Gunsmoke," Lucile Ball, "Mayberry R.F.D.," Doris Day and Carol Burnett. They all did well.

On the other hand, NBC-TV's strong Monday schedule of Red Skelton, "Laugh-In" and a weekly movie fared considerably less well against the football game and CBS-TV's potent shows. "Laugh-In," which almost always ranks among the top three or four programs, finished in a three-way tie for 16th place in the national ratings.

Skelton, meanwhile, came in 40th (he also used to be among the top few shows), and the Monday movie ranked below Skelton.

The football game, it should be added, did rather well for ABC-TV. Although showing live at different times across the nation, it achieved 30th place in the national ratings that list all programs.

After Wilson, the most popular new series, nationally, was Mary Tyler Moore's CBS-TV situation comedy, which finished 23rd. Then came Danny Thomas' "Make Room for Granddaddy" on ABC-TV (28th). Then the pro football night game. Then CBS-TV's "Arnie," a comedy about a blue collar worker promoted to executive status (33rd). Then Andy Griffith's new CBS-TV show, "Headmaster" (38th). Then Skelton.

Outside of "Make Room for Granddaddy" and the night football game, ABC-TV's large lineup of new series did poorly in the national ratings. These include "The Odd Couple," "Barefoot in the Park," "The Young Lawyers," "The Young Rebels," "Matt Lincoln" (with Vince Edwards, "Dan August," "The Immortal" and "The Silent Force." Considering that this was ABC-TV's premiere week, the lack of viewer interest in even sampling the new series must be discouraging to the network.

New variety shows by NBC-TV's Don Knotts and CBS-TV's Tim Conway also got off to slow ratings starts. And returning hits with mediocre-to-poor audience statistics included the Dean Martin, Tom Jones and Andy Williams series, "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Bewitched," "Julia," "Family Affair," "Green Acres" and "Hogan's Heroes."

The top 10 programs nationally were "Marcus Welby, M.D.," CBS' Thursday Movie ("The Dirty Dozen"), Lucille Ball, "Bonanza," Flip Wilson, "Medical Center," Doris Day, "Mayberry R.F.D.," "Gunsmoke" and "The FBI."

Skeptical Citizenry Wants Study

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A citizens group wants a 60-day delay for a vote by supervisors on whether to permit the U.S. Steel Corp. to build a 500-foot building on San Francisco's waterfront.

Supervisor Roger Boas, speaking for the group, said Tuesday the time would be used for a study of the Port of San Francisco's economic needs.

"We are told that a 550-foot building is needed for the economic health of the port," he said. "What bothers us is that we really know very little about the economic situation and we must find out before we make any irrevocable decisions."

The study would cost between $15,000 and $20,000 and would be paid for by the citizens' group, he added.

Listed as group members beside Boas are Dorothy Erskine, a conservationist; Mortimer Fleishhacker, Planning Commission member; Father Albert R. Jonsen, University of San Francisco president; William R. Roth, land developer; Louis Goldblatt, labor union oficial; Stanley Powell Jr., for steamship line president; and Richard Holton, a University of California dean.

$2 Million Suit For Victim's Son

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A federal court judge Tuesday took under consideration a $2 million wrongful death suit filed on behalf of the two-year old son of Voityck Frykowski, the Polish writer slain in the Sharon Tate killings.

The suit was filed in July on behalf of Bartyk Frykowski, who lives in Poland. It asserted the slaying deprived the boy of "support of love, guidance and inheritance."

Defendants in the case were Charles Manson, Susan Atkinson, Leslie Van Houten, and Patricia Krenwinkel, all of whom currently are on trial for the killings, and Charles "Tex" Watson, who was extradited from Texas after the trial began.

U.S. District Judge Jesse W. Curtis did not indicate when he would issue a decision but it was believed it would not come until after the conclusion of the Tate trial.

Special Meeting

The Tiburon City Council will hold a special meeting today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to consider proposals for storm drainage construction projects in the downtown and Reed basins.

BLUE CHIP STAMPS mayfair SUPERMARKETS

Blue Chip Stamps are something you sort of take for granted when you do your grocery shopping. In fact, you take them so much for granted that you might not even notice it when your store stops giving them. You get home. Unpack all the groceries. No stamps. So, the next week you ask and are politely told that they're not giving Blue Chip Stamps. So there you are left holding your half-filled stamp books... and you know the stamp people won't give you half a percolator or half a scatter rug, or whatever you're saving for. If your supermarket isn't giving Blue Chip Stamps anymore, remember this. Mayfair still is. Stamps you see don't cost very much but they are one of the best devices for saving for household items we know of. Let us help you fill those half-filled stampbooks with multiple stamps from Mayfair. Now that the chips are down, just remember: Mayfair is still chipping in. Now, more than ever...

McNamara Moves Across Bay To Join Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — John McNamara, fired as manager of the Oakland Athletics last Friday, was hired today as a coach for the San Francisco Giants across the bay from Oakland.

Giants owner Horace Stoneham announced the 38-year-old resident of Sacramento has signed a contract to assist Giants manager Charlie Fox during the 1971 season. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

"We have engaged a very able baseball man," said Stoneham, "and I know he will help us. I have known John for a long time and have always admired his baseball abilities."

McNamara said he had weighed coaching offers from three major league teams before choosing the Giants.

Insiders believe the personable McNamara was hired by the Giants not only because of his coaching abilities but also to assist Fox in arranging possible trades between the Giants and teams in the American League.

At the end of the 1970 season in which the Giants finished third in the National League West, Fox said, "the entire Giants organization is aware of our needs and we expect to fill them this winter by trades — hopefully in both the National and American Leagues."

So within five days, McNamara discarded the white kangaroo shoes of the Oakland Athletics for the traditional black of the Giants and all other big league teams. And he had to travel only about 25 miles from Oakland Coliseum to Candlestick Park to meet his new bosses.

A's owner Charles O. Finley fired McNamara the day after the Athletics compiled their best won-lost record in 38 years. Oakland finished as runnersup to Minnesota this season in the AL West.

Finley said he was dissatisfied with the club's second-place finish in addition to McNamara's failure to discipline a few players who strongly criticized the A's owner toward the end of the 1970 season.

The diplomatic McNamara, extremely popular among his players, indicated three weeks before the season had ended that he would not return to manage the A's. In retrospect, he said:

"I've been fired since last May when the club started out under .500. I don't think it's right to blame the ballplayers for what they said in the last two weeks of the season."

Despite his dismissal, the former minor league catcher refused to utter a bad word about Finley.

"I don't intend to criticize Charlie Finley, period," he said. "Mr. Finley gave me a chance to manage the ballclub and for that I am grateful."

McNanama has been in baseball since 1951, including 17 seasons as a catcher. He began managing in the minors in 1959 at Lewiston, Wash., and later won pennants at Mobile and Birmingham of the Southern League.

He moved to Oakland as coach of the A's in 1968 and succeeded Hank Bauer as manager of the team on Sept. 19, 1969.

Warriors Defeat Lakers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Second-year forward Bob Portman sceored nine of his 17 points in the final stanza to pace the San Francisco Warriors to a 105-101 preseason NBA win over the Los Angeles Lakers in the second game of a Cow Palace twin bill.

In the opener, newly-acquired Clem Haskins exploded for 35 points as the Phoenix Suns nipped the San Diego Rockets 114-112.

Forward Jerry Lucas and guard Jeff Mullins hit 21 apiece for San Francisco against the Lakers. Lucas, who has had a strong pre-season, was all over the court as he bucketed 10 of 15 shots, grabbed 26 rebounds and dished out seven assists.

Jerry West topped the Lakers as usual with 22 points and also collected 11 assists. Reacquired backcourt mate Gail Goodrich added 20 for the Lakers, now only 2-6 in exhibition play. The Warriors are 4-3.

In the opener of the twin bill watched by 4,741, Phoenix staved off a last-second Rocket rally. Elvin Hayes and Stu Lantz hocped 16 each for San Diego, which is 3-5 in the preseason. Dick Van Arsdale helped out Haskins by scoring 18 points.

Davenport To Manage In Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Jimmy Davenport will be the new manager of the Pacific Coast League Phoenix Giants next year, replacing Hank Sauer.

The parent San Francisco Giants Tuesday announced that Sauer will return to his former job as a scout for the parent club.

He hung up his spikes this season after playing in 1,501 games and hitting .258. He was considered a good clutch hitter and his flashy fielding earned him the nickname "Golden Glove."

Jim Palmer To Pitch The Opener

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Jim Palmer, a fastballing righthander who will celebrate his 25th birthday on Oct. 15, was named today as the Baltimore Orioles' starting pitcher for the opening game of the World Series against the Cincinnati Reds.

Palmer was the expected choice since Cincinnati's power is righthanded but Weaver wanted to study the statistics of the Reds against lefties before making the nomination official. The Orioles other two starters, Mike Cuellar and Dave McNally are lefthanders.

The nomination of the first game starter is critical because in a seven game series with two travel dates, the opening game starter is the logical choice for the three starting assignments. However, four times since 1964, a second game starter—Bob Gibson in '64, Sandy Koufax in '65, Jim Lonborg in '67 and Mickey Lolich in '68—started three times.

Palmer injured his right instep when he was hit by a line drive in the second inning of Monday's final playoff game against the Minnesota Twins. But while the instep is still sore, he doesn't expect it to bother him against the Reds.

Reds' Nolan Feels Biggest Assignment Is Behind Him

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Gary Nolan will be the starting pitcher in Cincinnati's first World Series game since 1961, but as far as Nolan is concerned his biggest assignment is behind him.

"Winning the playoffs was the most important thing," Nolan said. "It was bigger than winning the World Series because we needed it to get into the World Series."

IN 10TH

Nolan, a 13-year-old California high school pupil the last time the Reds won a pennant, shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates for nine innings in the first National League playoff game and picked up the victory when the Reds won 3-0 in the 10th.

They followed with 3-1 and 3-2 wins and face the Baltimore Orioles here Saturday in the World Series opener.

"I'll have a lot of time to think about the Orioles, but I don't think the pressure will build up enough to bother me," Nolan said. "I'm sort of a calm, down-to-earth guy.

"I think there's more pressure fighting to get into the World Series. Once you're there, pride will carry you. If you have a good game, you win, that's all."

WEEK OFF

During the regular season, Nolan completed only 4 of 37 starts while posting an 18-7 season in the low minors and record and 3.26 earned run average. He was not concerned that the week's rest between last Saturday's playoff opener and his Saturday's series opener might bother him.

"I need four or five days to recuperate after winning the pennant," he said. "Maybe I shouldn't say recuperate. I didn't go on a four-day drunk."

Nolan came up to Cincinnati in 1967 after less than a full compiled a 14-8 record, including five shutouts, and a 2.58 earned run average. But he threw too hard and hurt his arm and had to spend part of 1968 and 1969 in the minors.

"I've learned already what many pitchers don't learn until late in their careers," he said. "I've developed the curve and I can pace myself. I'm a more complete pitcher now."

SCOUT

Jim Russo, the Baltimore scout who trailed the Reds the past couple of weeks, said Nolan also has one of the best change-ups in baseball, a pitch he was taught by Johnny Edwards, the former Cincinnati catcher.

Nolan pitched against the Orioles once before, in spring training of 1969, but doesn't remember much about them.

"they don't know much about me, either, so I'll just go out and work my regular game," he said.

WHITE HOUSES ON A KNOLL

Weaver Sounds Warning

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Forget about the Astroturf in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

Instead, think about the white houses over the knoll beyond the outfield at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

At least manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles thinks those white houses are going to be more of a factor in the World Series than the Astroturf.

MAIN TOPIC

Of course, the turf has been a main topic of conversation in the pre-game speculation since Cincinnati is the first team to host a World Series with an artificial surface. The Orioles aren't used to playing on it since Chicago has the only artificial surface in the American League — and even there it's only on the infield.

But Weaver claims those white houses will bother the Reds more than Astroturf will bother the Orioles.

Although some observers think Baltimore should go to Cincinnati early to practice on the turf, Weaver says, "The Reds are the team which should come here early to practice against that hitting background. Our field will be more of a factor than their field."

The white houses on the knoll beyond the outfield, rarely pose a problem, since the Orioles play a majority of their games at night — but in the day time the ball comes right out of those white houses.

COMPLAINED

"The Minnesota players complained in the series that their players were definitely afraid of getting hit, because they couldn't pick up the ball against the white background," Weaver said. "It even bothers our players, but they're more used to it."

It may be a coincidence but in the four World Series games and three playoff games played in October in this park in the last five years, most have been low scoring games. The scores have been 1-0, 1-0, 4-3, in 12 innings, 1-0 in 11 innings, 4-1, 2-1, and 6-1.

It may also be a coincidence that the Orioles have won six of those seven games, losing only 2-1 to Jerry Koosman in the second game of last year's Series.

Weaver said the Orioles did give the Astroturf a lot of thought before deciding it wasn't necessary to go to Cincinnati before Friday for Saturday's first game.

NOT NECESSARY

"After talking to the players, I honestly didn't feel it was necessary to go to Cincinnati early. The Robinsons and Boog Powell played in the stadium in the All-Star game and they all said all you needed was one practice to get accustomed to the field. And we'll have two since we'll have one on Saturday before the game, besides one on Friday."

Baltimore had an off day Tuesday but will practice at home on Wednesday and Thursday.

Weaver even tried to make the case that Cincinnati could have trouble with the Baltimore grass. "Grass can change a lot every day depending on the moisture and its length," Weaver said.

Asked about the fact that the Orioles are listed as a slight underdog in the odds, Weaver smiled, "Jimmy the Greek doesn't know about those white houses."

Benefield To Be Honored At Testimonial Dinner

By RALPH CHATOIAN

When Glidden R. (Bennie) Benefield retired from the Tamalpais High School District two years ago he said he was going to do a lot of fishing.

He was true to his word, catching fish in New Zealand, the South Pacific Islands, Canada, Alaska, Ireland and parts of the U.S.

At 68, Benefield keeps more active than persons half his age. Since his retirement he has spent a week on a back packing trip in the Wind River Range of Wyoming and another at the 10,000 foot elevation of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

TESTIMONIAL

Benefield will be the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner dance Oct. 24 at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club, San Rafael, put on by a group calling itself "Bennie's Buddies Committee."

When Bennie retired, he was a Tam district project writer for federal grants. At one time he was the dean of Marin County track coaches. A native of Tennessee, he helped coach track and football while teaching English at San Rafael High School from 1927 to 1929. Then he went to Tamalpais High where he taught vocational guidance and coached football and track. he was the school's physical education chairman during World War II.

GLIDDEN R. BENEFIELD
Former coach

He helped organize Tam High's first cross-country running team in 1950 and became one of three men honored by the California Interscholastic Federation for their work to promote cross country running in the North Coast area.

Benefield coached high school football for 20 years and coached track and field for 35 years.

"I went out a winner," he laughs about his last year of coaching high school football. "My last year was 1948 and we won the North Bay League championship at Tam."

A graduate of University of California, Benefield, was first president of the Marin Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. He still gets together with some coaching friends and music teachers who still sing barbershop quartet fashion. The group, once known as "Bennie's Boys," now calls itself the Meadowlarks.

Getting back to fishing, Bennie's No. 1 hobby, he prefers fly fishing but tries it all. He even did some spear fishing with the natives at Figi Island. In New Zealand he fly fished for rainbow and brown trout, and used air-type spear guns at Morea. At Tahiti and Bora Bora he did some deep sea fishing, winning himself a 180-pound tuna in the process.

A TRIO

In his back packing trip into the High Sierra, he went with teaching buddies Fred Hines and Ralph Phelps. And Hines, veteran tennis coach at San Rafael High, was quarterback on Bennie's 1928 San Rafael High School football team.

Benefield now resides with wife Erma at 114 Avenda Mira Flores, Tiburon. When he retired in June of 1968, he told an Independent-Journal reporter:

BASEBALL BRASS HUDDLES

Umpires Continue Talks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whether another call will be made for minor league umpires to work the World Series, as they did the first game of the playoffs, may be determined today in the office of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn was to meet with American League President Joe Cronin, National League chief Charles "Chub" Feeney and Jack Reynolds, attorney for the Major League Umpires Association, in an attempt to settle the umps' demands for higher pay for working the playoffs and Series.

The umpires, demanding an increase of from $2,500 to $5,000 for the playoffs and from $6,500 to $10,000 for the Series, struck last week's first playoff games at Pittsburgh and Minneapolis. However, they were back on the job the following day after agreeing to a temporary settlement which called for $500 raises for both the playoffs and Series.

At the time of the temporary settlement, however, the umpires made it clear they were returning to work only because baseball agreed to negotiate "in good faith" their demands for higher post season wages.

When the regular umpires did strike prior to the first game, six minor league umpires and two umpiring supervisors from the AL were recruited to work the two playoff games.

Youth, Size, Aggressiveness For New Look Seals

By RON SUPINSKI

OAKLAND (UPI) — Youth, size and aggressiveness are the ingredients coach Fred Glover hopes will revitalize the Oakland Seals under a new ownership.

During the off-season, Glover and his assistants blanketed the Canadian winterland in search of raw, young talent which could develop to change the image of the Seals from featherweight checkers to bouncy battlers.

TOP PROSPECTS

In defenseman Ted McAneely, 19, and forward Chris Oddliefson, 20, the Seals came out of the amateur draft with two of Canada's top hockey prospects. Both stand an excellent chance of making the club.

Oddliefson, 6-1 and 175 pounds, suffered an influenza attack before the opening of training camp and was sent to Providence. But he has since been recalled and is working at right wing and center.

McAneely is a sturdy 185-pound defenseman who had 11 goals and 35 assists with Edmonton last season. But more important, McAneely hits with authority.

Other players rated high in Glover's book because of their aggressiveness are defenseman Ron Stackhouse from Haliburton, Ont., and center Dennis Hextall, a 180-pounder who played with Springfield and Montreal of the American Hockey League last season.

WITH VADNAIS

Stackhouse has been teaming with all-star Carol Vadnais on defense in pre-season games and he tallied two goals in a Seals victory over Philadelphia. Vadnais topped the Seals with 24 goals last season despite spending 212 minutes in the penalty box.

Other youngsters who stand a fine chance of making the squad are right wing Tony Featherstone, center Peter Laframboise, wings Ernie Hicke, Hilliard Graves and Randy Rota and defenseman Neil Nicholson. Hicke, 22, is the younger brother of Seals regular Bill Hicke.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics baseball team, purchased the Seals this summer from Trans National Communications. The controversial insurance magnate from the midwest immediately sought to inject some color into the team by changing uniform colors to kelly green and Fort Knox gold, plugging for white shoe skates and promising to install live Seals in the lobby of the Oakland Arena. Also, of late, he's calling the team the Bay Area Seals in an obvious move to gain wider support.

TO VOTE

So far, the colored-shoes tidbit has been approved by the NHL Board of Governors but Finley won't insist on white shoes for the Seals unless a majority of the players go along with him.

Bad news for the Seals has occurred in the contract signing department with only eight players having inked 1970-71 agreements. Veteran defenseman Harry Howell, Vadnais and goalie Gary Smith are having their contracts reviewed as part of an arbitration agreement.

Defenseman Bert Marshall and center Mike Laughton will miss the season opener in Detroit Oct. 9. Marshall is still wearing a cast on his fractured wrist and Laughton has one on his knee following surgery. Marshall's cast comes off Saturday but Laughton will be out of action until Christmas.

DEFENSEMEN

Other wings are Norm Ferguson, Gary Jarrett and Gary Croteau. Doug Roberts and Wayne Muloin return to bolster the defense corps. And Bob Sneddon from Springfield and Ross Brooks from Providence are battling for the backup spot behind goalie Smith.

But the major problem bothering Glover is getting his players to score more goals. The Seals tallied 169 last season, second lowest in the NHL while allowing 243, the third highest.

ALL IN A NIGHT'S WORK

St. Louis goalie Glenn Hall was forced into the net when Minnesota's J. P. Parise (11), and Bill Goldsworthy (8), fought with Bob Plager of the Blues for the loose puck after Hall blocked a shot by Parise last night in St. Louis. Hall covered the puck, Referee Ron Wicks signaled no goal and the Blues went on to defeat the North Stars, 4-2. (UPI Telephoto)

Players To Decide For Selves

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Saturday's Southern Illinois-Wichita State football game was canceled Tuesday in the wake of a Colorado plane crash which wiped out the heart of the Shockers' team.

A decision on whether to play the Shockers' other six games this season was left to the players.

The W.S.U. assistant coaches scheduled a meeting to discuss the school's football program. They were also to meet with the players, either Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

The players were to vote on whether to continue the 1970 season after meeting with the coaches.

Dr. Clark Ahlberg, university president, met with W.S.U. players Tuesday morning and told them the decision was up to them. Dr. Robert Holmer, W.S.U. faculty representative to the Missouri Valley Conference, said he did not want to express an opinion regarding the school's grid future this year because he did not want the players to feel they were being pressured by the university.

Head coach Ben Wilson and 13 front-line players were among 30 persons killed when one of two planes carrying the squad to Utah State crashed and burned in the mountains 55 miles west of Denver.

Also killed was Bert Katzenmeyer, the school's athletic director.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL ODDS

USC Is Four-Point Pick To Turn Back Stanford

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ohio State, ranked No. 1 in the nation seeks its third consecutive win of the 1970 season when it travels to East Lansing, Mich. Saturday to battle Michigan State, and some oddsmakers still haven't figured the point spread for the Buckeyes. Michigan State was blanked by Notre Dame 29-0 on Saturday.

Texas, which edged UCLA last week in the last 12 seconds to extend its victory streak to 23, is a 15-point pick over Oklahoma. The Sooners lost, 23-14 to Oregon State last week after winning over SMU and Wisconsin.

Third-ranked Notre Dame (3-0), which has held the opposition scoreless through 10 consecutive quarters plays host to an Army team (1-3) which has scored only three points in two games. No line is yet available.

In other games, ninth-ranked Auburn (3-0) is favored by 16 over Clemson, Penn State by 9 1-2 over Boston College, Harvard by seven over Columbia, Dartmouth 12 over Princeton, 16th-rated West Virginia (4-0) by 13 over Duke, eighth-ranked Michigan (3-0) by four over Purdue and North Carolina by four over South Carolina.

Brown finds itself a 21-point underdog to Yale, and Virginia Tech is seven points down to Wake Forest. Cornell is favored by 13 over Penn, Florida by 5 1-2 over Florida State. Tennessee, ranked 17th, is rated 3 1-2 over 15th-ranked Georgia Tech (4-0) while sixth-ranked Mississippi (3-0) is a 7 1-2 favorite over Georgia. Pittsburgh rates as 14 better than Navy.

Also, Houston rates by 9 1-2 over Mississippi State, Northwestern by 2 1-2 over Illinois, Minnesota by two over Indiana, Wisconsin by 2 1-2 over Iowa, Kansas State by seven over Kansas and Oklahoma State by 6 1-2 over TCU.

Air Force, seventh-ranked, is the 13 1-2 point choice over Tulane, while Colorado is figured 14 better than Iowa State, and Washington 4 1-2 over California. UCLA is favored by 9½ over Oregon in a night game.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Because your fingers are what produce pin-toppling spin, you should get your thumb out of the ball first at release. This gives your fingers a chance to press upward and spin the ball as it leaves your hand.

Troy Tops Football Statistics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—As Southern California emerges as the class of the Pacific Eight grid scene, the statistics are starting to reflect the Trojans' power.

USC leads in total offense in latest Pac-8 figures with an average of 538 yards per game. The Trojans are by far the top rushing club at 343 yards per contest, a full 125 yards ahead of runner-up Washington State.

Only in the passing does USC give way. Oregon and Stanford are fighting for that crown with the Ducks leading the tribe 298 yards per game to 280.

USC also leads in rushing defense (112 yards per game) and total defense (260). Washington has the most iron-clad pass defense, allowing but 134 yards per game.

In the individual figures, an old familiar face has appeared on top of the rushers with 1969 leader Clarence Davis of the Trojans number one at 403 yards in four games for better than a 100 yards per game average.

Jim Plunkett of Stanford still dominates things with 270 yards per game in total offense and 253.5 yards per game passing.

There is a cloud on Plunkett's horizon, however. UCLA's Dennis Dummit had a big day against Texas to move up to 213.0 yards per game.

Oregon State's Mike Nehl is the top punter with a hefty 42.5 average and Oregon sensation Bob Newland has grabbed 28 passes for 478 yards to dominate those statistics.

Hurting Eagles Acquire Running Back From Lions

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles, hurting for running backs because of injuries, Tuesday acquired second-year veteran Larry Watkins from the Detroit Lions for an undisclosed draft choice.

Watkins, a running back from Alcorn A&M, was signed as a free agent by the Lions in 1969 and rushed for 201 yards in 62 attempts for a 3.2 average and one touchdown.

Watkins, a native of Bessemer, Ala., also caught 13 passes for 87 yards.

The Eagles, 0-3 in regular season play, also activated defensive back Nate Ramsey from the injured "move" list.

Ramsey, injured in the opener against the Dallas Cowboys, missed the next two games because of injured ribs.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—Dave Hampton, hero of the Green Bay Packers' 13-10 victory over the Minnesota Vikings Sunday, underwent surgery Tuesday night for what was described as a pelvic abscess.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Offensive guard Tom Regner of the Houston Oilers of the American Football Conference underwent knee surgery Tuesday and will be lost to the club for the remainder of the season.

High Risk Offense For Cal Bears

BERKELEY (UPI)—Look for the University of California to gamble a bit more on offense Saturday against the University of Washington.

Coach Ray Willsey said he is installing a new "high risk" offense, which he hopes will also have a "high yield."

Three Bears who hurt ankles on artificial turf, safety Joe Acker, runner Bob Darby, and corner back Dave Lawson are expected to be in good shape against the Huskies. But linemen Neil Agnew, with a shoulder bruise, and Bob Rogers, who has a virus, are more doubtful for the Husky tiff.

SPORTS SHORTS

Boxing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The featherweight fight between Jose Moreno and Ray Echavarria scheduled for tomorrow has been postponed until Nov. 6 because Moreno suffered an injury in training.

Water Skiing

Price will be pulled by a 22-foot Sciata ocean race boat driven by Harry Schilling, restauranteur who is sponsoring the event.

General

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sponsorship of the Helms Athletic Foundation was assumed Tuesday by the United Savings and Loan Association.

Headquarters for the foundation, which was begun in 1936 by Paul Helms, also will be moved a few miles from its present location to the headquarters of United near International Airport.

Basketball

BOATING

Boating Is Added Skill For Any Outdoor Hobby

By STAN DAVIES

One reason boating has become so popular is that it complements almost any other hobby or pastime you can think of.

Look at the many activities that can be coupled with boating: Swimming, fishing, hunting, bird watching, nature study, photography, and practically every other do-it-yourself hobby there is.

It's also one of the last areas of freedom and innovation left in our over-regulated, regimented lives. Some of the questions I've been asked spell this out:

Q. We have a beautiful retreat in the north woods, but the shore is pebbly and wears out the bottom of our boat. Any suggestions?

A. Lay an old auto tire at the water's edge as a landing field. You can sink it into a depression in the stones if you like so it's firmly anchored. Big truck tires are best and you can use two or three.

Q. I'm a duck hunter. Can I train a dog that's a great retriever to work from a boat?

A. Nail one inch strips to a two-foot length of plywood (about a foot wide) to make a "staircase" that you can hang over the harness, too, so that someone on board can grab Rover and help him over the gunwale. You'll never lose a bird.

Q. I'm taking an extensive trip south this winter. I want to fish wherever I can. Is it worthwhile taking my small outboard motor?

A. If it's a light fishing motor, don't go without it. From Key West to Ensenada you can rent boats for a couple of bucks a day, but a motor can cost up to $20.

BODY HARNESS MAKES IT EASY TO RETRIEVE A RETRIEVER FROM WATER.

Q. Every picture I take from our boat shows a blur due to movement. Is there an answer?

A. First and foremost, try to take every picture as you are approaching or going away from your subject, rather than when you are passing it broadside. Use the fastest shutter speed you can with the exposure required, and try this: When you are about to snap the shutter, have someone close the throttle. As the boat slows you will feel no vibration from the engine. Brace yourself firmly. Hold your breath as you snap.

Q. Is it possible to make your own water skis?

A. Very easily. Use five-eighths inch marine grade plywood. Copy the dimensions from a pair you like. The difficult part is the bend at the front. This is done by saw cuts through all but the bottom ply. Cover the skis with fiber glass and resin. This will hold the bent shape permanently.

Q. We are taking water ski jumping. Who started it?

A. The first jump on water skis was 25 feet made in 1928 by Dick Pope, who later ran the ski shows at Cypress Gardens, Fla. His son Dick Pope, Jr. is still an aquatic performer.

Dickey Rejoins Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI)—Eldridge Dickey has decided to play for the Oakland Raiders again after a week of prayer and fasting.

He returned after learning the illness was not as serious as first feared, but then left the squad again.

He said Tuesday that after contemplating his situation and undergoing a six-day fast, he had decided to return to the grid wars.

He said that he fasts twice a year because "it's one of my own beliefs. I'm kind of a religious person. There were many things that needed praying for."

He said these included both his boy's health and his own playing status.

"It shakes up any athlete to be put on the taxi squad," he said.

Dickey, number one draft choice from Ttennessee A&I, was a quarterback in college but was drafted as a wide receiver.

Gowdy Heads TV Team For 'Series'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Curt Gowdy, Jim McIntyre and Chuck Thompson will handle the television play-by-play of the 1970 World Series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Baltimore Orioles starting Saturday, it was announced Tuesday by the National Broadcasting Company.

Gowdy, a veteran announcer who worked NBC's Game of the Week during the regular season, will team with McIntyre, the Reds' announcer, when the teams play in Cincinnati. Thompson, the Orioles' mike-man, will join Growdy when the Series switches to Baltimore.

Television coverage will begin at 9:45 a.m., PDT with the pregame show, World Series Report, starring Joe Garagiola, Mickey Mantle and Sandy Koufax, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Third Straight Win

The Marin Catholic High School Wildkittens won their third straight Marin County Athletic League "C" basketball game last night as they manhandled the Redwood Giants, 53-14 at Redwood. Mike Ahern led the assault with 18 points.

Castoff QB Mira Signs With Colts

MIAMI (UPI)—George Mira, castoff quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles and the San Francisco 49ers, signed Tuesday with the Baltimore Colts.

Mira, a former University of Miami star, said he turned down a "good offer" from the Minnesota Vikings and also was contacted by the Kansas City Chiefs, "but the Chiefs had not yet made a specific offer."

Mira, who met with Colts General Manager Don Klosterman here during the day and flew back to Baltimore with Klosterman Tuesday night, said he felt he would have a better chance to break into the starting lineup playing behind 37-year-old Johnny Unitas and 36-year-old Earl Morrall at Baltimore.

He pointed out that Minnesota's Gary Cuozzo "is about the same age as me" and has two young backups in Bill Cappleman and Bob Lee. Kansas City's Len Dawson also has younger men behind him in Mike Livingston and Jacky Lee.

Mira was traded to Philadelphia by San Francisco last year, then was put on waivers by the Eagles about two weeks ago.

"We feel fortunate to get Mira," Klosterman said. "He certainly has a lot of ability. he's young (28) and we feel he'll contribute a great deal to our football team."

Asked about the fact that the Eagles let Mira go, Klosterman said, "People make mistakes in football just as in every other business.

"We have a quarterback named John Unitas who was dropped by a pro team. And the Chiefs have one named Lenny Dawson who also was passed up."

Mira said he will begin practicing with Baltimore immediately. He said he called Unitas Monday night and "John said he'd give me all the help he possibly could. And I know I can learn from him."

Stanford-USC Game To Draw Full House

STANFORD (UPI)—Despite the 26-14 upset by Purdue, nobody is turning in their tickets for Stanford's upcoming battle with unbeaten USC. Ninety-thousand will show up.

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 7, the 280th day of 1970.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

On this day in history:

In 1863 William Gladstone, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, predicted the American Confederacy would remain separated from the northern states permanently.

In 1916 the most staggering defeat in football history took place when Georgia Tech trounced Cumberland University, 222-0.

In 1961 a British airliner crashed in French Pyrenees, killing 37 persons.

In 1963 Bobby Baker resigned as Senate Democratic secretary after being charged in a $300,000 civil suit with using his influence for personal monetary gain.

A thought for today: American poet James Whitcomb Riley said, "When over the fair fame of friend or foe the shadow of disgrace shall fall, instead of words of blame, or proof of thus and so, let something good be said."

Chamber Supports Marin College Bond

Directors of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce has unanimously endorsed a bond issue and tax override for the College of Marin on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Measure B seeks a 25-cent tax override for college operations, while Measure C is a $17 million bond issue, most of which would finance construction of the college's Novato campus.

South Should Have Made This Contract Without Tossing Coin

"What this country needs is a good five-cent nickel," writes an angry correspondent. "In the old days you could toss a coin to find out which way to finesse, and you'd have at least an even chance. The modern nickel always steers you the wrong way, and the buffalo just laughs in your face."

Opening lead -- ♡ Q

HEART LEAD

My correspondent won the first trick with the ace of hearts, led a diamond to dummy's king and tried a finesse with the queen of spades. West took the king of spades and the jack of hearts and got out with a diamond to dummy's ace.

Declarer ruffed the jack of diamonds, led the ace of trumps and then gave up a trump, hoping that West would return a club. West unobligingly led a third heart, which was safe enough since dummy was out of trumps. South ruffed and had to guess which oppenent had the queen of clubs.

Using his favorite bridge planning device, South took out a nickel and tossed it in the air. Since the fall of the nickel told him to finesse through West; my correspondent lost the setting trick to East's queen of clubs.

IMPORTANT DECISION

Should American bridge players rise in their wrath and demand better nickels — or did South misplay the hand? Decide your yourself before you read on.

The mints can relax. South should have made the contract without having to toss a coin.

After winning the first trick with the ace of hearts South should lead the ace of spades. When nothing wonderful happens on this trick South takes the top diamonds and ruffs a diamond. Then he gives up the losing heart.

If the winner of the heart trick leads a spade, South will lose only one spade trick. If a club is returned, South will get a free finesse. If a red suit is returned, dummy can ruff while South discards a club.

Save your nickels for the real problems.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠-6 4 3
♥-6 4
♦-A K J
♣-A J 5 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

You expect to reach a game of some description, but you cannot tell at this moment whether it will be in spades, clubs or no-trump. Show your long suit and await developments.

Tiburon Supports Sewer Proposition

Directors of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce yesterday endorsed Proposition 1 on the Nov. 3 ballot providing for $250 million in state funds to help local communities build sewage treatment facilities.

The board also voted $25 to sponsor two Vietnam War veterans at a dinner to be given in their honor Nov. 11.

Steady Growth Put Crown Cork Ahead

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We have shares of Crown Cork & Seal bought quite a while ago. During the past year, the stock has held up fairly well. Should we buy more for growth? N. M.

A. Yes. Crown Cork & Seal offers above-average appreciation potential over the long term. The company holds an enviable and uninterrupted record of growth. In the past ten years, sales have more than tripled; steadily uptrending earnings have reached peak levels in each of the ten years. Moreover, aided by aggressive expansion abroad and the increasing use of metal cans by the beverage industry, further substantial gains are expected in the future. Beer and soft drink cans alone contribute about 20-25 per cent of sales. Despite the general sluggishness of the economy, net income for the first half of 1970, ended June, chalked-up a gain of 14 per cent on a 9.7 per cent increase in sales. Currently selling at around 11x 1971's earnings estimates, shares represent an extremely attractive commitment.

Q. In 1961 I purchased Santa Fe Industries at $31 a share, now down about 40 per cent. Would you recommend holding for recovery? Do you consider the dividend rate secure? W. S.

A. Not entirely, in view of the fact that June quarter earnings of 41 cents barely covered the 40 cent dividend disbursed in that quarter. However, recent freight rate increases may help turn earnings around, which would strengthen the dividend outlook. Freight receipts continue to account for the bulk of revenues — about 90 per cent. Shares have limited investment appeal and should be sold.

Nixon Speculation Excites Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, down sharply during the morning as a result of profit taking, came bounding back in the final half hour of trading Wednesday amid widespread belief President Nixon will have a dramatic announcement when he addresses the nation on Vietnam at night. Trading was heavy.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones industrial average, the barometer of 30 selected Blue Chips, showed a gain of 0.82 to 783.27 after being off around 6 points early in the session.

Among the day's most active issues were Denny's Restaurants and Faberge, both fractionally higher. The latter said it expected to report a third quarter loss.

RADIOACTIVITY MEASURES WAX WEAR

A scientist at Johnson Wax's test laboratory in Racine, Wis., is laying radioactive tiles on a traffic test floor. Once the entire floor is waxed, the walking shoes at the right will tramp out 57 miles and when the wax begins wearing, the rea radioactivity on a geiger counter will start rising.

Ace Letter Service Acquires New Automated Equipment

There has been another expansion at Ace Letter Service, San Rafael, with the addition of new equipment allowing this firm to take on more volume and do faster duplicating work.

Owner Vernon Burns has acquired three new machines — a magnetic tape selector composer, a magnetic tape selector typewriter and a fully automatic duplicating system with electronic controls. The latter will handle up to 50 plates and can be programmed to carry out all of its operations from start to finish without intermediate supervision.

Burns has been in the business three years — originally as a partner and for the last two years as sole owner. Since last February the company has doubled its staff and now has eight full-time employees and one part-time employee.

STUART AND CAREE ROSE of Sausalito, husband and wife team of development managers of Ghirardelli Square in San Francisco, will open their own development consultant business at the end of this year. But they will continue as consultants for the square and will serve on its advisory board. They have been with the square since its opening in 1964.

They are best known in Marin for the number of houses they built and sold in Sausalito several years ago and for their development of the Village Fair in Sausalito from an abandoned concrete garage in 1956.

REAL ESTATE: Among the official delegates of the Marin County Board of Realtors to this week's California Real Estate Association convention in San Francisco are board president Bruce Shafer of Sausalito, William Bush and Robert Roumiguiere of San Rafael, Ross Tankersley of Novato, Don Beacock of Earle and Solvason, Corte Madera and Jan Volk of Pingree and Co., Corte Madera.

JOHN A. LUCCHESI of Tiburon has been promoted to vice president in the national division at Bank of America's San Francisco headquarters. He joined the bank at Gridley in 1962 and became manager at Tulelake in 1966. He was named assistant vice president in the national division two years ago.

BETTY WASLEY of Greenbrae has been named public relations director for William Cain, Inc., San Francisco advertising agency. For the past 18 months she has been in charge of all publications for California Blue Shield in the public relations and advertising department. Previously she was with Frank DiMarco and Associates in San Francisco and before that did free lance public relations for several years in San Francisco and Marin County.

ROBERT M. COMAN of San Rafael has been made a distributor for Ussury Industries, Inc., a national confection vending company. He has invested in the local operation and will be responsible for distribution, maintenance and service functions in this area.

Newspaper Week: Time To Look At Press Ethics

The role of the press is a favorite topic for discussion, public and private.

Guaranteed freedom under the Constitution, the press freely criticizes — and in its turn is freely criticized by others, who are similarly guaranteed freedom of speech. The press would have it no other way, for freedom of speech and of the press are inseparable.

Mostly, the press does not call much attention to itself. But once each year, during National Newspaper Week, it likes to do so.

This is National Newspaper Week, so it seems appropriate to print today the Canons of Journalism of the American Society of Newspaper Editors — the code of ethics which this newspaper, like most others in the country, attempts to follow. Here it is:

RESPONSIBILITY — The right of a newspaper to attract and hold readers is restricted by nothing but considerations of public welfare. The use a newspaper makes of the share of public attention it gains serves to determine its sense of responsibility, which it shares with every member of its staff. A journalist who uses his power for any selfish or otherwise unworthy purpose is faithless to a high trust.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS — Freedom of the press is to be guarded as a vital right of mankind. It is the unquestionable right to discuss whatever is not explicitly forbidden by law, including the wisdom of any restrictive statute.

INDEPENDENCE —Freedom from all obligations except that of fidelity to the public interest is vital.

SINCERITY, TRUTHFULNESS, ACCURACY — Good faith with the reader is the foundation of all journalism worthy of the name.

IMPARTIALITY — Sound practice makes clear distinction between news reports and expressions of opinion. News reports should be free from opinion or bias of any kind.

FAIR PLAY — A newspaper should not publish unofficial charges affecting reputation or moral character without opportunity given to the accused to be heard; right practice demands the giving of such opportunity in all cases of serious accusation outside judicial proceedings.

DECENCY —A newspaper cannot escape conviction of insincerity if while professing high moral purpose it supplies incentives to base conduct.

Like other professions and callings, that of newspapering includes among its ranks many who try hard to live up to its code of ethics and a few who regard the code lightly.

National Newspaper Week seems a good time to remind ourselves of the Canons of Journalism, and to inform the public that they exist. We regard them as important, since they embody the responsibilities that must accompany the right to a free press — just as every freedom demands responsibility if it is not to be lost.

Early Fall, Again

Have you been noticing the abundance of autumnal color? The hills around San Rafael are yellow and orange. Trees all over the county are assuming their characteristic fall colors.

This led us to muse about fall, again. We had been passing on signs and predictions of an early fall for almost a month. But exactly what did we mean by early fall?

We thought we meant the early arrival of our cold, wet weather. But, really, October is usually warm, relatively dry, and quite sunny in Marin and Sonoma.

This led us to the dictionary, where we learned, "Fall is the season when the leaves fall off the trees." If this is our basis, we are having an early fall right now.

Just for the heck of it, we looked up autumn, too. "Autumn is the season between summer and winter." Not much help there.

We thus concluded, judging from the trees and some bird migrations, that biological fall had arrived. Now, we are wondering: can meteorological

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Proposition 2, 3 And 4 Call For Unnecessary Amendment

(This is the second of a series on the 20 propositions before the electorate on Nov. 3 general election ballot.)

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Proposition 2 is a wholly unnecessary new provision of the constitution, calling for the state supreme court to determine inability of elected officials to function, and giving the governor authority to appoint someone if the elected officer is declared disabled.

The amendment was proposed after the year-long illness of the late Secy. of State Frank M. Jordan, who was unable to function because of paralysis. However, his office ran as usual through designation of his deputy to perform the functions.

Adopting a constitutional amendment to take care of a situation that might occur once in a lifetime appears to be a useless gesture ,especially when the amendment might be used to harass a public official.

Proposition 3 calls for the governor to submit the annual budget to the state legislature within the first 10 days of the legislative session, rather than the first 30 days.

Here again is a useless gesture, designed to speed up legislative processes by getting the budget in 10 days sooner, and passed by June 15, or 15 days ahead of the beginning of the new fiscal year.

While this sounds like a good idea, there seems to be little necessity for a constitutional amendment to force the legislature to do what it is supposed to do anyhow, that is to attend to the business of the state by providing a proper budget at the proper time.

Proposition 4 falls into the same category. This amendment would empower the state legislature to pass school appropriation measures prior to passage of the budget, provided it has not acted upon the budget 130 days after introduction of the budget bill.

All this would mean would be the separation of school appropriations from other appropriations, giving priority to educational financing.

School interests claim they need this measure to provide time for proper planning to enable them to spend the money appropriated for the schools.

The bad part of Proposition 4 results from the fact that it contemplates division of budgetary questions and budgetary needs. If education can run in ahead of other state functions and tie up certain amounts of money, this would appear to be inimical to other state interests.

The procedure would, in effect, disrupt the budgetary process strictly on the basis of convenience to educators and school districts.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Bennett Silent On Some Issues

As with your editorial endorsement of Governor Reagan, the I-J was so right (Oct. 2) in comparing the records of the candidates for State Board of Equalization — Ernest N. Kettenhofen and William M. Bennett. This self-styled "friend of the consumer" made a lot of noise before the State Public Utilities Commission during the summer-long hearings on the $190 million rate increase application of Pacific Telephone. He was strangely silent as to the company's $1.3 million paid last year to a San Francisco law firm; wholesale "monitoring" of calls (yours and mine); the "resigned" S.F. police chief unloaded on the company by Mayor Alioto to replace Douglas Hayden, nationally known communications "security" expert. This and more, supported by documentary evidence, I got into the PUC hearing record Aug. 13, after Mr. Bennett and other "liberals" along with Commissioner A.W. Gatov, one of two surviving Democrats on the PUC, would not even return my phone calls.

Animal Population Explosion Serious

This letter is in regard to the animal "population explosion" which, I believe — and I am sure many readers share my views — is of vital concern to all residents of our county, as well as to the entire country.

We have read, on numerous occasions, of incidents involving dog packs which run down deer in the Phoenix Lake area, of people being attacked and bitten by stray dogs, and complaints against our Humane Society for the quick disposal of unwanted animals. However, in all these instances, the blame can be placed squarely at the feet of those individuals who, through ignorance or plain thoughtlessness, fail to have their dogs andcats spayed and neutered, allowing their animals to breed indiscriminately, and then produce litters of puppies and kittens which cannot all be placed in homes. Abandonment is another result of the animal overpopulation. These poor creatures are left to shift for themselves and will frequently gather in packs and attack wildlife in order to survive. Last but not least, are the dog owners who allow their animals to wander through the neighborhood from dawn to dusk, unattended, and whose responsibility to their animals ends with a bowl of food each day.

May I suggest that readers of the Independent-Journal who are concerned with the problem of breeding surplus animals, contact the Humane Society of the United States, 1145 - 19th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, for copies of folders dealing with the animal "population explosion" problem and what can be done about it. . .

Pediatric Office Vitally Needed

The Southern Marin Pediatric Office in Manzanita Center, Marin City, provides free medical care to needy children. As the school nurse for Marin City, I know that the loss of this vital service would increase the hardships those youngsters face. Parents are often too exhausted to travel long distances for medical care except in dire emergencies, so children often suffer from chronic or "minor" illnesses. (In this age of dramatic heart transplants etc. it is easy to dismiss much of man's miseries as "minor". To the person suffering, its not minor!)

Since all the children of Marin are our future, I would like to urge all it's citizens to support this important facility.

Anti-Drug Center Approval Praised

The San Rafael Planning Commission is to be commended for voting to permit the Marin Open House anti-drug center permission to operate in San Rafael.

Now that the center has a home, its planned education efforts should provide invaluable assistance helping the addict overcome his habit.

Only by aiding the addict to overcome the crime he commits against himself, will the growing rash of crimes committed by addicts to support their habit be reduced and productive citizens returned to our society.

Courts Cite Sound Reason For Ban On Public Strikes

(Reprinted from Sacramento Bee)

A California Supreme Court action upholding a ban on strikes by public employes deserves careful attention during these days of increased militancy and strike threats among government workers.

The high court refused to consider an appeal from a state court of appeal ruling that those on the public payroll lack the legal right to strike unless specifically granted it by positive action of an appropriate law-making body.

The decision was reached in a case involving a threatened walkout by 800 San Diego City employes but it has important consequences everywhere in the state, including Sacramento where firemen, engaged in difficult negotiations with the city, are threatening to strike.

THE SUPREME court's refusal to hear an appeal from the lower court decision fortunately and wisely has the effect of leaving a powerful anti-strike weapon in the hands of the public agencies. They will be able to obtain injunctions against strikes, leaving individual employes and worker organizations open to punishment for disobeying court orders.

Why should public employes be treated differently from private employes? The answer is given in one sentence in the lower court's ruling which the Supreme Court refused to consider overturning. Appeal Court Justice Martin Coughlin correctly stated:

"The legitimate and compelling state interest accomplished and promoted by the law denying public employes the right to strike is not simply the need for a particular government service but the preservation of a system of government."

EFFORTS TO DISRUPT the machinery governing and protecting an increasingly complex society are dangerous.

This does not place the onus for preserving orderly government solely on the public employes. It also imposes special responsibilities on public agencies to treat their employes fairly.

In no case, however, are strikes by public employes justified, a point emphasized by the state's courts.

THE DRUMMONDS

Minnesota Voters Can't Lose With Two Top Senate Candidates

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

MINNEAPOLIS — What will Hubert Humphrey be up to in Washington if Minnesota voters return him to the U.S. Senate as they show every sign of doing?

Will he run for President again? What will be his role in the Senate and in the Democratic Party?

The answers can be given without qualifications:

He is not going to seek it.

He will not encourage others to seek it for him.

He is not going to enter any presidential primaries and, when he can prevent it, will not allow his name to be entered in them.

He does not expect to be nominated without going after it, and the evidence is clear he isn't going after it.

THE BEST EVIDENCE that Humphrey is putting it on the line candidly and conclusively when he says these things is this

1 — He isn't trying to pretend that he wouldn't like to run for President again or wouldn't accept the nomination if it unexpectedly came to him. He would — and says so quite openly. If he said otherwise, then there would be reason to figure he was putting you on. Of course, he'd like a second try but he isn't fooling himself or others into believing he has more than a kitten's whisker of a chance.

2 — Second, he knows very well that if he rocketed himself into a controversial and devisive contest for the presidential nomination, he not only would have small chance of winning but would simutaneously wreck all the prospects of doing what he most wants to do in the Senate.

IF THESE are the things Humphrey is wisely going to pass up, what does he really want to do if he is re-elected senator after an enforced two-year sabbatical?

He aims to work cooperatively with President Nixon in a new effort to keep defense and foreign policy out of partisan politics.

He wants to see defense costs significantly reduced but not to a level to endanger national security. He wants to see the Democrats stand as decisively as the President himself is standing against a wishful isolationism.

He believes he can utilize his intimate and wide experience with government and with the whole nation, including the cities, to develop workable programs for national-growth policies for better living.

WE SUSPECT that Humphrey will feel himself the most rewarded person in the land to become a Senator-of-Prestige, a creative legislator and a force above narrow partisanship in the country.

This is why he is running for office again — and as strenuously as we have ever seen him. The polls show him well ahead. He'll have a hard time losing.

He strongly supported crucial civil rights laws in the early '60s when it was less popular to do so and did much to shape the voting-rights legislation which has done so much for Negroes. He was a major author of the Immigration Reform Act. He was an early advocate of a Council on Environmental Quality.

He is an ardent advocate of congressional reform and is ahead of the leaders of both parties. He would scrap the seniority system for choosing committee chairmen. He favors direct popular election of the President.

We do not deem it the role of this column to advocate anybody's election, but when two good men are running for the same office, it is a pleasure to say so. We wish it happened more often.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

'Bomb Tip' Case Involves Right Of Congress, Press

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The investigating powers of Congress are again under attack in a generally unpublicized case which is under consideration in the federal courts.

The case pits the congressional investigative power against a claim of press freedom. It also raises an old constitutional power struggle, between Congress and the courts.

The controversy arises from a Senate investigation of bombings — itself an explosive issue. There is a good chance that the case will finally end up in the Supreme Court.

THE ISSUE was joined when the Senate investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., sought to subpoena Thomas W. Sanders, business manager and an editorial board member of the now defunct publication, Black Politics, in Berkeley, Calif. Subcommittee staff members had tried unsuccessfully to question Sanders.

Among other things, the subpoena directed that Sanders provide the identity of a George Prosser who signed a series of articles for Black Politics.

In early August Sanders asked the federal district court here for a restraining order to block the subpoena. The district court refused, but it was overturned by the court of appeals on the following day and ordered to hear Sanders' case.

THE SUBCOMMITTEE'S hearing record includes testimony by staff investigator Philip Manuel which indicates that Sanders himself "uses the name of George Prosser to write articles for Black Politics."

At a hearing here before Judge Howard F. Corcoran, Sanders' attorney said Sanders would suffer "irreparable injury" if he had to reveal Prosser's identity.

Testimony at the court hearing referred to one of the Prosser articles which included instructions on how to make fire bombs. It commented that the Navy's big weapons depot at Port Chicago, Calif., a plant making napalm in Torrance, Calif., and said the West Coast power "grid" were vulnerable to such bombs.

However, the Prosser articles carried caveats stating, for example, that "we do not advise action now," and that violent steps were outlined "without advocating such a campaign."

IN THE SENATE, however, Chairman McClellan complained that the court sought to secure the subcommittee's confidential records in connection with the case, and he called that action "unprecedented."

At McClellan's suggestion, the Senate granted approval (necessary under the Constitution) for subcommittee staff members to testify in the court proceeding. But it specified they will be limited to the contents of the subcommittee's public hearings and other matters of public record.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

'Quiet Campus Year' Doesn't Start That Way

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Before the opening of schools this fall, there were reassuring pronouncements from the education world that campus violence would be curbed. Not everyone accepted them at face value, however.

President Nixon, in his Alfred M. Landon Lecture at Kansas State University on Sept. 15, declared:

"We all know that at some of the great universities small bands of destructionists have been allowed to impose their own rule of arbitrary force.

"Because of this, we today face the greatest crisis in the history of American education.

"And it is time for the responsible university and college administrators, faculty and student leaders to stand up and be counted, because we must remember, only they can save higher education in America. It cannot be saved by government."

THE PRESIDENT'S words brought a chorus of objections from educators. He was polarizing the country, some charged. The fault lay not with the schools but with the administration, said others. New rules and new arrangements would prevent campuses from being turned into battlefields again this year, many insisted.

But just a few hours after the President delivered that speech, a bomb exploded on the porch of a University of Colorado building in Boulder, blowing a hole through the roof. It was the first campus bombing since the new school year began. It was quickly followed by others.

Let's take one day as an example: Sept. 25.

THAT WAS the day the president of the American Council on Education and the chairman of its special committee on campus tensions called on the president. Their purpose, said Logan Wilson, the ACE president, was "to correct the misimpression" that college presidents have dealt indecisively with protests.

On that day, police in three states were hunting two young men and two young women for questioning in a murder, a bank robbery, and the looting of a National Guard arsenal — which, said police, were linked to revolutionary student activities. Two of the four sought were students at Brandeis University, the third a June graduate of Brandeis, the fourth a student at Northeastern University.

That was the day the New York Times carried a front-page story which began: "With the same openness that some students hurl Frisbees and do homework on the major lawn of the City College (of New York) campus, others congregate there to buy and use heroin."

ALSO ON that day, three students and two policemen were injured in a battle between police and rioting students at Dickinson High School in Jersey City, N.J., and 21 persons were arrested in a race riot at Atlantic City (N.J.) High School.

Also on Sept. 25, presidents of the student body and the Black Student Union at Syracuse University demanded firing of the head football coach and boycott of the opening game of the season, alleging racism on the football squad.

That was also the day, incidentally, when teachers at last reported for work at Sir Francis Drake Elementary School in San Francisco after a boycott which was ended only by the promise to hire a black principal.

THERE HAVE BEEN other days since that were not much different from Sept. 25.

Bombings and arso at schools and colleges have become so common that most of them do not even get reported except in newspapers near where they occur, unless someone is badly injured.

Shouting, violence-threatening demonstrations have become so common that many of them are not reported at all.

The American Council on Education, whose leaders sought to reassure President Nixon on Sept. 25, itself kept a tally of "protest incidents" on college and university campuses last year. It reported there were 9,400 such incidents, of which 230 led to physical violence, 410 resulted in property damage, and 731 were followed by arrests.

The count showed that two out of three institutions of higher education in the U.S. had such incidents.

DeGaulle's Word To JFK: Avoid Push In Indochina

PARIS (UPI) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle said in a new volume of memoirs published today he told John F. Kennedy in 1961 U.S. military intervention in Indochina would beg down the Americans in a costly and "endless" war.

De Gaulle said he told the late U.S. president his policy of unlimited involvement on the side of South Vietnam was bad.

De Gaulle said he told Kennedy, "for you, an intervention in this region will be an endless involvement. I predict to you that you will move forward bogging down more and more in a bottomless military and political quagmire, in spire of the losses and expenditure you may spend lavishly."

De Gaulle's book was the first volume of a new series of memoirs embracing the period between his return to power in 1958 and Algeria's independence in 1962. Called "Memoirs of Hope," it will be a trilogy. The first volume, put on sale today, is titled "Renewal" and is published by Plon, De Gaulle's regular publisher.

The new set of memoirs will end with De Gaulle's resignation after a referendum defeat in 1969.

In "Renewal", De Gaulle also said that during their 1961 meeting Kennedy assured him he would not hesistate to use nuclear weapons to prevent any Soviet seizure of Western Europe.

De Gaulle, who will be 80 years old Nov. 22, said he warned former Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion against attempts to extend Israel's frontiers and against exploitation of friendship with France.

Law Wanted Now To Halt Police Deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate was urged today to stop talking and start acting on stern new measures to clamp down on "radical revolutionaries" who are killing police and other public officials at record rates.

In the second day of hearings into outbreaks of violence against lawmen around the country, two senators urged Congress to move immediately to make such assaults a federal crime.

"With the lives of police and firemen at stake, there should be no excuse for inaction," said Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J. "We have heard a lot of rhetoric about 'law and order.' But, there comes a time when, if they are sincere, public officials must stop talking and start acting. That time is at hand ..."

Opening-day witnesses before the Senate internal security subcommittee Tuesday said nearly 600 policemen had died in assaults and bombings since 1960, with more than 20 killed so far this year. Within the past two years, firemen and judges have been targets as well.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., today described the assaults as "essentially politically motivated ... where they are attacked solely as symbols of the establishment." He blamed "radical revolutionaries" for the plots which he said were "conceived by the twisted minds of individuals bent on destroying law and order in our society."

"Society must declare loud and clear that we will not tolerate such madness," Schweiker aid.

At Tuesday's hearings, a top California official said attacks on police have increased so sharply that "it is patently clear that law officers have become a special target for the terrorists and anarchists in our society."

Charles A. O'Brien, California chief deputy attorney general, said that revolutionaries have become so heavily armed—often with stolen military weapons—that they present "a clear and present danger to the security of the United States."

"The quantity of these weapons and handguns in unknown private hands raises the continuing specter of a situation in which the police are literally out-gunned," O'Brien said.

O'Brien, the Democratic candidate for California attorney general, charged that the Black Panthers and the militant Weatherman "are engaged in a conspiracy" and are staging "acts of revolution" throughout California.

Strom Thurmonds Expect First Child In March

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, 67, and his ex-beauty queen wife, 23, have announced they are expecting their first child in March.

"We're very happy. I have no other statement to make. We'll be very happy with whatever the Lord brings us," the South Carolina Republican told reporters who cornered him on the Senate floor Tuesday after the news raced across Washington.

An aide said the couple knew about the pregnancy for the past three months but kept it quiet. They have already made plans to move from Thurmond's high rise apartment on the Washington waterfront to a one-floor, four-bedroom house in McLean, Va.

Thurmond, a natty dresser and physical fitness buff, maried the former Nancy Moore in 1968. She was once Miss South Carolina and worked in his office as a secretary.

"I've been asked why I married a girl that young," Thurmond once said. "In old age, I would rather smell perfume than linament."

Roos/Atkins

Introducing a revolutionary new small car.

The Super Beetle.

You've never seen this car before.
It's 3 inches longer than a Volkswagen Beetle.
Yet it has nearly twice the luggage space.
It has a more powerful engine than the Beetle of old.
It has a shorter turning radius for easier parking.
It has a new suspension system for a more comfortable ride.
It has a larger fuel tank.
The brakes have been improved for quicker stops.
The front track has been widened for better handling.
The inside of the car, quite frankly, has more class.
It's fully carpeted.
The dashboard is more dashing.
It also has a new flow-through ventilation system with a 2-speed blower.
All in all, it's 89 ways different from a Volkswagen Beetle. Which in our opinion makes it a completely different automobile.
But in one very important way it remains the same:.
For in 1971, the year everyone is feverishly building their revolutionary new small cars, the name on the rear deck of this revolutionary new small car reads "VOLKSWAGEN."
